STILL IN DEADLOCK

Committee of Four at Sea Over Nominee

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The committee of four appointed by the democratic state convention to select a nominee for governor, went into session again this afternoon. There was little prospect of an early break in the deadlock.

No Fifth Member

Adjournment at noon for a meeting at 5 p. m. found the committee still deadlocked. During the session Mr. Stuyvesant's motion to ratify the recommendation of Congressman Foss for a convention recall was deadlocked. So too the motion of Mr. Crowley that Mr. Foss be asked for a statement similar to the Hamlin statement, to support any candidate the committee chose.

A third deadlock came when Mr. Macleod moved that Mr. Hamlin be asked if he favored Mr. Foss' recommendation for a second convention.

The fourth deadlock of the morning resulted when Mr. Crowley named Judge Lilly of Lowell, a member of the superior bench, as the fifth member of the committee. Mr. Macleod said that he would not vote for a fifth member of the committee at this time as he wished to know what action the state committee, which meets today, would take. Mr. Crowley said that he did not consider that the committee of four ought to be influenced by the state committee, inasmuch as the committee of four was appointed by the convention for the purpose of carrying out the will of the convention.

Mr. Maynard then brought another deadlock by moving that the selection of the fifth member of the committee be postponed until the next meeting.

Mr. Crowley then presented a list of eight names for a choice for the fifth member of the committee. These were: Michael Dwyer of Boston, Judge Henry Blake of Fall River, Judge Charles Decoursey of Greenfield, and Judge Charles of Lawrence, all members of the Massachusetts superior court; Bernard Wolf of Boston, J. J. Phelan of Boston and Patrick Keating of Boston. Each name was voted on in turn and each time there was a deadlock. Crowley and Maynard favoring Macleod and Maynard opposing.

Adjournment until 5 p. m. was taken.

Macleod Calls Meeting

A meeting of the democratic state committee was called by Chairman Frederick J. Macleod at 2:30 p. m. today to consider reconvening the delegates to the state convention at Faneuil hall on Saturday for the purpose of nominating a candidate for governor.

This proposition was advanced by Chairman Macleod in the Hotel Bellevue last night.

Congressman Eugene N. Foss, who has already stated above his signature that he was not a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, endorsed the suggestion made by Chairman Macleod in a letter to the latter last night.

The situation on the democratic end became more complicated than ever yesterday.

At the end of the fourth day the convention committee was as far away as ever from agreeing upon a candidate for governor.

The members of the committee are in a state of high nervous tension and there is a bitter feeling evident among them.

Macleod Makes Declaration

When the meeting adjourned at the Hotel Bellevue last night Chairman Macleod in the foyer announced that he had determined to "take the situation in his own hands" and that he already had called a meeting of the state committee today for the purpose of getting the delegates together for another convention on Saturday.

Rep. William Hayes of Springfield was present when the statement was made. He was very angry at the tone adopted by Macleod.

An interested crowd of lobbyists, clerks and guests listened to the ultimatum of the chairman of the state committee. James H. Vahry, who was standing nearby, flushed, but said nothing.

"This is no place to make such a statement," said Hayes. "Let us sit down to a table with the newspapermen." Macleod was finally persuaded to go down stairs to the lower cafe.

At this stage of proceedings, when the newspapermen had gathered around a table, Hayes, who is secretary of the meeting, interrupted Macleod's statement to read the minutes of the meeting.

He said that the committee, for the second time during the day, had voted on the names of Hamlin and Foss, and that both times there had been a deadlock. Mr. Robert Crowley of Lowell and Hayes of Springfield voted for Hamlin and against Foss, and Chairman Joseph Maynard of the democratic city committee and Chairman Macleod of the state committee voted for Foss and against Hamlin.

$11,000 DUTY

PAID BY MRS. W. K. VANDERBILT

FOR IMPORTED GOWNS

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt applied yesterday with her daughters, the Misses Margaret Stuyvesant, Ruthven and Barbara Calveross, to the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie. She had 45 trunks and paid $11,000 duty on Persian gowns and jewelry for herself and her daughters. It is the largest amount of money collected on a steamship pier from a single person this year. It took a force of inspectors five hours to examine the trunks and verify the declaration. The party also brought in $200,000 worth of jewelry which they proved had been bought in the United States.

Observed by Street Parade and Services at Sacred Heart Church

A parade under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus and including members of different Catholic societies took place this forenoon. The parade formed in Moody street near city hall shortly after 9 o'clock and proceeded to the Sacred Heart church, Moore st., where mass was celebrated by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., and at which a sermon which will be found on page seven was preached by Rev. Denis Sullivan, O. M. I. It was a military mass, the O. M. I. Cadets constituting the military feature.

The parade was headed by a platoon of police. Sgt. Martin Connors, in charge. All officers of the platoon were members of the Knights of Columbus. Next in order was Chief Marshal Thomas J. O'Donnell and staff, and then came the O. M. I. Cadets stepping to the music of their own band. Next in line were delegations from Catholic societies including the Mathews and Knights of Equity, then the American band and the Knights of Columbus. There were about 400 men in line together with 250 O. M. I. Cadets and they made a very creditable showing. One company of the Cadets wore khaki uniforms and the other blue.

The parade from Monument square to the church was over the following route: Merrimack street to Central, to Gorham, to Moore, thence to the Sacred Heart church. At the conclusion of the mass the parade marched over the same route reversed, back to the city hall, where exercises were held.

The following were aids to the marshal: Captain John J. Monahan, Lieut. Bernard F. McArdle, John Hamlin, William McCauley, Richard O'Connell, Joseph Handley, Arthur McQuade, Walter Flynn, John Kivlan, Michael Adams, Frederick Rooney, and John R. Murphy.

The Knights in parade wore black derby hats, dark clothes, black shoes, dark ties and white gloves, and they wore the Columbus day souvenir medal. The Associate building in which is located the headquarters of the Knights of Columbus was quite profusely decorated, the features of the parade were the six tone Gregorian and the sanctuary choir of the Sacred Heart church assisted in the music. Its singing was a revelation as to what boys can do under proper training. The Credo was particularly fine. Mrs. Muldoon presided with her usual ability at the organ. Mrs. Muldoon at the offertory sang the "Salve Regina," which was a favorite hymn of Columbus. James E. Donnelly sang the "Veni Creator with the effect. The choir was augmented by many singers from other Catholic choirs.

The congregation, including those who had turned out in the parade and many more, taxing the capacity of the church, many being unable to find even standing room.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flags and national colors, while around the sanctuary were placed potted palms.

After the procession approached the church, the school children massed against the new parade, and at the close of the mass the sanctuary choir and congregation sang with great volume and harmony "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

Officers Closed, Stores Open

The holiday is being officially observed in Lowell. All the municipal, state and county buildings are closed, and the national banks and trust companies are also closed. The large corporations of the city, the mills and machine shops are in operation, and their employees are reported for work this morning as usual. The Edison Electric company closed down in honor of the day.

Most of the stores in the city kept open for business, but along Central, Merrimack, Middlesex, and Gorham streets most of the stores were very appropriately decorated with bunting, the national colors, and pictures illustrating the story of the great explorer's discovery.

MINOR ACCIDENTS

James Johnson met with a slight accident this morning while coming through the South corner on his way to work in the Appleton mill. He fell and struck his head against the side of a great and sustained a cut which required three stitches. He was treated at the Emergency hospital.

There were present also in the same parade Rev. Frs. McQuaid, Fox and Fletcher.

MONSTER CELEBRATION

Boston Observes Columbus Day on Grand Scale

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Columbus day was observed for the first time in Massachusetts today. The celebration centered in Boston, where a parade of 60,000 men was reviewed by President William H. Taft, Gov. Eben S. Draper, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Archbishop William H. O'Connell and by Col. John J. Sullivan of the Ninth regiment, M. V. M., as chief marshal.

Although legally a public holiday, the principal observances were almost entirely Roman Catholic. The parades all were members of Catholic societies except the military. Knights of Columbus, the Ancient Order of Foresters, the Massachusetts Order of Foresters, Polish and Portuguese societies, and the Holy Name society, composed the six divisions of the long line which required several hours to pass a given point and was more than an hour on the line of march.

A gun salute at sunrise officially opened the day's exercises, the first of which was a solemn pontifical mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. In his sermon to the thousands who thronged the cathedral, Archbishop O'Connell after remarking on Columbus' triumph and following a scholarly review of the discoverer's achievement, said: "Italy and Spain participate in the glory of his achievement. It is well to recall this fact today when other councils prevail for the time is either country. Short-sighted statesmen of the present time ignore the illustrious history of the past when both countries were in complete submission to the voice of the Holy See and seek now to create a prejudice in these countries against ecclesiastics and all that they represent."

"If, in the providence of God, Italy and Spain had their golden age and gave birth to achievements which dazzled the world, precisely at that time when ecclesiastics stood in place and power and when catholicity primacy over mind and hearts, how fatuous it is in these days to try to deceive the people by representing church as the enemy of civilization and progress."

The mass was celebrated by the Rev. Mr. Prince Ferdinand de Croy of Mons, Belgium, one of Cardinal Vanneville's staff.

At 11 o'clock the starting of the parade was set at noon and the line of march was almost entirely within the business section, largely deserted by the usual traffic because of the holiday. The start was in the Back Bay. Here it was reviewed by Archbishop O'Connell, then at the state house by President Taft and Governor Draper, whose guest the president was, and on Mason street by Mayor Fitzgerald, and at the finish at Park square by Chief Marshal Sullivan.

President Taft planned to reach the state house about noon, motoring up from directly. The president's star was expected to heat several hours, but in the event of the parade being an unusually long one in passing, he had informed the governor that he must leave before its finish, probably about two o'clock.

The day was observed in a social manner more than by sports. Catholic clubs kept open house and many had arranged club affairs. There were a large number of high school and minor football games and in the evening a display of fireworks was arranged.

LAWRENCE ITALIANS

HAVE A "NIGHT BEFORE" CELEBRATION

LAWRENCE, Oct. 12.—The observance of Columbus day was ushered in last evening, when the Italian residents held a parade. The observance began with a salute of bombs on the common. Accompanied by two bands the paraders proceeded from the vicinity of the city hall, carrying torches and lanterns. Following the parade a concert was given by a band.

This morning there was another salute and a parade. At 2 o'clock high mass was celebrated in the church of the Holy Rosary by Rev. Fr. Milano, who will also speak on "Columbus." Masses will be said in other Catholic churches.

Several thousand are expected to be in line in the parade in the afternoon, of which Capt. Frank L. Donovan is chief marshal. Mayor Cahill will review the parade at the corner of Essex and Broadway streets. In the evening Judge M. T. Murray of Boston will deliver an address in the city hall.

DIX FOR GOVERNOR

New York's Democratic Candidate
Formally Accepts

THOMSON, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Planting himself squarely upon the platform adopted by the Rochester state convention and pledging his support to the principles enunciated therein, John A. Dix today formally accepted the nomination as the candidate of the democratic party for the office of governor of the state of New York.

Herbert P. Bissell, of Buffalo, the convention's presiding officer, officially notified Mr. Dix and the other candidates on the state ticket of their nomination.

National questions of grave importance, aside from questions of good government within the state, Mr. Bissell said are involved in this election.

"They relate to public extravagance in national affairs," he said. "There is also involved the curbing of the inordinate and reckless ambition of a former president of the United States, whose record, doctrines and methods present a menace to constitutional government and business prosperity."

In his speech of acceptance, delivered from a temporary platform extending out from the porch of his country residence here, Mr. Dix promised, if elected, to give the people of the state a business administration.

"There does not exist today," declared the candidate, "a human being who will attempt to deny that for years corruption has run riot in the official life of our capital. I do not know that it is possible for human agency to entirely eradicate this evil, but this I do know, if I become governor of this state I will turn on the searchlight and drive the black horse cavalry out of business."

Mr. Dix said he favored home rule for cities and sub-divisions of the state; a downward revision of the tariff; a statewide system of direct primaries; statewide uniform personal registration; popular election of United States senators and ratification of the income tax amendment to the federal constitution.

"But above all," said the candidate, "I will turn on the searchlight and drive the black horse cavalry out of business."

FAMINE THREATENED

Gigantic Strike

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Encouraged by the effectiveness of the strike of employees on the Northern and Western railroads and the extension of the movement today, the eastern road and the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean lines, the leaders of the French workingmen generally threatened a gigantic move to paralyze the activities of the whole country. Paris is threatened with famine.

The electricians and the employees of the omnibus, metropolitan and subway transportation lines of this city consider today the advisability of joining this favorable opportunity to launch a strike for a redress of long standing grievances. The situation throughout the republic is regarded as grave.

To the government's call to the colors to 30,000 strikers the latter reply that the military ends allows them a delay of 15 days before responding.

Tip to this afternoon the acts of violence have been confined to the cutting of telegraph wires and the tearing up of the tracks at several points. The Paris end of the western road strike is complete. The highways leading to Paris are blocked with humanity and the congestion was frightful at the city gate. Already the market is pinched. All the milk and fish enroute from Normandy and Belgium are stalled. The president of the grain syndicate said that the stock of flour on the Paris market today did not exceed 75,000 quintals. Paris consumes 10,000 quintals daily. The bakers, since some of them were accused of an attempt to corner flour at the time of the flood, do not carry a heavy reserve.

The National railroad union comprises only 100,000 of the total of 300,000 men employed in the railroad service but the non-union men are participating in the strike.

The government is adopting measures similar to those practiced in time of war.

DEATHS

KING—Jennie King, five-year-old daughter of John J. and Della C. King, died yesterday at the Lowell hospital. The body was removed to the home of the parents, 43 East 1st avenue, by Undertaker C. H. Molloy & Sons. Besides her parents, the deceased leaves three sisters, Mary, Anna and Helen.

DAVIS—Margaret Anna Davis, infant daughter of Wilbur C. and Catherine E. Davis, died this morning at the home of her parents, 107 Chapel street, aged two months.

KING—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John J. King of 43 East 1st avenue will be pained to learn of the death of their little daughter, Jennie, aged five years, which occurred yesterday afternoon. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon.

HEERIN—Theresa Heerin, aged 11 months and 2 days, died today at the home of her parents, Frank and Margaret, 53 Hudson street.

FUNERALS

GILMAN—The funeral of Mrs. Martha Ellen Gilman, the beloved wife of Warren Gilman, took place from her residence, 50 Varnum street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was largely attended. There were many beautiful offerings. The services were conducted by Rev. M. T. Whitaker, pastor of the Central M. E. church, and the following selections, "Nearer My God, To Thee," "One By One," and "We'll Never Say Goodbye," were sung by Mrs. F. L. Roberts and Harry Stocks.

The bearers were William Clee, John Gale, James Leighton, and Edward Coward. The committal services were held at the grave and the burial was in the family lot in the Mason cemetery in charge of Undertaker J. B. Corrier Co.

BYAM—The funeral of George Otis Byam was held yesterday afternoon from his residence on the Boston road, Chelmsford, and was very largely attended. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. The services were conducted by Rev. L. L. Grieco, pastor of the Unitarian church. The selections, "Lead Kindly Light," "Some Sweet Day, Day and Bye," and "The Homeland," were given by Mrs. Geo. Spaulding and Edward Everett Adams. The bearers were four sons of the deceased, Ralph, Otis, James and Herbert Byam. The body was laid at rest in the family lot at Hart pond cemetery, South Chelmsford. The arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Perlman.

BERNARD—The funeral of Helen Bernard, infant daughter of Fred and Helen, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her parents, 297 Dutton street. The burial was in the Edison cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

CHARLES GILBERT
DENLY IN HOTEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Charles Gilbert, the well known French opera baritone, died suddenly last night at a hotel. News of Mr. Gilbert's death did not become known until today. He arrived from Europe last week to sing in the coming season with the Metropolitan opera company after four seasons with the Manhattan company.

Gilbert was to have sung next week with the Boston symphony orchestra at Boston and Cambridge, Mass.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION CALL FOR FRIDAY

At democratic headquarters this morning it was announced that the Seventh district democratic senatorial convention, which comprises wards 5 and 9 of Lowell, ward 6 of Lynn, and several towns, would be held in Lowell, democratic headquarters, Friday afternoon, October 14th, at 3 o'clock. The democratic headquarters are located at 228 Central street. The call has been issued legally by the chairman of the district committee, Edward Gallagher, who is also a member at large of the democratic state central committee for the fifth democratic congressional district.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Contending that his party loyalty had been questioned through the failure of E. P. Prentice, the new chairman of the republican state committee, to reappoint him a member of the executive committee of the state committee, William Barnes, of Albany has tendered his resignation as state committee member from the 23rd congressional district, comprising Albany and Schoharie counties. Mr. Barnes led the fight against the nomination of Col. Roosevelt as temporary chairman of the recent republican state convention at Saratoga.

In his letter Mr. Barnes says: "In reading the list of the members of the executive committee of the state committee, announced by you this morning, I find that my name is not among the number."

"The mere fact of membership in the executive committee is entirely unimportant, but after having served as a member of that committee ever since I was first elected to the state committee in 1892 the mission involves the inevitable conclusion that your action was caused either by your belief that my services would not be useful or by the fact that I was faithless to the republican ticket. Under neither supposition can I rest."

"Having been a member of the executive committee for 18 years, if my services are no longer useful or my party loyalty is questioned by you as the head of the organization, then I am no longer qualified to serve under you as a member of the state committee itself."

MORE ARTILLERY

Murray for Stronger
Coast Defence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Brigadier-General Murray, chief of coast artillery, in his annual report to the war department on the efficiency of personnel of the service strongly advocates an increased detail of artillery troops to man the coast defense of this government.

"It is believed to be established beyond dispute," says General Murray in his report, "that in order to insure efficient handling of our coast defenses in time of war it is necessary that we should maintain in time of peace at least one full manning detail of coast artillery troops."

"In time of war we must have at each place likely to attack such a number of coast artillery troops that they will be sufficient not only to form a full manning detail but to maintain a full manning detail, allowing for absentees, sick and wounded. And in case of a long continued attack or siege it is more than probable that for some of the elements if not all it will be necessary to maintain more than one full manning detail in order to provide reliefs."

The report shows that the actual strength of the coast artillery corps on July 1, 1910, was 634 officers and 18,100 enlisted men. The authorized strength on that date was 672 officers and 19,321 enlisted men. The fact that the number enrolled is so near the authorized strength was ascribed by General Murray to the fact that Congress in 1908 authorized an increase in pay to all grades in the service.

COMMON COUNCIL
Board of Health Wants $7700 Additional

The common council at a regular meeting held last night voted to adhere to its former action to appropriate $2000 additional for the wages of street laborers.

The board of health asked for an additional appropriation of $7700 for salaries and sundries. The communications were referred to the committee on appropriations.

A communication from the park commission reporting adversely on a proposed new playground near Hudson and Richardson streets was placed on file.

A communication from Supt. Whittcomb of the school department, relative to the law demanding new drinking cups, was referred to the inspector of buildings.

The order for $300 for Columbus day came up on reconsideration, the council having voted against the order at the last meeting. Councilmen Gargan and Sullivan were of the opinion that action at this time was unnecessary, and it was voted to table the matter.

SWISS GOV'T
PREPARES TO COMMUNICATE WITH PORTUGAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The Swiss government is preparing to enter into communication with the new government of Portugal, according to advices today from American Minister Swenson at Bern. Minister Gage at Lisbon cabled under yesterday's date that the king's yacht Amelia, after leaving the royal family at Gibraltar, returned to Lisbon, where she was delivered into the hands of the government in power.

KING MANUEL WILL BE THE GUEST OF DUKE OF ORLEANS

EVESHAM, England, Oct. 12.—King Manuel of Portugal and Queen Mother Amelia have accepted the invitation of the Duke of Orleans to become his guests in Wood Norton. The queen mother and king will embark on the Victoria and Albert as soon as the imperial yacht reaches Gibraltar and proceed at once to England.

The house in which Amelia spent her childhood stands on the duke's estate, a short distance from Wood Norton.

KING'S PROPERTY

Lisbon

LISBON, Oct. 11.—A detachment of soldiers making the round at the Campolide Jesuit college this morning was fired upon. One of the men was killed and another seriously wounded. Minister of the Interior Almeida, questioned regarding the disposal of the king's property, said that nothing had yet been decided upon officially. All the palaces are closed and carefully guarded. They probably will be converted into museums or schools, or used for other public purposes. He believed that any property or palaces belonging to the king personally would be kept for him, but it is to be remembered that if the king left debts to the nation, these debts must be satisfied.

NOVEL DISPLAY
PEARSON

Have you seen it? There's no doubt that you have, or else someone must have told you about it, for it is the talk of the town. What is it? Well, if you have not heard as yet I suppose curiosity will grasp you and you will be uneasy until the spell is broken. That which we refer to is the wax figures in the window display at the store of Fred H. Pearson on Merrimack street. There's certainly "some class" to the display and it is the most novel which has ever been shown in this city in connection with the shoe business. The introduction of life size figures in the shoe business was always considered as a good thing but some of the most popular shoe merchants of the country looked upon the introducing of the figures with the display of their goods as ridiculous and would not give any thought to the idea. After some work and likewise persuasion on the part of the men behind the project, the men who had previously been against the innovation decided to try it with the result that it created a furore on account of its novel conception and was immediately accepted and placed in almost every store in the union.

It remained for Fred Pearson to place the novelty in this city and this he has done with the same alacrity that he has brought other novelties in his line here.

BOY BULLET SHIELD ANSWERS TO THE SUN THEATRE PUZZLE CONTEST POURING IN

Fatally Shot by New York Seats for the Winners at the Opera House Saturday Night

TEN PRIZES FOR SUCCESSFUL CONTESTANTS

Latter Killed Himself When Cornered by 'Infuriated Mob'—Man Who Held Up Boy to Protect Himself Made His Escape

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A schoolboy, Charles Fisher, of 1439 Madison avenue, was playing ball with other boys in Madison avenue at East 103d street about the time the homecoming workers were crowding the neighborhood last night. Two men stopped at the southeast corner and began to fight. One of the men pulled a revolver from his pocket, the other yelled and ran toward Charles Fisher. The frightened man picked up Charles and held the boy in front of him as a shield from the expected bullets.

"Don't be a damn fool," the frightened man cried as he tried to make his escape. "Look out, Biff—don't shoot the kid!"

Charles added his yells of terror to those of the man holding him. As the boy tried to struggle away from the man with the revolver fired. The bullet entered Charles's head. The man, for whom the bullet was meant to go off of Charles, and the boy crumpled to the pavement. He died two hours later in Harlem hospital.

The homegoers who had been halted by the crack of the pistol came charging toward the corner where the boy lay. The man who had held him turned and ran eastward through 103d street. No one paid much attention to him just then, and he got away. He disappeared, some say, in a tenement on the south side of 103d street, half a block from where the shooting took place.

Biff Clark, a prize fighter, is the man who did the shooting. Biff's real name is said to be Harry Greenwald, 25 years old. The nearest the police have come to his home address is McKinley square, The Bronx. He and another man—thought to be the one who last night ran from the crowd—some time ago rented a room together in the building in front of which the shooting occurred, but what they did in the room has not been learned.

The fight between the two and the loud argument that preceded it had been noticed only by Charles Fisher and his playmates, and very few saw the man who carried away the body. The crowd thought that Biff Clark had shot the boy wantonly, and so they charged upon Biff savagely.

From shops and tenement doors and from passing cars and the streets running off in four directions they converged toward the spot. He swung in a quick circle once or twice with a revolver and held the leaders of the crowd back for a moment. While there was still an opening in the narrow circle of faces Biff broke through and ran south on Madison avenue with a handful of people jostling and yelling behind him.

Once free of the crowd there was an open way ahead of Biff Clark. Those who thought to stop the murderer jumped clear as he pointed his revolver at them, and he ran on. When he reached 101st street the fastest sprinter in a mob now must have numbered almost 1000 were waiting upon the fugitive. He turned west on 101st street, with the clattering and yelling at his heels.

The crowd was almost within grabbing reach when he got to Fifth avenue. At the door of 1208 Fifth avenue Clark turned and disappeared in the dark hallway of the first house. The leaders could hear him tramping up the steps, but only Policeman Seales ventured to follow the man with the revolver. For a quarter of an hour Seales searched the house, but Clark seemed to have got away.

Some of the crowd ran through hallways to search the back house. Clark, who evidently had been on the roof while the policeman was searching the flat house, must have thought the street door was clear again, for he suddenly appeared in the doorway of 1208.

Those who saw his face yelled the news and back came the searchers. With Seales in the lead they struggled into the hallway after Clark. At the far end of the hallway he stopped beneath a dim gaslight and braced himself against the wall. The crowd was closing on him. He pressed the revolver against his temple, fired twice and dropped dead.

For hours afterward the excited residents of the upper East Side kept the neighborhood in a ferment. So great was the crowd in Madison avenue that all traffic was blocked until Police Captain Corcoran and the rioters from the East 104th street station cut a passage for the trolley cars through the jam.

Charles Fisher was hurried to Harlem hospital. At 7:20 o'clock last night he died. The body of Clark, or Greenwald, was first taken to the East 104th street police station and later removed to the morgue.

While detectives were making an unsuccessful search for the man who had held Charles Fisher in front of him some of the men began the quarrel in Cohen's pool room in the basement of 1503 Madison avenue, which is on the corner where the first shot was fired. Clark and the other man, the boys say, began to argue about their pool score and the other man put up his cue in anger and left the place. The boys say that they then saw Clark take his revolver from his pocket, try it out by firing it off through a rear window and then reload the empty chamber and follow the other man to the street.

Clark, so some who have seen him in preliminary bouts say, was looked upon by "fight promoters" as a "corner." Men in the neighborhood said that he had begun training for a fight next month with the negro pugilist known as the Dixie Kid.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

A fair sized audience went into vapors over the second performance of Jerome K. Jerome's beautiful play, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," at the opera house last evening and Manager Ward is to be congratulated upon presenting such an unusually fine production at the local theatre before its production in Boston. The play has yet to be seen by Boston theatre-goers.

"THE SMART SET"

A three-act musical comedy that differs from its contemporaries in divers ways will be the attraction at the opera house tonight. It is from the pen of Edwin Hanford and is entitled "His Honor the Barber." As presented by the famous "Smart Set" company, with S. H. Dudley in the title role, the offering has become one of the real treats of the season.

Although the comedy contains fifteen original songs—hits, musical numbers and ensembles it could easily hold its own on the strength of its brisk and humorous dialogue, situations, novelties, features, etc., and the interpretation of the company itself which is composed of sixty capable people. Mr. Dudley is seen at his best as Raspberry Snow, a negro who wants to shave the president of the United States. As Mr. Dudley portrays the character it becomes one of the funniest and best developed types seen hereabouts in years. "Rastus," the trained donkey, which was such a favorite last season, has been retained.

"Rastus" is the constant companion of Raspberry and there are many side-splitting adventures during the action of the play. In point of durable excellence, style and originality, the comedy is said to be the most pretentious offered in years. Edwin Hanford wrote the book, and Messrs. Bryn Smith and Burris furnished the lyrics and music, and Messrs. Barlow and Wiewell are the owners. The costumes, which are said to be the most original seen on the stage in many a day, were selected from plates furnished by William H. Barnes.

Aida Overton Walker forms an attractive part of the production. She will introduce a singing and dancing specialty said to be the best of its kind offered on any stage.

"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

Wm. A. Brady announces the eminent comedian Thos. A. Wise in "A Gentleman from Mississippi" at the opera house on Friday and Saturday. Comedy cannot state this uproarious comedy, which is now in its third year of success and it bids fair to go on until the copyright expires. A long stage career is the more assured for it because it is so absolutely true to life. It represents. Throughout the story, the gray threads of pathos and the white threads of good deeds, and from these variegated strands authors Harrison Rhodes and Mr. Wise who is also co-author of the play, have woven a tapestry of humor, love and kindness that touch alike the heart and eye, and the figures stand out with startling fidelity to life. Mr. Wise will be seen in his now famous laughing and will be supported by the entire company that appeared during the record breaking run of 16 weeks at the Park theatre, Boston, last season.

BINGVILLE RUGLE FOLKS

Newton Newkirk's famous cartoon characters, "Bingville Rugle Folks" have at last been dramatized and will be seen here at the opera house next Thursday night, Oct. 13th. "Bingville Folks" have long been one of the comic features of the Boston Sunday Post, and it is said that the characters are presented in a dramatic form have developed into a splendid rural comedy drama that is meeting with great success wherever presented. The company is said to be an excellent one, headed by Jonathan Kreefe, and is presented with splendid stage settings carried by the company. "Bingville Rugle Folks" will be presented here for one performance, Thursday, Oct. 13th.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

To hear grand opera sung by grand opera singers is the sort of a musical treat that everybody is anxious to have. Such is afforded patrons of the Merrimack Square theatre this week, however, in the offering presented by Emil Gierster, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera company in New York and a baritone of international renown. He is accompanied by his wife, a splendid soprano singer, and the two offer selections from the most popular grand operas. It is an act well worth hearing, and more than once, too.

So successful has the engagement of this act proved, in fact, that the management of the theatre has decided to designate Thursday evening as grand opera night, and at that performance the Giersters, as they are billed, will present a special program of unusual merit.

There are plenty of other good acts on the bill, too. Blake's animal circus, with its trained monkeys and ponies and dogs, makes a great hit with the children. Maud is with the circus, also Maud, the original bucking mule. She is a whole act in herself.

The scenic Stock company presents an intensely interesting little play, "The Blacksmith." It is the best thing the company has yet given. James R. Waters is a character comedian of unusual attainments, and Fred Pearsall is a harpstone soloist already well known and popular in Lowell. Excellent moving pictures are interspersed on the program.

Have you entered The Sun's contest for seats at the Opera House next Saturday night? Answers to the headless puzzle are pouring in, and there will be ten lucky persons, who, with their families or friends will see "A Gentleman From Mississippi," the play that convulsed Boston for sixteen weeks last season and which comes to the Opera House for an engagement of two nights, Friday and Saturday, of this week with Saturday matinee. Now is the time to get busy solving the problem of which head belongs on each body. Paste the heads where they belong, and send the picture to the Theatre Contest Editor of The Sun. The girls are members of the Thos. A. Wise company and by special arrangement with Louis Miller, business manager for Wm. A. Brady, The Sun gives you the opportunity of seeing the original.

Prizes will be awarded for next Saturday evening's performance at the Opera House. First will be two orchestra seats; the second, two more orchestra seats; the third, two orchestra seats; the fourth, two orchestra seats, and so on. The contest closes at ten o'clock Friday morning, October 14th. No solutions submitted later than that hour will be considered. The ten prizes offered will be awarded the ten persons whose correct solutions reach The Sun office first. Winners will be announced in Friday's Sun when the young women with their heads regained will be depicted.

Middlesex North Held Its Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Middlesex north agricultural society yesterday afternoon action was taken to learn how many of the 1500 persons whose names are on the lists as members are living. It was also said that the secretary of the state board wished that the name of the Middlesex north agricultural society should be prominent when fairs are held in conjunction with any of the granges.

It was voted to hold a fair next year. Dracut grange invited the society to hold it in that town, but the matter was held over for future consideration. Resolutions were adopted on the deaths of Ex-Pres. Arthur H. Chior of Lowell, Ex-Pres. Henry J. Tolles of Dunstable and E. C. Farwell of Reading, a member of the board of trustees.

The treasurer reported that the society had on hand $7131.94, about $39.45 less than last year. The following officers were elected:

George W. Trull, Townsboro, pres.;

George W. Trull, Townsboro, pres.;

Dr. Greene's NERVURA

BLOOD NERVE REMEDY

TIED TO THE DESK.

How long can they stand it? Hour after hour, day after day, year after year, books, accounts, figures, statements! Arthritic young men grow narrow, cheated and pale. Strong, vigorous fellows shrivel up into weak, sickly, irritable, round shouldered fellows!

Think it over now! Are you getting this way? Are you losing ground? Have you some chronic trouble? Don't take any chances. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will make a new man of you.

Mr. H. F. Davis, 209 Catherine Street, Syracuse, N. Y., says:

"I was induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy at that particular time of the year when a person's system is generally run down. I tried it as a remedy and to say that it benefited me would not express my feelings. It seemed to take hold of the whole system and strength and make new all parts which seemed to have served their time."

"As a blood purifier and a system builder Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy far exceeds all other remedies and stands in a class by itself. I shall always be pleased to say a good word for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy whenever the opportunity offers."

Mr. T. F. Smith, Clinton, N. J., says:

"I was very nervous and run down, had complete loss of appetite and always had that tired feeling. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cured me. You can use my testimonial, as I consider Nervura a wonderful medicine."

ROOSEVELT FLEW STAR PITCHERS WHO WILL MEET IN HIGHLANDER-GIANTS SERIES

Took Trip in Flying Machine at Kinloch Park, Near St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12.—Theodore Roosevelt yesterday made an airplane flight as the passenger of Archibald Hoxsey and said it was the finest sensation he ever had experienced. He traveled twice around the aviation field at Kinloch Park, in three minutes and 20 seconds. He waved his hand at the thousands of spectators much to the discomfort of the aviator, who feared that the colonel might hit a controlling cord. When the machine alighted easily a few feet from the starting place, a mighty shout of applause went up.

Hoxsey, a Wright aviator, said that Mr. Roosevelt made a good passenger except that he was afraid the colonel would fall out or interfere with the engine. The colonel waved his hands at the crowd so vigorously that Hoxsey called out to him, "Keep your hands on the rail, colonel."

Colonel Roosevelt, who had forgotten to hold himself in, waved his hands once more and then obeyed orders. The colonel's flight was a surprise to everybody. Although he had been invited to go, no one had the least idea that he would do so, and he himself did not decide to fly until the moment before he stepped into the machine.

The trip to the aviation field to watch the airplane flights was in the afternoon's program of the colonel's day in St. Louis.

THE POLICE BOARD BARNEY OLDFIELD

Promoted Probationary Men to Regular Reserve Suspended for Taking Up Johnson

The board of police met in regular session last night, but there was very little business of importance transacted at the regular meeting other than the promotion of a number of police officers from the probationary to the regular reserve force.

The hearing on the petition of the Montefiore society, that the special police officer license of Moses Shapiro be revoked, was scheduled to take place, but inasmuch as the person who had petitioned the appointment of the officer was not present, it was decided to postpone the hearing until the next meeting night.

The following is a list of the officers who were promoted from the probationary to the regular reserve force:

Patrick Connolly, Michael Connolly, Joseph L. Constance, Louis G. A. I. LeMay, Jerome P. Cullen, William L. Kegan, Patrick B. Clark, Thomas E. Tighe, William P. Reagan, Martin B. Crowe, Joseph H. Johnson, Alfred J. Cooney, William J. Koney, Michael H. Wynne and Patrick F. Noonan.

The board took the following action in regard to minor licenses:

Licenses granted:

Job wagon—Manoog Andorlian, 57 Lakeview avenue.

Hawker and peddler—Arthur J. Lock, 37 Belmont street, Lawrence; William A. Stoley, 33 Howard street, Lawrence.

MILK QUESTION

HEARING TO BE HELD IN REGARD TO INSPECTION

There will be a public hearing by the state legislative committee on the inspection of milk, in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville, on Thursday, October 20, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Everybody will be given an opportunity to express his opinion and suggestions bearing on the subject will be welcomed by the committee.

LAJOIE VS. COBB

"Ty" Regrets Controversy Has Arisen

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Pres. Robert Hedges of the St. Louis Browns is plugging for Nap Lajoie in the controversy attending the American league batting honors.

During a conference yesterday with Pres. Johnson of the American league the Mount City owner supported King Larry, asserting that the latter was entitled to coach and every one of the eight hits credited to him in the double-header Sunday.

According to Hedges, infielder Corridon played back on the grass every time Larry went to bat as if fearful lest the Cleveland slugger might line-drive in his direction. Other players had warned Corridon to be careful when Lajoie was batting, and the youngster was merely following instructions.

The league chief yesterday telegraphed Umpire Billy Evans, who officiated during the games, asking for a complete statement, together with the scores, from the St. Louis official scorer. After considering these reports Johnson will be prepared to make his decision.

Thus far Lajoie hasn't received a word of congratulation from Cobb on the batting competition. For years it has been the custom of the second heavy swatter to send a line of good cheer to the victor, but the Georgian has overlooked this little courtesy.

"JAWN O'BRIEN"

RE-ELECTED MANAGER OF FALL RIVER TEAM

FALL RIVER, Oct. 12.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fall River baseball club was held last evening, the most important item being the re-election of John H. O'Brien manager for the season of 1911. The nine board of directors was re-elected, Joseph J. McDonald, John E. Torphy, Joseph P. Mooney and Harold Crook.

Plans for next season were discussed at some length. The past season was not a profitable one from a financial standpoint, the balance sheets showing a net loss of $700.

FREIGHT RATES

DISCUSSED BY INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Investigation by the interstate commerce commission into the proposed advance in freight rates in eastern trunk line territory was resumed today at the commission's offices after an adjournment of the hearing from New York city.

CORRIDON EXPLAINS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—John L. Corridon, who played third base for St. Louis Sunday, when Lajoie of Cleveland made eight hits in two games, said yesterday he played so far back of third base because he was afraid of the speed in Lajoie's hits.

"I want to remain in baseball for some years," said Corridon. "I was not going to get killed playing in on Lajoie. Lajoie is known as a hard hitter, and I played far back."

Manager O'Connor of the Browns says there is nothing to investigate in the matter. He denies that he ever gave any order or suggestion looking to favoritism for Lajoie.

COBB MAKES NO KICK

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Tyrus Cobb of the Detroit team, who with the list of heavy hitters in the American league, arrived in this city last night. He said he did not care to discuss the recent game at St. Louis where Lajoie made eight hits in eight times at bat, which may place Lajoie first in the batting averages for the year.

"I was surprised when I read of the result of the game in the papers," said Cobb, "and am sorry that either Lajoie or myself did not win the prize for the highest average without anything occurring which could cause unfavorable comment. I am not prepared to make any charges against either Lajoie or members of the St. Louis team."

WANTS HAMILTON

HAVERRILL MANAGER DESIRES HIS RETURN

HAVERRILL, Oct. 12.—Daniel F.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Thomas F. Ryan has offered a $10,000 prize for the fastest flight from Belmont park over the statue of Liberty during the international aviation tournament, Oct. 22 to 30. It is the largest prize to be won for any one feat. The details of the contest have not been formulated, but it is said that it is probable that each aviator will be allowed to select his own route. Mr. Ryan announced this prize in a cable message to his son, Allan A. Ryan, who is acting as the business director of the tournament. In the message Mr. Ryan simply offered the $10,000, instructing that it be used for any prize that Allan A. Ryan and the Lancy Neill might determine upon. They at once selected the statue of Liberty flight. The aviation committee is now working on the rules to govern the competition. If the flight is made in direct line and over South Brooklyn the distance to the statue and return will be about 33 miles. Should the flight be made from the aerodrome to the sea and up the harbor the distance would then be about 65 miles. American air men, as a rule, are opposed to flying over populous districts, but some of the French competitors may attempt the feat and take the short course. Arrangements will be made to place the statue in wireless communication with the judges' stand on the aviation field, so that the exact moment when each aviator turns the statue can be instantly announced to the crowds at the tournament.

The Famous Rayo

should always be used where several people sit, because it does not strain the eyes of those sitting far from it.

The Rayo Lamp is constructed to give the maximum diffused white light. Every detail that increases its light-giving value has been included.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp. You may pay $5, $10 or even $20 for other lamps and get a more expensive container—but you cannot get a better light than the Rayo gives.

WORLD'S RECORD SPEAKER CANNON

For Time in Air Made by Welch at St. Louis Has Opposition in His Home Town

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12.—A. L. Welch in a Wright biplane yesterday created a new endurance record for America, of three hours, 11 minutes and 55 seconds. The previous record was made by Ralph Johnstone at Asbury Park, N. J., in a hours, 5 minutes and 40 seconds. Welch ascended at the Kinloch aviation field at 1.48 o'clock. Most of the time he flew at high altitudes.

Alfred LeBlanc, a French aviator drove his Bleriot monoplane for the first time in America at the local meet yesterday. He was greeted with enthusiasm and made two flights, one of which was highly spectacular.

ELY GIVES UP

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Eugene Ely, an aviator yesterday gave up his attempt to make a flight from Chicago to New York for the $25,000 prize offered by the Chicago Evening Post and the New York Times. Ely left his aeroplane in a field near South Chicago, 21 miles from Hawthorne park, whence he started at 4.11 p. m. and departed for Cleveland. The machine will be shipped to New York today.

Ely declared that his continued trouble with his aeroplane was due to the failure of mechanics to arrange the gasoline tank on the machine properly. He said that the gasoline feed was interrupted by a lack of a vent hole in the tank.

BOWLING NEWS

The formal opening of the bowling season took place last night when the Manufacturers' league brought itself into the line light, three games being played. In the game between the Bigelow Co. and Hoot Co. the former took two points and the total. Two game between the Massachusetts quintet and Tremont & Suffolk aggregation resulted in a severe trouncing for the latter team. The Appletons and Hamiltons were there with the close game for there was a difference of but seven pins between the two teams with the smoke of the battle cleared away.

HOUGH VICTOR

Defeated Tommy Quill in Eight Rounds

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Leo Hough of Lancaster, Pa., won over Tommy Quill of Brockton in the eighth round of a scheduled 12 round bout at the Armory Athletic association last night. Quill was hopelessly outclassed. Hough sent the Brockton boy to the mat in the first round with a right uppercut and punished him badly every round to the eighth. In the eighth Quill went down for the count of nine from a left hook on the jaw. He rose and was sent down again, when his seconds threw the sponge into the ring.

Quill objected to meeting Hough, as the latter was six pounds overweight, but agreed to box on the understanding that the fight should be called a draw if both men were on their feet in the 12th round.

In the preliminaries Mike McIntire of St. John, N. B., outclassed Joe Murphy of Cambridge, and the bout was stopped in the sixth round. Joseph White of South Boston defeated Young Nadeau of Whitman in six rounds.

CONVENTION INVALID OFFICERS ARE NAMED

But Court Dismisses the Charge By State Branch of A. F. of L. of Conspiracy at Worcester

Another Convention Will be Held in Waltham—Lively Hearing on Recent Conventions Held in This City

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—That the democratic convention held in Lowell last Friday which nominated John J. Higgins for district attorney for the Middlesex county district was invalid but was no conspiracy was the decision rendered yesterday by Judge Richardson in the equity session of the Middlesex superior court.

Mr. Higgins, who is the republican candidate for reelection, announced in open court that he would decline to accept the democratic nomination in view of the circumstances under which the convention was called.

The hearing came as the result of a bill filed by James J. Irwin of Everett for an injunction to restrain William J. McCluskey from filing the certificate of nomination of Mr. Higgins.

Mr. Irwin charged that notices of the convention were sent out so late that only a small fraction of the delegates were present. It was alleged that Mr. Higgins and others interested in the republican county ring had conspired to pull off a snap convention and hand the party nomination to the republican candidate.

Judge Richardson, after hearing the evidence, declined to issue the injunction and absolved all persons concerned of any fraud or wrongdoing. He attributed the insufficient notice to the loose way in which by custom such conventions had been called in the past.

"I find," he said, "that the fact that the notices were sent out as they were was the result of the habitual loose way of doing such business. It was the loose way of doing things rather than any wicked, bad design to defraud people of their rights. The charges of wickedly and wrongfully conspiring are not maintained."

"The evidence failed utterly to show that Mr. Higgins took any part in any way, directly or indirectly, in calling the convention or getting himself the nomination. There is evidence to support any allegations of the bill as to him. An injunction is not needed here. The notices sent out were insufficient and the nomination was invalid. As to whether those having to do with the calling of a convention desire to take further action to call a convention, they may do as they see fit."

Thomas J. Boynton, counsel for the complainant, said that he would prosecute Mr. Higgins on the charge of conspiracy.

Mr. Higgins himself stated that in view of the circumstances and the objections of Mr. Irwin he would not accept the nomination. "I am in a position to say," he added, "that I should prefer that the democratic nomination be made to Mr. Irwin as their candidate. Of course, if a convention should be properly called and should nominate me, I should accept the nomination."

Mr. Irwin in the course of his testimony, under cross-examination, said that he had been told by Larry Smith, a detective, that one of the judges of the superior court had stated that the district attorney should have been impeached for the manner in which he conducted a recent criminal case.

His reason for implicating Mr. Higgins in the conspiracy, he said, was Mr. McCluskey's statement that he was with the county ring, and that they had to have him cover up their tracks.

Mr. Irwin further complained of Mr. Higgins' conduct toward Nelson P. Brown, of Everett, his opponent in the convention three years ago. Mr. Higgins, he said, had bargained with Brown for the nomination and had then broken his side of the bargain. Later, he charged, he had used his office to persecute Brown, attempting to indict him for perjury.

"A man of that character," said Mr. Irwin, "in my opinion is capable of doing the things that were done at Lowell."

William J. McCluskey of Lowell, chairman of the democratic Middlesex county district attorney committee, testified that there was no intention to steal the convention or to get a snap convention. He knew, he said, of no domination by the county ring to secure the nomination.

A CONFERENCE

DEVOTED SESSION TO CHILD PROTECTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Today's session of the International Humane conference here will be devoted exclusively to the discussion of child protection. Particular subjects to be dwelt upon are moving-picture shows and their influence on the child and legislation relating to children on the stage. The discussion on "Moving picture shows and the child" will be opened by T. H. Agnew of New Orleans, superintendent of the Louisiana Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

WORCESTER, Oct. 12.—Their sessions during the past two days having developed more business than was anticipated, the delegates to the annual convention of the Massachusetts branch, American Federation of Labor, continued their deliberations today with the election of officers and several committee reports before them. It was expected that the convention would take action before adjournment on resolutions regarding the coming state campaign in Massachusetts and on other subjects.

The election of officers was without great interest, President Durnin of Holyoke being unopposed for re-election as was Secretary-Treasurer Driscoll of Boston and most of the other officers. There were nine or ten candidates for the five vice-presidencies and nearly as many for the five places on the legislative committee. Haverhill was generally favored as the place of holding next year's convention.

In view of the discussion in the convention yesterday on the stand to be taken by the state branch in the coming elections, the report of political committee, headed by Chairman James W. Wall of Worcester, was awaited with much interest by the delegates. The convention yesterday voted to place no independent ticket in the field but it is probable that the committee will report in favor of using the utmost strength of the state branch in fulfilling its political slogan, "elect our friends, defeat our enemies."

No Political Party

The proposition to form a political party which should champion the labor cause was unanimously defeated late yesterday. The measure received an adverse report from the committee, while Frank H. McCarthy spoke at length upon the subject and the debate lasted for two hours. It was contended by Mr. McCarthy that every president was against the move and that the labor unionists could not expect to get a party which would work in such harmony and have enough strength to accomplish any effective work. He advised inspection of candid labor records and then voting for the best man.

Declaring the 84 hour bill governing the hours of labor for women and children was eminently satisfactory and in harmony with the expressed belief of our churches of every denomination, a resolution was passed to ask the aid of the clergymen through preaching one sermon on the subject previous to the state election November 8.

J. A. Lowell of South Lawrence spoke upon "Compensation for Injured Workmen" at the afternoon session.

MORSE'S PARDON A $10,000 HAUL

President Taft Will Not Act Hastily

BEVERLY, Oct. 12.—President Taft announced yesterday that he would decline to take any action whatever on recent applications for clemency in the case of Charles W. Morse, the convicted New York banker now serving a term in the federal prison at Atlanta until the papers in the case came to his desk through the regular routine channels and with a report from the department of justice.

The latest application in behalf of Morse was made today by Gilbert A. A. Peavey of Boston, whose daughter married a son of the former banker. The president told Mr. Peavey that he was not ready to act upon the case and would not until the papers had reached him and he had had time to examine them. Just when this would be, Mr. Taft said he didn't know. While generally opposed to hearings in pardon cases, the president told Mr. Peavey he would give him a chance to be heard before he had finally disposed of the case. Mr. Peavey came to the president with a letter from Representative McCall.

President Taft's plans for the return to Washington have been completed. He has decided to stop over in New York for two days as the guest of his brother, Henry W. Taft, who has just returned from Europe, and will not be back at the capital until October 20.

The president will leave Beverly next Monday afternoon the 17th and will reach New York Monday night. The visit is to be largely one of pleasure. Mr. Taft expects to attend the theatre two evenings and Mrs. Taft will finish her fall shopping.

Henry C. Ide, former governor-general of the Philippines and now minister to Spain, spent two hours with the president this afternoon.

H. F. McGregor of Texas, who has been visiting his old home in New Hampshire, saw the president yesterday and told of plans to build up the republican party in Texas.

Col. Isaac Ullman of New Haven and Charles M. Jarvis of Berlin, Conn., were among the president's visitors yesterday afternoon.

A delegation from the National Horse Shoe Manufacturers' Association, sightseeing along the North Shore, called on President Taft with a letter of introduction from Senator Lodge. The president asked his visitors if the automobile had cut in their business in any way and was told it had not been felt at all.

Mrs. Taft is still hunting for the next season. A decision as between three or four cottages between Beverly and Gloucester may be announced before the president leaves on Monday.

BOSTON & MAINE

Holds First Meeting Under New President

LAWRENCE, Oct. 12.—The annual meeting of the Boston & Maine railroad, the first under the presidency of Charles S. Melton, was held in the Grand Hotel rooms here today. The present board of 19 directors, including former President Lucius F. Tuttle, was unopposed for re-election and as the annual report had previously been given to the stockholders and the public the meeting was without special interest.

It was expected, however, that the directors in a meeting in Boston to be held later in the day would make several changes in the duties and titles of some of the executive officers, although it was believed all would be elected.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—While the family of the Rev. Francis H. Rowley was away yesterday, the Rowley home, 80 Mason terrace, in the exclusive Corey Hill section of Brookline, was ransacked of valuables estimated at $10,000.

With the discovery of the robbery it was found that the hired girl, Mary Schwartz, had disappeared.

The police of Greater Boston and the surrounding cities are searching for the missing woman, who is believed to have taken away the valuables, with the aid of accomplices, in an automobile.

The robbery was discovered yesterday afternoon when Miss Alice Rowley returned from a shopping trip in Boston.

Every room in the house had been ransacked, bureau drawers turned upside down and everything of value in the house stolen.

The servant suspected of the robbery is between 30 and 35 years old, a blonde, and short in stature. She is said to be remarkably good looking.

She had only been employed by the family about one week, and went to them from an employment bureau in Boston. She had several references from prominent people which are thought to have been bogus.

BATHING BARRED

Residents of Palmer Must Go Unwashed

PALMER, Oct. 12.—Tub bathing, unless one cares to use the Quabog river for a bathtub, is prohibited in an order issued by the Palmer Water Co. yesterday in an effort to conserve the rapidly diminishing supply which the town's reservoirs hold until autumn wells can be sunk and other steps taken.

The water yesterday had reached a point where it is but a few inches above the pipes through which it is pumped to the houses and stores and Chief Summers of the fire department declares that with two fire streams he could completely empty the pipes in 10 minutes. It was this condition that caused the water company to issue the notice to householders yesterday forbidding the drawing of water for bath tubs until further notice.

The water company has already made arrangements for the sinking of artesian wells to tide the town over until the reservoirs fill up again and this work was started early today. It will be several days, however, before the town will be able to draw upon this new supply to any extent.

Meanwhile, Fire Chief Summers has made arrangements for the protecting of property in case of fire to the best of his ability. The town's fire engine has been placed under a temporary shelter at the bank of the Quabog river with lines running into the water and steam constantly up.

From the engine a line of hose 900 feet long extends to Main street in the heart of the business district ready for instant use and another to a hydrant on Water street from which the back streets of the town could be supplied if the necessity arises. In addition, scores of chemical fire extinguishers are being distributed throughout the town.

Citizens are aiding the water company officials in conserving the supply as best they can, many of those living near the river making it a point to carry water from the river for all household purposes, using the town water for drinking purposes only.

POISONED WELL

Paris Green in Water at Haverhill

HAVERHILL, Oct. 12.—The police yesterday began investigating what is believed to be an attempt to poison Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lander of 1107 Broadway and their three children, a large quantity of paris green having been thrown into their well. The family has not used the well for the past two weeks, owing to the dry spell the well having run dry.

A few days ago, when the Lander family's dog died suddenly and the cat was missing, Mr. Lander had his suspicions aroused. A quantity of the water was taken from the well for analysis and it was found to contain paris green.

Mr. Lander complained to the police yesterday. He declared he believed paris green was responsible for the act of some one in dumping the poison into the well. The analysis that was made of a sample of the water showed that it contained enough poison to kill several people.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

Irassburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irassburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

REFORMING THE HOUSE OF LORDS

King George of England is very anxious to have the question of reforming the house of lords settled without an appeal to the country which might result in a very radical reform that the king would be obliged to sign. King George is very anxious not to have this question thrust upon him. It was the dread of taking sides upon it that hastened the death of King Edward VII.

The house of lords has acknowledged that it needs reformation and reconstruction, and it has accepted the principle that the possession of a peerage shall no longer of itself give the right to sit and vote in the house of lords.

The house of lords has never undertaken to oppose a money bill until the recent taxation measure came up. In the past whenever the two houses of parliament disagreed, the commons attached a money bill to the measure in dispute and then the lords were obliged to accept it. In the recent measure of taxation, however, the lords considered it revolutionary and voted against it. There was an appeal to the country and a verdict against the lords. If the same question should go before the people once more the result might be disastrous. That is why the lords are ready to submit to a reasonable modification of their power.

The conference now in progress between the liberals and Tories with the Irish party as a dictating factor will probably reach a satisfactory settlement of this question without another general election. What is proposed is that the upper house shall not vote against a money measure of any kind. It is also proposed that a bill that passes the lower house three times in as many years will finally become law without the concurrence of the lords.

This, in all probability, may be the final settlement that will be agreed upon by the conference in order to let the king escape taking sides between the lords and the commons. King George is using all his influence to effect a settlement but the lords are obdurate and so are the liberal leaders, particularly Lloyd George, and he is firmly backed by Mr. Redmond who is a member of the conference committee.

ADVERTISING THAT DEGRADES

There is a "danseuse" coming to this country from Europe whose press agents, with or without her consent, seem to be booming her as the mistress of the king of Portugal. In one of the European capitals she was billed on large posters as the mistress of King Manuel, the story being that she captivated King Alfonso of Spain, and that King Manuel was afterwards smitten with her charms. Now it appears from a reliable authority that all this talk is merely for advertising purposes, with no other foundation than that when King Alfonso visited Paris he attended a performance at which the lady danced and that she visited Madrid and Lisbon in her professional role, just as she had visited Paris, Berlin, Vienna, London and other great cities.

That is the most contemptible species of advertising that can be imagined. It is not a kind that will prove profitable in this country. It not only degrades a woman's name but also the name and character of two royal personages whose alleged acquaintance with the woman some sensational writer exploits indecently for financial gain.

COLUMBUS DAY

While some objected to making Columbus day a legal holiday, on the ground that already we had quite a sufficiency of holidays, none has been found to say that Columbus is not entirely worthy of all the honor thus paid to his memory. It must be admitted that of all the men whose memory we honor by holidays, there is not one whose genius and achievement, whose name and fame, are more imperishable than those of Christopher Columbus. The discoverer of a new world, the man who lifted the veil of ocean and opened up a refuge for the oppressed of the old world, deserves all the honor we can pay his memory. His character, his genius, his perseverance are worthy subjects for contemplation by the young as calculated to inspire high aims and persistence in noble purposes.

DYNAMITE AS A PERSUADER

Two distinct attempts were made to blow up a railroad bridge on the Boston and Albany railroad a few days ago. This was presumed to be the result of some trouble between some of the employees and the contractors, but any man resorting to such cowardly tactics is taking dangerous chances as well as injuring the cause of labor everywhere.

With the nihilists of Russia and the anarchists of southern Europe the use of dynamite for the destruction of life and property is very popular, but there is always a reaction against the parties that adopt such cowardly tactics.

LYNN ADOPTS THE MODERN CHARTER

The city of Lynn follows the example of Haverhill in adopting the commission form of government, providing for a small governing body instead of the triple-headed regime consisting of a double chamber and the mayor. It is quite likely that some other cities finding difficulty in getting good results under the old form of charter will follow the example of Lynn. Results are what the citizens look for, and the municipalities that have adopted these modern charters can show satisfactory results.

President Smith of the Mormon church has issued a manifesto stating that polygamy must be stopped. We had been repeatedly assured that polygamy was long ago abandoned by the Mormons and that they lived in obedience to the law forbidding the vice.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

The New York State labor commissioner has appointed Miss Frances A. Kellor as chief investigator in the department of labor. Her salary is $2,500 per annum. She is to have entire charge of the new bureau of industries and immigration created by the last legislature. Commissioner Williams said that he selected Kellor because of her familiarity with the problems connected with the bureau. She had been appointed by Governor Hughes as a member of the special commission which investigated the question of immigration, and she was strongly endorsed by many persons interested in social problems.

A New York store is having a model house built for exhibition purposes at Montclair, N. J. The house will take into account every requirement that can be satisfied in the domicile of a modern family and will be richly furnished. Concrete will be the material.

Several well known English writers, including Katherine Tynan, Aylmer Maude, Cecil Shapp, Grace Rhys, and others, are interested in a new English magazine which is to make its first appearance during the current month. It is to be called the "Vineyard" and advocates especially the cultivation of progressive thought and action in country life.

Miss Mary E. Lewis, who has just observed her 79th birthday anniversary at her home in Brockton, has taught a Sunday school class in the Porter Congregational church in that city for 45 years. For a long time she has not missed a session of the school, despite her advanced age.

Mrs. Susan Preston Draper, widow of General William Draper, has offered to present Congregational Park and statue of General Draper to the town of Milford, on condition that the plot remain forever without buildings and that the town shall forever maintain it as a park. The townspeople, at a special meeting the other night voted to accept the gift.

Superintendent Leonard of the Ohio state reformatory, at a conference in Washington, D. C., said that 200 boys from his institution were out on probation and were doing well. The young criminals he said were not so good when released, unless his treatment of the "rock of economic independence." The Ohio State Journal remarks that the same proposition regarding economic independence is true, whether applied to the rich, the poor or the criminal young man.

T. C. McNabb of Malvern, Kan., married last month Mrs. U. Dever of Pleasanton, N. M. He is 77 and she is 55, and this is his fourth marriage. He was not as cheerful as the conventional bridegroom, for he had the prospect of a greater cost of living than when he embarked on his previous ventures, the fact being brought gallantly to mind by the increased cost for the marriage license. He was made so uncomfortable by the outlook that he declared that if the present Mrs. McNabb should die he would not marry again.

Col. John S. Mosby, a Confederate cavalry leader, has presented the national museum with a pair of crutches which he used in the war, whenever he was injured. He was wounded often, and General Lee is said to have remarked that the only thing he didn't like about Mosby was the frequency with which he was injured. The crutches are not pieces of finished workmanship, but are, as the phrase goes, "home made." They are simple.

HOW TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

It is truly remarkable how Cadum, the new remedy, causes pimples to disappear. Bad cases are frequently healed in a week, and sometimes even sooner. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum helps these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes because it can be applied direct to the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cadum is equally good for rash, blotches, scaly skin, chafings, eczema, sores, eruptions, acne, psoriasis, etc. 10c and 25c per box at all druggists.

General Booth's state of health, which has been much discussed of late, is sufficiently satisfactory to allow arrangements to be made for a German preaching and lecturing tour which he will undertake later in the autumn. He will probably before returning to England visit Denmark, where his youngest daughter is territorial commandant of the Salvation Army. As regards his eyes, while the sight of one is entirely gone that of the other is threatened by a cataract, such an extent that General Booth cannot recognize his most intimate friends, even at close quarters. At most he perceives them in vague outline. Still, on occasion he manages to write a few lines in a large hand where he has some special interest in doing so. Otherwise he dictates everything. WASHINGTON, D. C., October 12.—The fact that the 27,000 miles of inland waterways of the United States, less than seven per cent, have been improved to a stage furnishing continuous navigation—notwithstanding the first appropriation was made more than seventy-five years ago—is not attributable to the doubt of the great benefits that would come to the entire country should these waterways be made navigable at all seasons of the year. The fact is to be attributed to the lack of means to the desired end; to inadequate appropriations irregularly made with the inadequacy and irregularity due to the lack of a comprehensive policy on the part of the federal government with reference to the work to be done.

HAD PSORIASIS FOR TEN YEARS

Itching and Burning Terrible. Appearance Worse. Had Specialists and X-Ray, with Some Success, Others without Relief. Used Cuticura. In 4 Days Relieved. Inside of 2 Weeks Cured.

"I had been suffering with psoriasis for a period of ten years. It would disappear occasionally for a year or so and then return in worse form than before. The last attack was a little over a year ago, and by early summer had covered me all over. The itching and burning were terrible, and my appearance was worse. I had tried different specialists and the X-rays used on me, sometimes with some success and at others without relief. In the early fall of 1909 I was induced to try the Cuticura treatment, by a party who had heard of a remarkable cure it had made. I began to use it at once, not only without delay, but with every prejudice against the medicine. In four days I was relieved of the inconvenience, and inside of two weeks cured, except for a slight discoloration of the skin, which wore off in a few weeks. I subsequently saw my friend Mr. who had the same trouble. When he saw the wonderful effect of Cuticura upon me, he at once started the entire treatment and was well in about ten days. I beg to thank you for the relief you have given me, and if any one wants my testimony as to the merit of Cuticura for that trouble and will send me a stamped envelope with their address on it, I will be glad to send them a recommendation under my own signature. OFFICER MISSING

Boston. Patrolman Has Disappeared

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Patrolman Geo. W. McKenzie of the East Dedham street station left his home, 27 Circuit street, Roxbury, at 10 o'clock last Friday morning without saying goodbye, and he has not been seen nor heard from since by members of his family or his superiors and associates in the police department. He is absent from duty without leave, which is a serious offense against the police regulations. Patrolman McKenzie's disappearance is an almost unparalleled case in police circles.

Sergeants from station 5 and several superior officers have searched vainly for some trace of the policeman who has disappeared almost as effectively as if the ground had opened and swallowed him.

Mckenzie is a fine looking young man, tall and of athletic build, with black hair and ruddy cheeks. He has been a very popular and successful policeman, and is highly regarded by all his superiors and on more than one occasion was selected by headquarters to perform specially delicate duty.

His wife, mother and sister are prostrated by his disappearance, and the facts in the case are being guarded as a very delicate police secret. Some weeks ago a woman who lives in Tremont street, near Ruggles, accompanied by her 15 year old daughter, who is a pupil in the trades school on Massachusetts avenue, called upon Commissioner O'Meara and told him a story of the ill-treatment of her daughter by a policeman. The commissioner was shocked by the story, and he ordered that the case be immediately and thoroughly investigated, and if the facts warranted the action, that charges be preferred against the policeman, and a hearing ordered before the police trial board.

Mr. O'Meara was taken suddenly and seriously ill meanwhile. When he returned to his office the woman called upon him again and asked what progress was being made in the case. The commissioner learned that it had not progressed to his complete satisfaction and he ordered his secretary, Len Lloyd, to take charge of the matter and institute a speedy and thorough investigation. This was done as the commissioner ordered, and a report was made by the secretary last Friday.

Patrolman McKenzie was on duty last Thursday evening, but Friday morning he called out of his home without saying a word as to his intentions and he has not been seen since.

Capt. Daniel Ritter of the East Dedham street station sent his sergeants out to Patrolman McKenzie's home last evening in the effort to ascertain why

COLUMBUS SERMON

Delivered Today by Rev. D. A. Sullivan, O. M. I.

The sermon at the service in honor of Columbus at the Sacred Heart Church this morning was preached by Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., of the Immaculate Conception church. It was as follows:

Rev. Fr. Sullivan's Sermon
"My faith, he that is called Abraham, obeyed to go out into a place which he knew not, for an inheritance; and he went out, not knowing whither he went. For he looked for a city that had foundations, whose builder and maker was God. For which cause there sprang even from one as the stars of heaven in multitude, and as the sand which is by the seashore, innumerable." (Heb. XI, 8-12.)

My dear Catholic people: We Americans are proud of the legislators of the commonwealth whose enactment made the 12th of October a legal holiday. We Catholics Americans have most reason to be proud, since the occasion emphasizes the fact that the discoverer of America planted the cross of Jesus Christ here 328 years before the pilgrims set foot on Plymouth Rock.

The occasion then must surely appeal to every loyal Catholic. The event, my dear friends, which we, this day, commemorate is the greatest accomplished by a human being; as to him who accomplished it, there are few men who can be compared with him in greatness of soul and of genius. A new world flashed forth from the unexplored ocean; thousands upon thousands of mortals were returned to the common society of the human race, led from their barbarous life to peacefulness and civilization, and what is of much more importance, recalled from penitence to Eternal life by the bestowal of the gifts which Jesus Christ brought to this world.

Brothers, in all human history, there is no nobler figure than that of Columbus standing at the gate of the monastery of La Rabida, asking for bread and a drink of water for the weary child who holds by the hand. He is about to give another world to mankind; he himself a beggar. In the wilderness of poverty, living from boyhood upon the edge of every moving wave, in rude conflicts with the elements, buffeted by storms, and with frequent noises of battles around him, his soul has waxed strong and hard. His cradle was rocked by the side of the blue waters of the Mediterranean. From the hills of Genoa, with their Alpine background of eternal snow, the young eyes looked out upon the white sails and saw them fade away southward, while his heart followed after them. And later in the silent watches of the night, clinging to the mast and leaning over the dark, mysterious waters, his dreams have come to silence him, what visions have cheered him over the dark and trackless sea?

Faith in God
Dear Brethren—The highest encomium that could be passed upon the life and labors of Christopher Columbus is that of nothing new can now be said of either. But even though we are familiar with the pathetic story of his life, it will no less delight us on a day like this to learn anew the best lesson it teaches—Faith in God. What is faith? It is the virtue by which the soul and mind of man are able to realize the Almighty God. No matter how God may disguise himself, no matter under what form he might present himself to us, faith is the virtue that enables us to see through the disguise, and realize the God who lies hidden there. For, dearly beloved, remember that since the world has been created, Almighty God has never shown himself to man except under some disguise. In the beginning, when he walked in the groves of the happy garden and there conversed with our unfallen parent, Adam heard the voice of God which fell like music upon the ear of his soul. He beheld a form, strange, mysterious, exceedingly beautiful, but the form which he beheld was not God, but the disguise which God had assumed. No eye has ever been able to see God and live; nor shall we be able to behold him with the eye of the body until the body is glorified, recreated after the resurrection and in every sense spiritualized so as to be able to behold God.

Again when the great God came down from heaven to accomplish the mightiest of all His works, to redeem mankind, wash away the sin of the world, did not He, dearly beloved, become incarnate in the Holy Ghost and of the Virgin Mary? Was not He made man? Did not He take to Him the nature of our nature? Did He not come into this world a little, weeping man? Did not He take little, weeping, helpless child? Growing into youth, growing into man, nailed to the cross he brings the child face to face with the Lord God in holy communion; and upon those innocent lips and into that innocent heart does she place her divine Lord in all the strength, in all the majesty of his holiness, to communicate Himself to the little one, to make that little one even as He was in the happy days when in Nazareth, He grew under Mary's hands. Again, brethren, the church through her sacrament makes the individual honest. Where is the power upon earth that can take a man out of his crimes and set him alongside of his fellowman and restore him to honor and self respect? Where is the power that can take up the poor wretch who wallows in his drunkenness and make of him a God-fearing, a God-loving citizen? Where is the power that can subdue the heart wild with anger? Where is the power that can make the man that plunders go back and return you cent for cent, and dollar for dollar? Civil law cannot accomplish it, and force would never succeed. The law cannot lay hold of the hidden offender, the law cannot bring a man to justice until he is found publicly guilty. The law can never force a man to the confession of guilt. One power above can lay hold of him and make him turn his eyes upon himself until he becomes sick at heart of his own doings, then compel him to a confession of his crime, pledging his word that he will show himself a better Christian in the world. That force, gentlemen, you know well is the Catholic church working through the sacrament of penance.

Fights Divine
Again, beloved brethren, the Catholic church is the safeguard against the worst evil of all times. An evil that snags at the very foundation of government—the home. The most hurtful enemy of modern society is the countenance of divorce. Who shall enumerate the resultant evils? Widows abandoned, to lives of public shame, or to the legalized shame of a number of husbands; women, who like the Roman matrons of old, reckon the flight of time, not by their birthdays, but by their divorces. Divorce, my dear friends, has been the scourge of the race in the history of nations; it is the crying evil of our times, the foulest blot upon our civilization. The Catholic church tells the husband and wife that they are bound together by a bond that cannot be broken by any power on earth. For better or worse, for richer or poorer, in sickness and health, till death do us part. They shall be true to one flesh, love as Christ has loved the church, obey your husbands because the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ is head of the church. These are the principles of Christian marriage. Taught by Christ, clearly laid down by the apostles and upheld by the church throughout the centuries.

Brothers, know ye then that the only remedy for present evils—public dissoluteness, socialism and divorce—the national life, is the Roman Catholic church—founded by Jesus Christ. And as the primary object of Christopher Columbus was to bring into the fold of Christ the inhabitants of his newly discovered land, so ought we American Catholics take upon ourselves the duty, by word and example, to perpetuate his mission.

Appeal to Knights
I beseech you, then, my dear Catholics, believers in Christ, lovers of Columbus, Knights of Columbus, to raise your hands and souls to heaven on this glorious day, ask the God of heaven and earth to bestow the gifts of the redemption upon all the inhabitants of our great country, that all be led into the one fold of the one shepherd—the true church. Let us pray for this because it is their natural destiny. The light of the Gospel ought to be loyal believers in the light of religion, and the Catholic faith is the only force that can save our nation from decay. It matters not what pharisaical divines or political knaves may say to the contrary, truth is the most durable foundation of freedom, and the Catholic church is the pillar and ground of truth. Labor is profitable, valor is powerful, genius is glorious, education is one of the mightiest influences that mankind or controls the destinies of nations, but truth is greater than all of these characteristics of a free, a flourishing nation. Faith enables labor, consecrates valor, gives its nobility, inspiration to genius, and hallows and purifies education.

Now, my dear friends, while we glory in the profession of the ancient faith of Christ, and return thanks to the infinite goodness of God for the grace of our vocation, we should be wary of flattering ourselves with a false security or of imagining that a mere speculative faith will save us. We must not only believe well, but also live well.

Bear in mind, then, you Catholics, men, particularly you Knights of Columbus, that Christopher Columbus was all that history tells us today, and all that history tells the nations in a thousand years; Columbus was all that, because of the faith and Catholicity that was in him. He was a true, loyal son of the church. Over all his human efforts, throughout his whole brilliant, glorious achievement, there was ever shining the light of divine faith.

"Cherish then the faith of Jesus Christ, let its light shine forth in all your words and deeds. You are not called, perhaps, to breast the winds and storms of angry seas to unfurl your country's flag in strange lands, but you are called to take up the cross of Christ and bring the kingdom of God to your own hearts and souls."

"Be Christian knights, be Catholic knights. If Catholic knighthood has to be meaning under heaven, it ought to be loyalty to church. In thought, word and deed, then, seek light and guidance in your life, and let the church—the pillar and ground of truth—she alone has the divine mission to teach and guide you. In the spirit of children, then, not of critics, listen always humbly and lovingly to the church, her pastors and her priests. Before the church herself, you must

Affected by Strike of Northern Railroad

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The government has decided upon an important step in an attempt to break the strike on the Northern railroad. The official Journal publishes a decree calling to the colors about 30,000 employees of the Northern road. This immediately subjects the men to military discipline. The officials of the Northern railroad have issued a statement that the wages of the employees were increased 3,500,000 francs during the year 1910, and that the increased cost of operation and the increased burdens imposed by parliament made it impossible to meet the demands of the men. The tie-up on the western road affects the American mail and passengers due by ship at Cherbourg today for the steamship service to London and Antwerp. The aviators, Audmarr, Barrier and Barrios who are scheduled to take part in the aviation meeting at Belmont Park, and who are booked to sail on the Teutonic, will proceed to Cherbourg by automobile. The central strike committee of the national railroad union met last night and decided to call upon the men of all the railroads to strike immediately.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The employees of the Eastern railroad voted to strike at noon today and the employees on the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean lines decided to go out this evening.

ONE DEATH

AS RESULT OF WHITE OAKS COLLISION

NEW BRITAIN, Oct. 12.—The indications this morning were that none of the score of persons injured in the head-on trolley collision last yesterday at White Oaks on the New Britain-Plainville trolley line would die, and that the death of Mortimer Patch, which occurred last evening, would be the only fatality resulting from the wreck. Six of the persons injured are at the New Britain hospital while the others who were less seriously hurt were taken to their homes. An investigation has been begun for the purpose of fixing responsibility for the wreck.

HOUSE WARMING

A house warming was held at the new residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cooper, Dracut, on Saturday evening. When about forty-three of their neighbors and friends gathered to wish them success and happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper are the recipients of many beautiful presents, among which was a dinner set from the Kennerly Sewing Circle. Those from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper of Dover, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Shelters and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Prescott of Lowell. Coffee, sandwiches and cake were served.

FOR SANITARY HOUSEKEEPING

Wherever there is dirt there are disease germs. Carbonol destroys these. Even in comparatively clean places these germs lurk—such as rugs, draperies, corners, closets, etc. A few drops of Carbonol in the water used in cleaning or a dust cloth wrung out of such water, at once makes these germs harmless.

A few drops used in the dish-water dissolve the grease quickly. A little sprinkled in kitchen corners and cracks drives away water bugs and roaches. Try it, too, and the whole family will be happy.

WELLMAN DELAYED

AVIATOR AWAITS FAVORABLE WIND FOR START

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 12.—The airship America in which Walter Wellman and a crew of six men will attempt to cross the Atlantic ocean is still in the hangar near the inlet waiting for a more favorable wind for a preliminary trial. A trial was to have been made at sunrise today, but the northwest wind was blowing too briskly to undertake the task of bringing the airship out of the big shed. If the wind moderates a trial flight may be made this afternoon.

WHO IS THE GREATEST BASEBALL PILOT?

By TOMMY CLARK.

WHAT makes a man a success as a manager of a baseball team? That is a question that has been asked for twenty-five years past, and it is still unanswered. It probably always will be, for in reality there is no answer. But there are bright and shining examples of how men have made good as managers just as surely as there are of those who have failed when it came to the crucial test, that of handling other men as they would be handled themselves.

That's the test right here. The man who can handle other men as he would be handled himself is usually a success when it comes to handling ball players. Not always, it is true, but when it is not true you will find that there is something back of it all, and in nine cases out of ten the thing back of it is that the manager is being interfered with by the owners or the players he is supposed to handle.

Back in the old days the manager of a ball team had little to do except to see that he had enough players to go on the field each day.

In the present day baseball game the manager is the man who has to stand or fall. It's up to him as far as the public goes. And yet how many of the fans who go to the ball games know or even care who the manager of a team is as long as they are winning? But if they lose!

Wow! Then the manager gets it, and gets it good and plenty. The fans blame the manager. He is the man to whom they look to produce a winning combination. Failure to turn out a winner causes the enthusiasts to howl and say sarcastic things about the pilot of the home club.

Take, for instance, Fred Clarke, manager of the Pittsburgh Nationals. Last year Clarke and his Buccaners won the pennant and the world's championship. This season they were picked to repeat, but failed. Recently when the Pittsburgh fans saw that the team could not repeat they demanded that the manager get out of the game and give a youngster a chance to shine. Clarke's only answer was a two bagger, which helped win the game. The next day he quit for the rest of the season.

It is the same way with Jennings of Detroit. Hughey produced three pennant winners in four years and during the 1910 campaign made a good fight. But the fans demanded that he furnish a fourth one. For three years he was a great idol, but now he is being censured. If he does not produce a winner next year the chances are that the fans will hoot and scowl at the leader of the Tigers.

Great Managers Compared.

While we are discussing managers it might be well to take a peep over the methods of our great baseball pilots. In the National league the work of Chance, Clarke, McGraw and Griffith stands out. Each man has been successful, and their methods are different, although Chance and Clarke are nearer alike than the others.

Chance of the Cubs.

Chance, the leader of the Cubs, is a typical exponent of the playing manager, although next year he may remain on the bench. He is naturally a very quiet man. It is not his custom to be on the coaching line during the game. He prefers the comparative quiet afforded by the players' bench and as a general thing allows his players to do most of the coaching. He directs his plans of battle from the bench. While his team is at the bat runs itself. Every player apparently knows by intuition just what to do at the right time.

Clarke a Great Leader.

Clarke of the Pittsburghs has no superior as a manager. He has all the qualities that go to make up a successful manager. He has a good, sound judgment that laid the foundation for the Boston American crack team. With him at the helm the chances are that the Red Sox team would have given Philadelphia a good run for the pennant.

Leading American and National League Pilots

AD WOLGAST, LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION, WHO MAY BE FORCED TO QUIT THE RING.

Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion pugilist of the world, may be forced to quit the prize ring. The title holder recently broke his left hand in a contest with Young McFarland at Fond du Lac, Wis. The break is a bad one, and it will take many weeks before it will heal properly. This is the second time Wolgast has broken his left arm within four months.

as nearly a perfect baseball machine as was ever welded together, and he has it so well under control that it is a successful major league pilot. Clarke is a student of the game, a fighter and a developer, and as a guesser he has displayed the rarest of ability. He is one leader whose managerial duties have not affected his playing ability. Clarke is classed as the best left fielder in the game.

He has great executive ability and knows how to handle ball tossers, and his players say he is a good man to work for and a good loser. Clarke has been the pilot of the Pirates for ten years, and in that time the team has never finished out of the first division, winning three consecutive pennants, finishing second three times, third twice, fourth once and in 1903 tied with New York for second place honors.

Johnny McGraw's Methods.

Johnny McGraw of the New Yorks is a fiery leader. His methods differ greatly from Chance's and Clarke's. It is almost impossible for McGraw to control himself when things are going against his team. He will kick and tell his opinions of the umpire in the most forcible manner. He directs his players on every play simply because many of them are not the brainiest players on earth and cannot be depended on to carry plays through of their own volition. McGraw has been handicapped for several years in having a rather mediocre team. That he is one of the best managers in the business is shown by his keeping the Giants so high in the race year by year against superior teams like the Cubs and Pirates.

His only weakness, and a big one, too, is that he is unable to develop pitchers. He has tried for many years to make a star out of Leon Ames, but has failed. Rube Marquard, the $11,000 lemon, was heralded as the future great with more seasoning; but, like Ames, he failed to improve and today is about the same as two years ago, when he was bought for the record breaking price.

Griffith a Shrewd Pilot.

Clark Griffith of the Cincinnati is conceded by many experts to be one of the smartest pilots in baseball. He is a fighter from his feet up and one of the best posted men in the national game. It was he that laid the foundation for the present New York Americans. If he were still in charge of the Highlanders and allowed full swing he would have landed the team on top. He has done fairly well with the Reds for the past two seasons, but owing to a poor pitching staff failed to finish third. Griffith is a keen student of the game and has developed many new recruits into stars.

Other National League Leaders.

Doolin of Philadelphia was given little opportunity to display his ability as a manager this season, his hands being tied by the club owners. The same applies to Bill Dahlen of Brooklyn. Drennon of St. Louis gives promise. We may hear from him later.

American League Generals.

In the American league there are two managers whose ability stands out above all others. They are Mack of Philadelphia and Jennings of Detroit.

Mack a Genius.

Cornelius McGillicuddy, called Connie Mack to give space and energy, is the most unique card in baseball. He pays small sums for his players and gets big results. Recently he was accused of paying $12,000 for Pitcher Russell to the Baltimore team. The real price paid for the youngster was $1,500, and three other players were thrown in. Mack's methods of handling a ball team are different from those of other managers. His players must play his game, be in perfect unison with him in all his principles, their own individuality be buried and subservient to his directions, and the result is that when the Athletics go into the field to do battle there are nine Connie Macks arrayed against the opposition.

Mack is an advocate of the theory that the diamond is not the only place for the game to be seen and heard.

He believes in anticipation and respectation. Every morning he has his men assemble in his room and "play" the game in advance. The whole plan of battle is arranged. That is game No. 1. Then comes the game on the diamond. Game No. 3 is played the next morning in Mack's room. Mistakes of the day before are taken up. So, too, are the good plays. Mack is a teacher. He is willing to take youngsters who have had no big league experience and teach them how to play baseball. By doing this and mixing the youngsters with the veterans he has produced a winning combination. Jennings, like Mack, is a unique card in baseball. No present day manager cuts up on the coaching lines as he does. To a stranger it would appear that Hughey was a crazy man on the coaching lines. But every one of his movements means something. It is just the Jennings style.

He is out on the coaching lines constantly, not because he wants to be the most prominent figure in the game, but for the reason that he knows that it encourages his players and imbues them with ginger. It is because of his own individual efforts that the Detroit Tigers won the American gonfalon three years hand running.

McGuire of Cleveland is a good one. The veteran knows as much about the game as any one living. In another season he will make the Naps feared. McAleer of Washington is a close student of the game. Since taking hold of the Senators he has put new life into the club. O'Connor of the St. Louis Browns is a failure, and Donovan of the Boston will never do as a leader of a major league team. He is too easy going. Hal Chase of the New Yorks is a great first baseman, and that's all. As far as managerial ability is concerned Chase is an experiment. He is too conceited to be a successful big league pilot.

Now that a short review of the managers has been given, who is the greatest of them all? In the writer's opinion the honors should be handed to Fred Clarke of the Pirates. Why? Well, I'll tell you. Clarke has been longer in harness than any other manager, and every year he has had his team close up with the leaders. When the war between the American and National leagues broke out his team was shot to pieces, but yet he managed to land it near the top. Clarke has developed many raw recruits into stars despite his scarcity of material. He has the knack of keeping harmony among his players, even to the great extent of sacrificing some crack player.

Clarke knows every angle of scientific modern baseball and is a great judge of young material. He cannot be hoodwinked and is a disciplinarian.

It is a fact that for seven years Clarke has not had a good first baseman, yet he has had his team in the thickest of the pennant fights. Coupled with this is the fact that managerial duties have not interfered with his playing ability. Today he is classed as the best left fielder in the business. He is the best manager in the game.

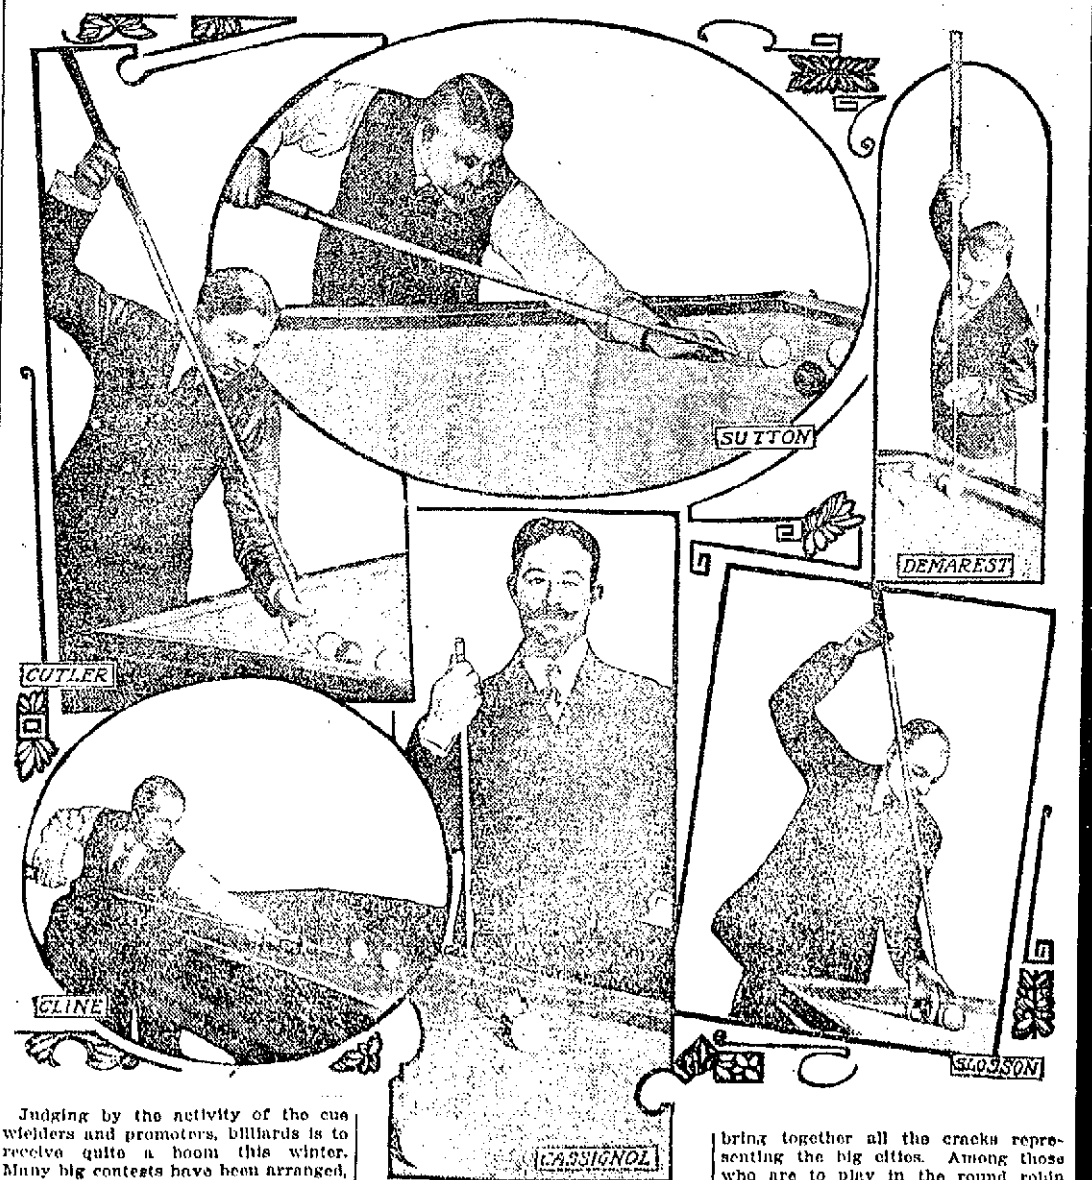

Next to Clarke comes Chance. The latter has been very fortunate in picking up stars—in fact, more so than has been Clarke. Players of the Kling, Evers and Schulte class are not found every season. Next to Chance comes Connie Mack. He is the greatest pilot in the American league. He has proved that he knows a ball player when he sees one, but he has been very fortunate in picking up pitchers. The next on the list is Hughey Jennings. When the latter took hold of the Tigers there were many individual stars on it, but harmony did not prevail. Hughey, with his soothing ways, managed to patch things up.

COLLEGE PITCHERS IN DEMAND.

The college baseball star was in demand with the big leagues this year. There were in particular about six varsity pitchers who were rushed by the professionals, and a peculiar twist of the matter is that Detroit made a bid for five pitchers without landing one. Among the most sought after men in the college teams this year were Templeton of Williams, De Mott of Lafayette, Schultz of Pennsylvania, Foley of Holy Cross, McHale of Vermont and Hicks of Harvard.

The first three named were ranked by most followers of college ball as the best twirlers in the colleges. Templeton received several flattering offers, but refused to play baseball as a profession.

FAMOUS CUE WIELDERS NOW PRACTICING FOR COMING TOURNAMENTS

Judging by the activity of the cue wielders and promoters, billiards is to receive quite a boom this winter. Many big contests have been arranged, and two round robin tournaments in which all the cracks of America and Europe are to play are in order. Coupled with this is the fact that the three cushion league recently formed, with Johnny Kling as president, is now arranging a big schedule which will bring together all the cracks representing the big cities. Among those who are to play in the round robin tournament to be held in December are Sleson, Sutton, Hoppe, Cline, Cutler, Demarest, Morningstar and Cassignol, the Frenchman.

BOARD OF TRADE

Considers Charter Revision and Other Important Matters

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the directors of the board of trade was held in the board's new quarters in the Central hotel, last night. It was the board's formal opening of its new quarters which consists of a large assembly room and a smaller room to be used as a private room for the secretaries.

Previous to the calling of the meeting the directors were the guests of President Greene at the New American house at dinner. The directors adjourned from the hotel to the new quarters and it was 8 o'clock when President Greene called to order. Rollin Brockmeyer was admitted to membership and Frederick Manning Ayer was elected an honorary member of the board.

The board voted to ask that an electric light be placed at the junction of Branch and Nichols streets where the most paying in Middlesex street ends. Without a light the place is dark and dangerous at night.

The real purpose of the meeting was to get the ideas of the different ones as to future efforts on the part of the board. It was a case of swapping ideas and suggesting things.

President Greene enumerated some of the things that have been done during the year and he said the board had a new year ahead of it and it was up to the board to do things.

First Vice President James O'Sullivan read a very interesting paper that contained a great many very good suggestions. Mr. O'Sullivan took a trip across the continent during the summer and the paper reflected the things that he observed.

Daniel P. Carroll reported for the factory location committee. It was stated in the report that two small factories have already been located, one in Hood's building and the other in North Chelmsford, with prospects of more to come. Mr. Carroll spoke of tabulating the amount of freight that is sent to Lowell from Boston, daily, with the object in view of getting better facilities.

He said that Pittsburgh tabulated the amount transported between that city and Philadelphia a few years ago and showed that there was freight enough handled between the two cities for a special train, which they got. He thought a similar tabulation by Lowell merchants might result in better service between this city and Boston.

The chairman of the membership committee reported that as a result of the canvass for new members inaugurated in June about 100 new names were added to the rolls.

C. H. Conant reported for the legislative committee, which has had no work to do since the legislature adjourned in June.

Henry A. Smith for the public utilities committee reported that an effort will be made to regulate traffic in the downtown streets. Police officers say that automobilists generally follow the rule of the road, but drivers of teams, many of them, insist on taking the

L. Crowley elected temporary chairman.

The Pearson delegates started to withdraw from the room.

"I move the temporary organization be made permanent," cried Mr. Cronin, and putting the motion to the vote he put the motion and declared it carried.

"The first business will be the appointment of a credential committee," said Mr. Brady.

Then followed a general mix-up during which Mr. Pearson appealed to the directors to have things done right, stating that the credential committee would do nothing any good.

After considerable wrangling Mr. Pearson stated that as he had a majority of votes present he was content to go ahead if he would be given representation on the credential committee. The chairman appointed Joseph H. Clark, whereupon Mr. Cronin, a member of the committee, withdrew and took no further active part in the convention.

The credential committee, Messrs. P. H. Hiler, J. Rourke and J. H. Clark, retired and finally reported 30 delegates present including one delegate from each of the following towns: Dracut, Chelmsford, Tyngsboro, Grotton, Dunstable, Pepperell. The temporary organization was again made permanent.

Mr. Draper then withdrew from the contest and on motion of Joseph H. Clark the secretary cast one ballot bearing the name of Hon. Fisher H. Pearson for senator.

On motion of J. John J. Devine, the secretary cast one ballot bearing the name of Humphrey O'Sullivan for the state central committee. A district committee was then appointed consisting of: Ward 1, Mr. Donahue; 2, Mr. Rourke; 3, Mr. Fitzgerald; 4, Mr. Quinn; 5, Mr. Shaw; 6, Mr. Cronin; 7, Mr. Hiler; Dracut, George Dacey; Chelmsford, James P. Dunnigan; Tyngsboro, Mr. Roberts; Dunstable, Mr. Kendall; Pepperell, Mr. Gagnon; Grotton, J. C. Bateman.

Mr. Pearson was then introduced and after thanking the convention for the honor conferred upon him stated that he expected to win despite the fact that the district is 1800 republican.

"It has been said," he said, "that I have been elected. Those who know me know that I never do that and will not this time."

Mr. Draper was called upon and he asked all of his friends to support Mr. Pearson.

The convention then dissolved.

J. H. Rogers Nominated

Earlier in the evening the 14th district democratic representative convention was held. It was called to order by John J. Mahoney and James H. Rogers was nominated. Search out of the nine delegates was present. The district committee named for the ensuing year was made up of J. H. Rogers and James W. McKenna. Of Lowell, and John Lahey of Dracut. T. P. McCann was secretary.

FOREST FIRES

Cause Loss of Life in Colorado

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Another serious forest fire has broken out on the public domain, according to advices reaching the forest service last night and is sweeping Big Chief mountain, Colorado. Fanned by a high wind, the flames are said to be advancing rapidly. Officials of the forest service are not certain as to the number of settlers within or adjacent to the fire zone, but have telegraphed for particulars.

The report of the start and progress of the fire came in a telegram from M. D. McHenry, chief of field division at Denver.

The dispatch follows: "Dierce fire, 12 miles in circumference, on Big Chief mountain and in Coal Creek canon in northwest corner of Jefferson county on public domain and fire spreading rapidly. High wind. Am sending 40 men with provisions and tools tonight."

Mr. McHenry asked for an order authorizing the expense of fighting the flames and this was promptly forthcoming.

LOSS ABOUT $5,000,000

RAINY RIVER, Ont., Oct. 12.—J. A. Mathew, manager of the Rainy River lumber industry, yesterday estimated that not more than 100 lives have been lost in the forest fire in this section. He bases his estimate on reports received from searching parties who have been over the burning area. He places the total financial loss at about $5,000,000.

The fire is well under control in the Rainy River and International Falls district.

The work of feeding and housing the refugees is taking up the attention of everyone. There are 30 dead in the ravine here and as nearly as many more have been taken south on the line to Duluth.

JOHN O. HEINZE

Lectured on Science of Electricity

John O. Heinze, Jr., electrical engineer, manufacturer of electrical appliances, and the man behind Lowell's big automobile race, gave a lecture on "The Science of Electricity," at the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association in Hurd street, last evening. Mr. Heinze is president of the Heinze Electric Co. of Lowell, and when it comes to electricity he is one of the world's wizards.

The lecture was attended by about 100 men from the mills, electric power and lighting company, telephone company, street railway, electrical supply houses and other lines of electrical business.

Mr. Heinze used a great deal of apparatus in illustrating his lecture and all of his experiments were decidedly interesting. His lecture was necessarily of a technical nature but his demonstrations told the story in flashes that bespoke the success of his experiments.

Mr. Heinze's lecture marked the opening night of the class in practical engineering, which will be taught regularly hereafter on Tuesday evenings by Percy J. Wilson, electrical engineer of the Lowell Electric Light corporation.

Mr. Wilson presented briefly the outline of the course which would be given, and Mr. Heinze and others promising in electrical circles in the city promised their support in further supplementary lectures and the loan of apparatus for experiment purposes.

The class will be regularly organized and will begin study next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Enrollments are now being received at the association office.

TEWKSBURY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Trull, whose beautiful residence was destroyed by fire a few nights ago, are at present residing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larkin T. Trull in Lowell. Mr. Trull will not rebuild before next spring.

Mr. Trull told the insurance men who examined the ruins that the fire might have started from one of three crossings of the electric wires in the main barn, or spontaneous combustion of the second crop of hay, placed in the bays a short time ago.

It was of the personal opinion that it was caused by defective wiring, the fire starting just above an electric meter in the barn. The insurance men, however, were of the opinion that the cause was more likely spontaneous combustion, there being a chance that the second crop of hay was not entirely dry.

Nominated for Senator in the Eighth District

Convention Opened Turbulently But Closed Harmoniously, Mr. Draper Withdrawing From the Contest—Humphrey O'Sullivan Elected to State Central Committee

The eighth district democratic senatorial convention, held at democratic headquarters last evening, came in like a traditional lion and went out like a lamb.

It opened in turmoil and concluded harmoniously, after the candidate with the larger number of votes had been nominated to win.

The convention closely resembled that of a few days ago in which Mr. Cronin of ward seven easily participated, the only difference being that last evening Mr. Cronin, as the leader of the majority forces, became resigned before adjournment.

The convention was entitled to 31 delegates and the situation in a nutshell was this: Mr. Pearson had 16 credentials and votes; Mr. Draper had 15, and one delegate from the suburbs was reported best.

Some of the Draper forces started the fireworks at the opening by forcing in their own organization, though in the minority. In their anxiety to get control they voted to make the temporary organization permanent before a committee on credentials had been appointed. After a time several lawyers among the Pearson forces convinced the Draper enthusiasts of the error of their way, and the legality of the opening proceedings was recognized. Mr. Draper withdrew as a candidate, giving Hon. Fisher H. Pearson the nomination by acclamation. Both factions enthusiastically named Humphrey O'Sullivan for the state central committee, several speakers boomed in peace and harmony.

The convention was called to order by Peter E. Brady of the district committee. Draper supporter Mr. Cronin immediately moved his election as temporary chairman, but the motion and declared it carried, but several Pearson men placed the name of Dr. Dunnigan in nomination as temporary chairman.

Mr. Brady accepted Mr. Cronin's nomination of the vote and declared the Dunnigan motion out of order. While the attorneys were being tossed about the chairman declared William

Executor's Sale of Estate of Charles E. Adams

SITUATED ON KIRK, WILDER AND WALKER STREETS, ON SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1910, AT 2, 3 AND 3.30 O'CLOCK P. M., RESPECTIVELY.

At the time above named, on the several premises will be offered at public auction for homes or investment, the most valuable and best located real estate offered for sale this year—Estate No. 56 Kirk street, being part of brick block and 2356.56 square feet of land, well located for a down-town home or for renting purposes. This house is well built, steam heated throughout, and has front and back parlors, dining-room, kitchen and pantry on first floor; three large and one small room and bathroom on second floor; on top floor, two large square and two small rooms and storeroom. This house rents for $40 per month. Will be open for inspection at 1 o'clock p.m. on day of sale.

Estate No. 218 Wilder St., Cor. Columbus Ave.

With 12,375 square feet of land, finely located for a home or can be easily changed into two tenements. The house has parlor, living room, dining room, kitchen and laundry on first floor, four square rooms, two back rooms and bath on second, maid's room on third; also large, well-lighted, high-ceilinged billiard room on third. This house is steam heated, with hardwood floors in rooms on first and second floors, and has lately been painted and put in perfect repair. Good judges estimate that to duplicate this house at the present prices would cost at least $15,000. There is land enough in rear of the premises to erect another house without damage to remainder of the property. Premises will be open for inspection after 1 o'clock on day of sale.

Estate No. 257 Walker St., Near Columbus Ave.

Consisting of cottage house, with parlor, living-room, bedroom, bath, kitchen and shed on first floor; with three chambers on second floor. Stable in the rear with two stalls and room for four carriages. There are 26,720 square feet of land, in good location for building and renting purposes. Can be seen after 2.30 p.m. on day of sale.

Terms: The sum of $500 to be paid to auctioneer on the two first named properties, and $100 on the last, as soon as struck off.

Per order of JOHN J. HARVEY, Executor.

MONSTER CELEBRATIONBoston Observes Columbus Day
on Grand Scale

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Columbus day was observed for the first time in Massachusetts today. The celebration centered in Boston, where a parade of 60,000 men was reviewed by President William H. Taft, Gov. Eben S. Draper, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Archbishop William H. O'Connell and by Col. John J. Sullivan of the Ninth regiment, M. V. M., as chief marshal.

Although legally a public holiday, the principal observances were almost entirely Roman Catholic. The parades all were members of Catholic societies except the military. Knights of Columbus, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Massachusetts Order of Foresters, Polish and Portuguese societies, and the Holy Name society, composed the six divisions of the long line which required several hours to pass a given point and was more than an hour on the line of march.

A gun salute at sunrise officially opened the day's exercises, the first of which was a solemn pontifical mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. In his sermon to the thousands who thronged the cathedral, Archbishop O'Connell, after remarking on Columbus' triumph and following a scholarly review of the discoverer's achievement, said:

"Italy and Spain participate in the glory of his achievement. It is well to recall this fact today when other countries prevail for the time is either country. Short-sighted statesmen of the present time ignore the illustrious history of the past when both countries were in complete submission to the voice of the Holy See and seek now to create a prejudice in those countries against ecclesiastics and all that they represent."

"It is in the providence of God, Italy and Spain had their golden age and gave birth to achievements which dazzled the world, precisely at that time when ecclesiastics stood in place and power and when catholicity primacy over minds and hearts, how fatuous it is in these days to try to deceive the people by representing church as the enemy of civilization and progress."

The mass was celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Prince Ferdinand de Croy of Mons, Belgium, one of Cardinal Vanneville's staff.

The hour of starting the parade was set at noon and the line of march was almost entirely within the business section, largely deserted by the usual traffic because of the holiday. The start was in the back bay. Here it was reviewed by Archbishop O'Connell, then at the state house by President Taft and Governor Draper, whose guest the president was, and on Mason street by Mayor Fitzgerald, and at the finish at Park square by Chief Marshal Sullivan.

President Taft planned to reach the state house about noon, motoring up from Beverly. The president's stay in the event of the parade being an unusually long one in passing, he had informed the governor that he must leave before his finish, probably about two o'clock.

The day was observed in a social manner more than by sports. Catholic clubs kept open house and many had arranged club affairs. There were a large number of high school and minor schools, the Massachusetts Order of Foresters, Polish and Portuguese societies, and the Holy Name society, composed the six divisions of the long line which required several hours to pass a given point and was more than an hour on the line of march.

Observed by Street Parade and Services at Sacred Heart Church

A parade under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus and including members of different Catholic societies took place this forenoon. The parade formed in Moody street near city hall shortly after 9 o'clock and proceeded to the Sacred Heart church, Moore street, where mass was celebrated by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., and at which a sermon which will be found on page seven was preached by Rev.

Denis Sullivan, O. M. I. It was a military mass, the O. M. I. Cadets constituting the military feature.

The parade was headed by a platoon of police, Sgt. Martin Connors in charge. All officers of the platoon were members of the Knights of Columbus. Next in order was Chief Marshal Thomas J. O'Donnell and staff, and then came the O. M. I. Cadets stepping to the music of their own band. Next in line were delegations from Catholic societies including the Mathews and Knights of Equity, then the American band and the Knights of Columbus. There were about 400 men in line together with 250 O. M. I. Cadets and they made a very creditable showing. One company of the Cadets wore khaki uniforms and the other blue.

LAWRENCE ITALIANS
HAVE A "NIGHT BEFORE" CELEBRATION

LAWRENCE, Oct. 12.—The observance of Columbus day was ushered in last evening when the Italian residents held a parade. The observance began with a salute of bombs on the common. Accompanied by two bands the paraders proceeded from the vicinity of the city hall, carrying torches and lanterns. Following the parade a concert was given by a band.

This morning there was another salute and a parade. At 9 o'clock high mass was celebrated in the church of the Holy Rosary by Rev. Fr. Milanese, who will also speak on "Columbus." Masses will be said in other Catholic churches.

Several thousand are expected to be in line in the parade in the afternoon, of which Capt. Frank L. Donovan is chief marshal. Mayor Cahill will review the parade at the corner of Essex and Amesbury streets. In the evening, Judge M. J. Murray of Boston will deliver an address in the city hall.

CELEBRATION AT R. I.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 12.—Rhode

Islanders today united in observing Columbus day for the first time since it was made a holiday by the legislature. Throughout the state business was suspended to a considerable extent while all of the public and private schools were closed for the day.

The opening exercise of the day's observance here was the decoration of Columbus' monument. A little later 10,000 men, marched through the city's streets in a brilliant civic pageant. One of the important events here was the presentation of medals to Gov. Aram J. Pothier, Senator William M. Bowen and Rep. George F. O'Shaughnessy in commemoration of the signing of the bill making Columbus day a legal holiday in Rhode Island. Band concerts and sports in the afternoon followed by fireworks and illuminations tonight featured the initial celebration here.

STOCK EXCHANGES CLOSED
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—All exchanges here closed today, Columbus day.

OBSERVANCE AT DETROIT
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 12.—Italian residents of Detroit celebrated Columbus day by unveiling a statue of the great navigator.

ROOSEVELT AT SPRINGFIELD
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 12.—Governor Deneen of Illinois met Col. Roosevelt when he arrived in Springfield at 11 o'clock today. A reception committee from the Knights of Columbus of Peoria met Col. Roosevelt here. With Gov. Deneen standing beside him on the rear platform of the train and with over 1000 persons crowding around, a cry went up for a speech and some in the crowd yelled "Give the jackpotter a shaking up."

Col. Roosevelt greeted his hosts and with both hands raised aloft condemned corruption but mentioned no names and made no direct reference to alleged legislative corruption in Illinois. He declared he would do everything in his power in Illinois and every other state in opposition to corruption. "When corruption is involved," he declared, "there are no parties, but I intend to elch the corruptionist of my own party a little tighter than the corruptionist of other parties."

CELEBRATION AT PEORIA
PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 12.—With the arrival of Col. Roosevelt at 1 o'clock the arrangements for Columbus day will have been completed. He will lunch at the country club, visit Archbishop Spalding and be given a reception by the Knights of Columbus. In the evening he will speak at the Coliseum with W. Bourke Cockran of New York and Dr. Everett Kane.

SLIGHT BLAZE
IN UPPER MERRIMACK STREET THIS FORENOON

Shortly before noon Hose 8 of the local fire department was summoned to a slight fire in the rear of 581 Merrimack street. There was no alarm, and the blaze was quickly extinguished upon the arrival of the department. The damage to the property was very small.

WORCESTER DYNAMITER ARRESTED

WORCESTER, Oct. 12.—Louis Feneal of Worcester, who, the police allege, admits placing a dynamite bomb under the Foster street bridge, was arrested at his home here today. The police believe that by the arrest of Feneal they will be able to obtain tangible clues as to the identity of the men who set off a charge of dynamite under the Franklin street bridge early Monday morning. Feneal, according to the police, yesterday placed under the Foster street bridge a potato with dynamite inside of it. This was given to him by a man, he said, and he put it under the bridge on October 6 to hear it make a noise.

The police say that Feneal in dress and general appearance corresponds to a man seen running away from the Franklin street bridge by a gate tender last Monday.

BIG FOREST FIRE

TodayMore Than 100 Acres of Valuable
Woodland Burned Over—Help
Was Summoned From Lowell—Large Crew of Men Fighting the Flames

A forest fire is raging in North Tewksbury. It started late this forenoon in Wamesit and is burning its way toward Tewksbury Centre. More than 100 acres of valuable woodland has been swept by the fire and at 4 o'clock it was stated that the fire was not under control. How the fire was set is unknown.

The auto fire patrol from this city went as far as the Tewksbury line, but did not venture farther because of the order of the city council forbidding the fire department to send the auto machine beyond the city lines. A chemical engine visited the scene of the fire.

More than 150 men were engaged in fighting the fire this afternoon, but despite their best efforts the enemy continued to gain ground and was burning its way towards Tewksbury Centre. It was stated, however, that after the fire left the thick woods it would be more easily controlled. It is not expected that the fire will reach the centre.

DEER HUNTERS
BEATEN OUT BY THE WARM WEATHER

BANGOR, Oct. 12.—The continued warm weather is proving decidedly annoying to sportsmen who are in the Maine woods in quest of deer or game birds. Hunters have found it impossible, because of the heat, to bring out their deer or birds in good condition, the flesh for some reason, seeming to spoil far more easily than ever before.

Right here in Bangor there is practically no fresh venison available, for this reason, although the total number of deer brought here since the opening of the season is far in excess of former years. It is estimated that of the deer taken to date not 10 per cent has been used for food for the reason given.

NEARLY EXHAUSTED
COUPLE AT SEA IN DISABLED POWER BOAT

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 12.—After they had been battered about by tempestuous seas for eight hours and when they had given up hope of ever landing again, Mr. and Mrs. George Becker of Bath were rescued near Brown Cow Island, two miles to the westward of Small Point by Captain George Rice, Parker Rice and Ernie Ferrin with the gasoline fishing launch Dolphin and brought here today. They were coming to this city in a small power boat when the engine broke down. The small craft was half full of water when they were picked up, and both were exhausted from exposure and from their endeavors to keep their boat from sinking.

100th ANNIVERSARY
Of Foreign Missions Commissioners Observed at Andover

ANDOVER, Oct. 12.—The centennial anniversary celebration of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, which is being observed at Boston in conjunction with the triennial meeting of the national conference of Congregational churches, shifted today from Boston to Andover and the neighboring village of Bradford. It was at Andover one hundred years ago that four young students of the Andover theological seminary, headed by Adolphus Judson, walked to Bradford and back, a distance of 29 miles, to lay before the Massachusetts Association of Congregational Ministers their appeal to be sent as Christian missionaries to heathen lands. Previous to their tramp, to Bradford for a service of prayer and in the missionary woods, as they are now known, a native boulder bearing a tablet in memory of the first missionaries of what is now the American board was dedicated today. The boulder is also a memorial to the 24th missionaries who have been trained in the Andover seminary.

Hundreds of delegates and visitors to the Congregational meetings left Boston on a special train at 9 a. m., arriving here about an hour later. Professor Hincks of Andover presided at the dedication. Prayer was offered by Rev. George Hall, grandson of Gordon Hall, one of the four original missionaries of the board. An historical address was made by Professor Hincks, and the tablet was unveiled by Rev. J. A. Richards, pastor of Mount Vernon church, Boston. A dedicatory address by Rev. Dr. Hume, a missionary in India, closed the exercises.

After being shown the various places of interest in and about Andover by guides from Phillips-Andover academy the party proceeded in special electric cars to Bradford, where a luncheon was served by the ladies of the Bradford and Javerhill churches. After luncheon there was dedicated a monument marking the spot where the American board, the first missionary association in North America, was organized in the old church which has long since disappeared.

President Capen of the American board presided at the exercises and the principal addresses were made by Rev. E. S. Stackpole, pastor of the Bradford Congregational church and John R. Mott, chairman of the continuation committee of the world's missionary conference.

At the conclusion of Mr. Mott's address, President Capen gave commissions to six young missionaries who are soon to sail to foreign fields. These are: Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Galt, to North China; Miss Gertrude Blanchard, to Fochow, China; Miss Gertrude Harris to the Marathi mission in India; Rev. Henry Holbrook, to Turkey; and Dr. O. L. Love, to North China.

Late today the delegates returned to Boston by special train.

FRANK HUGH J. MOLLOY
Chairman of Committee

wore the Columbus day souvenir medal. The Associate building in which is located the headquarters of the Knights of Columbus was quite profusely decorated, the feature of the decoration being a large picture of the first sight of land by Columbus and his crew.

At the Church

The military mass was sung by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., pastor of the church and provincial of the Oblate order. Rev. Fr. Quinn, O. M. I., formerly of the Sacred Heart church, but now pastor of St. Mary's, at San Antonio, Texas, was deacon; Rev. Fr. Flynn, O. M. I., was sub-deacon and Rev. Fr. McDermott, O. M. I., master of ceremonies.

There were present also in the sanctuary Rev. Frs. McQuaid, Fox and Fletcher.

The mass was the six tone Gregorian and the sanctuary choir of the Sacred Heart church assisted in the music. Its singing was a revelation as to what boys can do under proper training. The Credo was particularly fine. Mrs. Muldown presided with her usual ability as the organist. Mrs. Muldown's offertory song, "Give Thanks, O Lord," which was a favorite hymn of Columbus, James B. Donnelly sang the Vent Creator with fine effect. The choir was augmented by many singers from other Catholic choirs.

The congregation, including those who had turned out in the parade and many more, flocked to the church, many being unable to find even standing room.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flags and national colors, while around the sanctuary were placed potted palms.

As the procession approached the church the school children, massed against the new parochial school building sang national airs, and at the close of the mass the sanctuary choir and congregation sang with great volume and harmony "Hail, God, We Praise Thee."

A Pretty Scene

At noon a chorus of school children sang patriotic airs at city hall and this feature of the day's exercises was one of the prettiest imaginable. The front entrance to the hall was flanked by school children and their happy faces and joyful voices were good to see and to hear.

The streets and the lawn in front of the hall were crowded with men and women, and the beauty of the day added to the beauty of the scene. It was all very pretty and pretty, and all could not refrain from allowing his imagination to carry him from the picture of Columbus' first sight of land, the feature of the decorations at the headquarters of the local knights, to the scene of the happy faces, that garden of beautiful little ones on the steps to the municipal building, and men were seen to study first one picture and then the other.

Every child there had a heart to sing and they were almost impatient of delay. They sang with eagerness of the whirling sounds of the pigeons' wings and waited impatiently for the return of the marchers.

Mr. P. O. Blunt, director of music in the public schools, arrived at the hall before the noon hour and arranged the children on the hall steps, the girls above and the boys below.

When the return of the parade was announced the streets were cleared and in a few minutes all was in readiness for the children's part of the exercises. The first number given by the children was "The Star Spangled Banner." Then came "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," "Father's American Hymn," and "America."

The voices of the little ones were heard to good advantage and there was no lack of harmony. One little girl in the center of the group waved an American flag and men bowed their heads while the little ones sang the patriotic airs.

Prof. Molloy Speaks

It was not down on the program that there would be any speaking at the children's exercises at the city hall, but the scene was too inspiring to go without a word.

Mr. Hugh J. Molloy congratulated the children and told them that they might well feel proud of the important part they had taken in the first celebration of Columbus day as a holiday in Lowell.

Mr. Molloy introduced Mayor Meacham, who said he was well pleased with the observance of the day especially with the part the children played. He said he was inspired by the sight of so many children nested at the very foot of the pedestal of our government. Adding that the air in the state of Massachusetts that the day had been observed as a legal holiday, and only 11 states in the Union joined in the observance.

He said there would be a time when all states in the Union would observe Columbus day as a legal holiday. He admonished the children to learn from the life of Columbus the virtues of perseverance. He said that the Columbus who made American citizenship possible.

Tonight a banquet will be held in Knights of Columbus hall. Several hundred persons will attend this banquet and there will be a number of good speakers, including Rev. J. J. Coyne of Taunton; E. Mark Sullivan of Boston, Mayor Meacham, and others. Hugh J. Molloy will preside.

Masses in All Churches

Masses were held in all of the Catholic churches in the city today in honor of Columbus day.

Offices Closed, Stores Open

The holiday is being officially observed in Lowell. All the municipal, state and county buildings are closed, and the national banks and trust companies are also closed. The large corporations of the city, the mills and machine shops are in operation, and their employees reported for work this morning as usual. The Heinz Electric company closed down in honor of the day.

Most of the stores in the city kept open for business, but some Central, Merrimack, Middlesex, and Georgetown streets most of the stores were very appropriately decorated with bunting, the national colors, and pictures illustrating the story of the great explorer's discovery.

FUNERALS

BUCKLEY.—The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Buckley took place this morning from her late home, 80 Concord street, at 8:30 o'clock. A high mass of requiem was sung at the immaculate Conception church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. McQuaid, O. M. I. The choir under the direction of Mr. Charles P. Smith sang the Gregorian mass. Mrs. Hugh Walker presided at the organ. The bearers were Fred Rollins, John Buckley, Matthew McCarthy, Patrick Doherty, William Buckley, and Michael Flynn. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Mr. McQuaid read the committal prayers. Undertaker Thomas J. McDermott in charge.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes were the following: Blanding tablet inscribed "Good-bye, Grandma," Margaret, John and Francis McCarthy; standing cross, from friends of Buckley; Thuring and Setting, Room of Bigelow-Curtis Co.; spray, pinks, inscribed "Gaudium," Mrs. Buckley; spray, pinks and roses, Miss Kilfie Doherty; mount, inscribed "Ascend," Miss Esther Whitehead and Miss Mabel Palk; spray white pinks, Miss Busby.

O'HARE.—The funeral of Miss Catherine Frances O'Hare took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from her late home, 305 High street. The funeral cortege proceeded to the immaculate Conception church, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Quinn, O. M. I. The choir under the direction of Mr. Charles P. Smith sang the Gregorian mass. Mrs. Hugh Walker presided at the organ. The bearers were Robert Crowley, Leo Crowley, Dr. J. J. McCarthy, Jr., James O'Brien, Robert Crowley, Jr., Edward McGuirk, and John Crowley. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Fr. Crowley read the committal prayers. Undertaker Thos. J. McDermott in charge.

To Consider Prayer and Unction Proposition

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12.—Although defeated in the house of deputies by reason of the fact that the clerical and lay delegates did not agree on it, the proposal to add to the ritual of the church a form of prayer and unction for the sick, not as a sacrament in preparation for death, but as a means of healing, is far from being dead, in the opinion of its advocates.

The report of the joint committee on the subject is still to be acted upon in the house of bishops. The fact that the so-called Emmanuel movement had its origin in the Protestant Episcopal church, in Emmanuel parish, in Boston, has had a deep influence.

There is a large proportion who admit that faith as an element of cure is not to be overlooked while contending that faith alone cannot heal.

This was the day set by the house of bishops for discussion of the question of suffragan bishops, the matter having been reconsidered after once having been voted down. There is an acute difference of opinion on this subject, many bishops under the leadership of Bishop Kinsolving of Texas favoring negro missionary bishops to take charge of all negro churches.

PLUCKY GIRL

SAVES FATHER AND PUTS OUT
FIRE

NEWBROUGH, Oct. 12.—With the automobile on fire and her father pinned under the machine Miss Elizabeth Ewing of Meadowbrook on Monday afternoon rescued him from his perilous position and then extinguished the flames by collecting earth and throwing it upon them. Miss Ewing and her father, John Ewing of Salisbury Mills, were riding in an automobile when Dr. C. V. Gorse came along in the motor car and saw the fire. He turned out and to do so he jumped from the car down a quick bankment twelve feet. Miss Ewing was thrown free from the car, which turned turtle, pinning the father under the seat. Using the wheel of the car as a pivot the girl lifted enough of the car to release her father and then extinguished the fire before aid arrived.

Mr. Ewing is confined to his bed by injuries about the abdomen. Miss Ewing is able to be about but is much bruised.

CUPS REMOVED

Boston & Maine Conforms to Law

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—In conformity with the state law relative to the use of drinking cups in public places, the Boston & Maine railroad and all the lines running through this state have begun the removal of drinking cups from the cars. The Boston & Maine system installed in the cars a system of penny-in-the-slot devices whereby a paper cup can be obtained. In speaking of the change this morning General Manager Barndt said:

"This system of securing individual drinking cups was installed on our system more than a year ago, and was not done to meet the new law, as some may suppose. We have in all about 100 of these devices in operation on the through trains and for the present at least will continue our efforts to through cars and trains. We have in conformity with the law removed all the drinking cups from all the cars on the system running in this state but in no other way have we been compelled to meet the law recently passed."

On all the other lines the railroad officials have the same problem to solve and some of them are meeting it by having the newboys offer for sale individual drinking cups to those who care to buy them at a cost of one cent.

TELEPHONE RATES

NEW PLAN DEFERRED UNTIL MAY, 1911

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the general association organized to protest against the proposed telephone rates, a letter was read by Representative Charles A. Dean of Wakefield, chairman, from Francis A. Houston, vice president and general manager of the telephone company, promising not to put the new rates into effect before May 1, 1911, save as requested by subscribers.

The text of the letter was as follows: "Referring to the request of your committee that such subscribers as desire to do so be given a reasonable length of time to investigate the new rates before any change is made in the rates, I am pleased to say that this is an entirely reasonable request and one that we are very glad to see our way clear to comply with. It is farthest from our desire to insist upon any changes in the new rates until a subscriber has had a most ample opportunity to satisfy himself not only from a study of the new schedule, but from experience of others who have of the new classes is best adapted to his needs."

"It would seem that a period of six months would give ample opportunity for this, and accordingly I am pleased to send in your committee and the organization which represent this assurance—that prior to May 1, 1911, the company will make no changes in the present rates and service of any subscriber unless the same are desired or requested by the subscriber."

"I regret that we were unable to see our way clear to comply with the other suggestions of your committee, but that Mr. Hall and Mr. Barry were able to satisfy you of the soundness of our reasons for feeling that we could not do so."

The three requests made to the telephone company by the committee were: (1) That the proposed zones should not be established; (2) that a 5-cent call rate be established between the metropolitan exchanges and all suburban exchanges; (3) that the rates be made optional and not compulsory.

The third of these requests the company has for the present granted. Mr. Dean said that the company is encouraged by this, and now plans to comply with the instructions of the general association by taking the case to Gov. Draper and the highway committee. Mr. Dean will see the governor in person, to request his intervention in the matter, at least by recommending that the commission grant a public hearing.

WOODEN LEG

COURT

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Henry Wilson Griffith, whose wife Eleanor obtained a decree of divorce by default last month with $22.50 a week alimony, told Supreme Court Justice Page yesterday that his wife had worked on the sympathies of Justices Erlanger and Greenbush, who had signed the decree in the case, and got them to direct the payment of more alimony than he could afford by using their son, who has an artificial foot, "to attack a soft and tender spot in the heart of justice."

"She used it with success on Justice Erlanger, who is soft hearted and kindly judge, and again before Justice Greenbush, who is similarly constituted," said Griffith. He said that his wife had signed an agreement not to ask for more than $12.50 a week.

Justice Page was impressed by Griffith's application, fixed the alimony at $12.50 and denied a motion to punish him for failing to pay alimony at the rate of $22.50.

DEER DIED

AFTER ENTERING A YARD IN METHUEN

METHUEN, Oct. 12.—A deer entered the yard of Samuel Dearborn of this town in an exhausted condition. The animal had apparently been followed a long distance by dogs and sought protection, which was given by Mr. Dearborn. The game warden was notified and was to make arrangements for the care of the deer had the animal lived. In going to the shed Monday afternoon Mr. Dearborn found the animal dead. The deer had been bitten by the dogs in several places.

BOAT DAMAGED

IN STORM OFF ROCKLAND, ME.
TODAY

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 12.—The heavy northwest gale this afternoon severely damaged the schooner Ella May and placed her in a dangerous position. The little schooner was reported in distress near Whitehead with her main beam and anchor gone and in danger of going to the rocks. A tugboat from Rockland was sent to her aid and it was believed the life-saving crew from the Whitehead station was lending a helping hand. The members of the schooner crew were still on board. The schooner is owned by S. E. and H. L. Shepard of Rockland and was in command of Captain Harrington.

STILL IN DEADLOCK

Committee of Four at Sea
Over Nominee

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The committee of four appointed by the democratic state convention to select a nominee for governor, went into session again this afternoon. There was little prospect of an early break in the deadlock.

No Fifth Member
Adjournment at noon for a meeting at 3 p. m. found the committee still deadlocked. During the session Mr. Maynard's motion to rally the recommendation of Congressman Foss for a convention recall was deadlocked. So too the motion of Mr. Crowley that Mr. Foss be asked for a statement similar to the Hamlin statement, to support any candidate the committee chose.

A third deadlock came when Mr. Macleod moved that Mr. Hamlin be asked if he favored Mr. Foss. A recommendation for a second convention. The fourth deadlock of the morning resulted when Mr. Crowley named Judge Lillor of Lowell, a member of the superior bench, as the fifth member of the committee. Mr. Macleod moved that Mr. Crowley be asked if he wished to know what action the state committee, which meets today, would take. Mr. Crowley said that he did not consider that the committee of four ought to be influenced by the committee of four, inasmuch as the committee of four was appointed by the convention for the purpose of carrying out the will of the convention.

Mr. Maynard then brought another deadlock by moving that the selection of the fifth member of the committee be postponed until the next meeting. Mr. Crowley then presented a list of eight names for a choice for the fifth member of the committee. These were former Assistant District Attorney Michael Dwyer of Boston, Judge Henry Braley of Fall River, Chief Justice Albert C. Greenfield, Judge Franklin Fossenden of Greenfield, and Judge Charles DeCoursey of Concord, members of the Massachusetts superior court; Bernard Wolf of Boston, J. J. Phelan of Boston and Patrick Keating of Boston. Each name was voted on in turn and each time there was a deadlock. Mr. Crowley and Mr. Maynard and Macleod and Maynard opening.

Adjournment until 5 p. m. was taken.

Macleod Calls Meeting
A meeting of the democratic state committee was called by Chairman Frederick J. Macleod at 2:30 p. m. today to consider reconvening the delegates to the state convention at Faneuil hall on Saturday for the purpose of nominating a candidate for governor. This proposition was advanced by Chairman Macleod in the Hotel Bellevue last night.

Congressman Eugene N. Foss, who has already stated above his signature that he was not a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, endorsed the suggestion made by Chairman Macleod in a letter to the latter last night.

The situation on the democratic and became more complicated than ever yesterday.

At the end of the fourth day the convention committee was as far away as ever from agreeing upon a candidate for governor.

The members of the committee are in a state of high nervous tension and there is a bitter feeling evident among them.

Macleod Makes Declaration
When the meeting adjourned at the Hotel Bellevue last night Chairman Macleod in the foyer announced that he had determined to "take the situation in his own hands," and that he already had called a meeting of the state committee today for the purpose of getting the delegates together for another convention on Saturday.

Ex-Rep. William Hayes of Springfield was present when the statement was made. He was very angry at the tone adopted by Macleod.

An interested crowd of bellboys, clerks and guests listened to the ultimatum of the chairman of the state committee. James H. Vahey, who was standing nearby, flushed, but said nothing.

"This is no place to make such a statement," said Hayes. "Let us sit down to a table with the newspapermen. Macleod was finally persuaded to go down stairs to the lower cafe. At this stage of proceedings, when the newspapermen had gathered around a table, Hayes, who is secretary of the meeting, interrupted Macleod's statement to read the minutes of the meeting.

He said that the committee, for the second time during the day, had voted on the names of Hamlin and Foss, and that both times there had been a deadlock. Major Robert Crowley of Lowell and Hayes of Springfield, voted for Hamlin and against Foss, and Chairman Joseph Maynard of the democratic city committee and Chairman Macleod of the state committee voted for Foss and against Hamlin.

$11,000 DUTY
FOR IMPORTED GOWNS

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt arrived yesterday with her daughters, the Misses Margaret Staynesant-Rutherford and Barbara Calvercross Rutherford, by the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie. She had 45 trunks and paid $11,000 duty on Parisian gowns and jewelry for herself and her daughters. It is the largest amount of money collected on a steamship pier from a single person this year. It took a force of inspectors five hours to examine the trunks and verify the declaration. The party also brought in $200,000 worth of jewelry which they proved had been bought in the United States.

LONG VOYAGE
PALATIAL STEAMERS HARVARD AND YALE LEAVE BOSTON

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The luxurious steamers Harvard and Yale, announced of whose sale to Pacific coast parties was recently made, will leave New York tomorrow on their long trip around to San Francisco. They will steam about 15,000 miles, going through the straits of Magellan. They will call at St. Lucia, Montevideo, Coronel and several ports on the Pacific coast for fuel. Capt. Shea, a Pacific coast navigator, will command the Harvard on the passage to the coast, and Capt. Smith, who has held the position of chief officer on the Yale since she was placed in commission, will be in charge of that vessel.

THE IMPORTANCE OF DRESS

Your dress is now become an object worthy of much attention, for as most people will confess, they cannot help forming an opinion of a man's sense and character from his dress. Any affectation whatsoever in dress implies a flaw in the understanding. A man of sense carefully avoids any particular character in his dress; he is accurately clean for his own sake, but all the rest is for other people's. He should dress as well, and in the same manner, as the people of sense and fashion of the place where he is. If he dresses better, as he thinks, that is, more than they, he is a fop; if he dresses worse, he is unpardonably negligent; but of the two it is better too much than too little dressed, and we say right here that there is no need of being anyway but properly dressed while you have such a store as the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY with its competent salesmen always anxious to see everyone correctly dressed. Dress yourself fine where others are fine, and plain where others are plain, but take care always that your clothes are well made and fit you, for otherwise they will give you a very awkward air. This is just where the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY shines—they've struck a stride that others can't keep up with, not only in having their clothing properly made, but fitted by expert tailors.

When you get the best ready-to-wear garments fitted to your form by the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY, you will be well dressed and protected against any criticisms anyone might offer. It is that fine harmony between a man and his dress that distinguishes the gentleman from the vulgarian. We advise that you cultivate this excellence and visit the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY, across from city hall, for your Fall Suit or Overcoat.

BOY BULLET SHIELD ANSWERS TO THE SUN THEATRE PUZZLE CONTEST POURING IN

Fatally Shot by New York Pugilist Seats for the Winners at the Opera House Saturday Night

Latter Killed Himself When Cornered by Infuriated Mob—Man Who Held Up Boy to Protect Himself Made His Escape

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A schoolboy, Charley Fisher of 1439 Madison avenue, was playing ball with other boys in Madison avenue at East 103d street about the time the home coming work was being done in the neighborhood last night. Two men stopped at the southeast corner and began to fight. One of the men pulled a revolver from his pocket, the other yelled and ran toward Charley Fisher. The frightened boy in front of him as a shield and the expected bullets.

"Don't be a damn fool!" the frightened man cried as he tried completely to hide himself behind Charley's slight form. "Look out, Biff—don't shoot the kid!"

Charley added his yells of terror to those of the man holding him. As the mob tried to struggle away the man with the revolver fired. The bullet entered Charley's head. The man for whom the bullet was meant let go of Charley, and the boy crumpled to the pavement. He died two hours later in Harlem hospital.

The homeboys who had been halted by the crack of the pistol came charging toward the corner where the boy lay. The man who had held him turned and ran eastward through 103d street. No one paid much attention to him just then, and he got away. He disappeared, some say, in a tenement in the south side of 103d street, half a block from where the shooting took place.

Biff Clark, a prize fighter, is the man who did the shooting. Biff's real name is said to be Harry Greenwald, 25 years old. The nearest the police have come to his home address is McKimley square, The Bronx. He and another man—thought to be the one who last night ran from the crowd—some time ago rented a room together in the building in front of which the shooting occurred, but what they did in the room has not been learned.

The fight between the two and the argument that preceded it had been noticed only by Charley Fisher and his playmates. The very few men who were passing picked up Charley, the crowd thought that Biff Clark had shot the boy wantonly, and so they charged upon Biff savagely.

From shops and tenement doors and from passing cars and the streets running in four directions they converged upon Biff. He was few feet from the crowd when he was picked up. A quick circle once or twice with leveled revolver and held the leaders of the crowd back for a moment. While there was still an opening in the narrow circle of faces Biff broke through and ran south on Madison avenue with a mob of people following and yelling behind him.

Once free of the crowd there was an open way ahead of Biff Clark. Those who thought to stop the murderer were clear as he pointed his revolver at them, and he ran on. When he reached 101st street the fastest sprinter in a mob of men must have numbered almost 1000. He turned west to 101st street, with the clattering and yelling of his heels.

The crowd was almost within grabbing reach when he got to Fifth avenue. At the door of 1208 Fifth avenue Clark turned and disappeared in the dark hallway of the flat house. Readers could hear him tramping up steps, but only Policeman Seales ventured to follow the man with the revolver. For a quarter of an hour Seales searched the house, but Clark seemed to have got away through hallways to search the back yard. At 101st street he was seen again, for he was seen to surround the block. Clark, who evidently had been on the flat house, must have thought he was clear again, for he suddenly appeared in the doorway of 208.

Those who saw his face yelled the words and back came the searchers. Seales in the lead they struggled into the hallway after Clark. At the far end of the hallway he stopped beneath a dim gaslight and braced himself against the wall. The crowd was closing on him. He pressed the revolver against his temple, fired twice and dropped dead.

For hours afterward the excited residents of the upper East Side kept the neighborhood in a ferment. So great was the crowd in Madison avenue that all traffic was blocked until police Captain Corcoran and the reserves from the East 104th street station cut a passage for the trolley cars through the jam.

Charley Fisher was hurried to Harlem hospital. At 12:20 o'clock last night he died. The body of Clark, or Greenwald, was first taken to the East 104th street police station and later removed to the morgue.

While detectives were making an unsuccessful search for the man who had held Charley Fisher in front of him, the boys on the corner said they had seen the man first hiding in the quarrel in Cohen's pool room in the basement of 1503 Madison avenue, which is on the corner where the first shot was fired.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

A fair-sized audience went into raptures over the second performance of Jerome K. Jerome's beautiful play, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" at the opera house last evening and Manager Varni is to be congratulated upon presenting such an unusually fine production at the local theatre before its production in Boston. The play has yet to be seen by Boston theatre-goers.

"THE SMART SET"

A three-act musical comedy that differs from its contemporaries in divers ways will be the attraction at the opera house tonight. It is from the pen of Edwin Hanford and is entitled "His Honor the Barber." As presented by the famous "Smart Set" company with S. H. Dudley in the stellar role of the barber, has become one of the real treats of the season.

Although the comedy contains fifteen original songs, hits, musical numbers and ensembles it could easily hold its own on the strength of its brisk and humorous dialogue, situations, novelties, features, etc., and the interpretation of the company itself which is composed of sixty capable people. Mr. Dudley is seen at his best as Rastusberry Snow, a negro who wants to have the president of the United States. As Mr. Dudley portrays the character it becomes one of the funniest and best developed types seen hereabouts in years. "Rastusberry" is a trained dancer, who has been retained for the last season, has been retained for the last season, has been retained for the last season.

"Rastusberry" is the constant companion of Rastusberry and there are many side splitting adventures during the action of the play. In point of durable excellence, style and originality, the comedy is said to be the most pretentious ever offered in years. Edwin Hanford wrote the book, and Messrs. Brim, Smith and Burris furnished the lyrics and music, and Messrs. Barton and Wiswell are the owners. The costumes, which are said to be the most original seen on the stage in many a day were selected from plates furnished by William H. Harnes.

Altogether, the production is an attractive part of the production. Mr. Varni will introduce a singing and dancing specialty said to be the best of its kind offered on any stage.

"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

Wm. A. Brady announces the eminent comedian, Thos. W. H. in "A Gentleman from Mississippi" at the opera house on Friday and Saturday. Custom cannot state this uproarious comedy, which is now in its third year of success and it bids fair to go on until the copyright expires. A long stage career is the more assured for it because it is so absolutely true to life. It represents, throughout the story, the scariest threads of pathos and the gray threads of good deeds, and from these variegated strands authors Harrison Rhodes and Mr. Wise who is also co-author of the play, have woven a tapestry of humor, love and kindness that touch alike the heart and eye, and the figure stands out with startling fidelity to life. Mr. Wise will be seen in his now famous laugh-provoking creation of Senator Langdon and will be supported by the entire company that appeared during the record breaking run of 16 weeks at the Park theatre, Boston, last season.

BINGVILLE BUGLE FOLKS

Newton Newkirk's famous cartoon characters "Bingville Bugle Folks" have at last been dramatized and will be seen here at the opera house next Thursday night, Oct. 13th. "Bingville Folks" have long been one of the comic features of the Boston Sunday Post, and it is said that the characters as presented in dramatic form have developed into a splendid rural comedy drama that is meeting with great success wherever presented. The company is said to be an excellent one, headed by Jonathan Keefe, and is presented with splendid stage settings carried by the company. "Bingville Bugle Folks" will be presented here for but one performance, Thursday, Oct. 13th.

Have you entered The Sun's contest for seats at the Opera House next Saturday night? Answers to the headless puzzle are pouring in, and there will be ten lucky persons, who, with their families or friends will see "A Gentleman from Mississippi," the play that convulsed Boston for sixteen weeks last season and which comes to the Opera House for an engagement of two nights, Friday and Saturday, of this week with Saturday matinee. Now is the time to get busy solving the problem of which head belongs on each body. Paste the heads where they belong, and send the picture to the Theatre Contest Editor of The Sun. The girls are members of the Thos. A. Wise company and by special arrangement with Louis Miller, business manager for Wm. A. Brady, The Sun gives you the opportunity of seeing the original.

Prizes will be awarded for next Saturday evening's performance at the Opera House. First will be two orchestra seats; the second, two more orchestra seats; the third, two orchestra seats; the fourth, two orchestra seats, and so on. The contest closes at ten o'clock Friday morning, October 14th. No solutions submitted later than that hour will be considered. The ten prizes offered will be awarded the ten persons whose correct solutions reach The Sun office first. Winners will be announced in Friday's Sun when the young women with their heads regained will be depicted.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Aviation has its innings at Hathaway's theatre, this week. A Herring-Curtiss aeroplane, the identical one with which Glenn H. Curtiss established the world's speed record at Rheims, France, last year, is shown and explained by an expert lecturer. The frail machine should arouse much interest. At the close of every performance the audience has an opportunity to go on the stage and examine the plane.

Without question "The Bandit," which occupies a place on the bill, is the best constructed and best acted one-act play ever put on at a local vaudeville theatre. E. Frederick Hawley, a most conscientious actor, appears in the title role and his supporting company is thoroughly good. The Lorraine-Dudley company in the startling little play, "The Finish" mix comedy and dramatic interest, and Kelley & Lafferty, a duo of dancers, have the "goods" all of the time. The Four Musical Hodges dispense good music, and George H. Wood satisfies as a monologist. Laypo & Benjamin, acrobats, open the bill.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, with special seats for women at the matinees.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

To hear grand opera sung by grand opera singers is the sort of a musical treat that everybody is anxious to have. Such is afforded patrons of the Merrimack Square theatre this week, however, in the offering presented by Emil Greder, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera company in New York and a baritone of international renown. He is accompanied by his wife, a splendid soprano singer, and the two offer selections from the most popular grand operas. It is an act well worth hearing, and more than once, too.

So successful has the engagement of this act proved, in fact, that the management of the theatre has decided to designate Thursday evening as grand opera night, and at that performance the Greder's, as they are billed, will present a special program of unusual merit.

There are plenty of other good acts on the bill, too. Blake's animal circus, with its trained monkeys and ponies and dogs, makes a great hit with the children. Maud is with the circus, also—Maud, the original bucking mule. She is a whole act in herself.

The Scenic Stock company presents an intensely interesting little love story in the one act rural play, "Jim the Blacksmith." It is the best thing the company has yet given. James R. Waters is a character comedian of unusual attainments, and Fred Pearson is a baritone soloist already well known and popular in Lowell. Excellent moving pictures are interspersed on the program.

A continuous performance is presented daily from 11 until 10:30 p. m.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Edgar Foreman & Co. in "The Dancer Point," C. W. Littlefield, the clever mimic and Thomas & Mathews, the operatic Terrors, are giving great satisfaction at the academy. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday "Trin's Isle," one of the best and most massive scenic productions in vaudeville, with Miss Hortense Scarle, the popular dramatic soprano, will be the feature attraction. Herbert Brooks and his $20,000 trunk sensation, and Hammond & Forrester, will complete the bill. New moving pictures. Admission 5 and 10 cents.

bers are living. It was also said that the secretary of the state board wished that the name of the Middlesex north agricultural society should be prominent when fairs are held in conjunction with any of the granges.

It was voted to hold a fair next year. Dracut grange invited the society to hold it in that town, but the matter was laid over for future consideration. Resolutions were adopted on the death of Ex-Pres. Arthur H. Chier of Lowell, Ex-Pres. Henry J. Tolley of Dunstable and B. C. Farwell of Reading, a member of the board of trustees.

The treasurer reported that the society had on hand $7131.94, about $20.45 less than last year. The following officers were elected: George W. Trull, Townbury, pres.;

George L. Hutton, F. J. Flemings, M. O. Perkins and Thomas Varnum, Lowell, P. P. Perham, Chelmsford, John L. Penbody, Dracut, vice pres. Andrew Liddell, Lowell, sec. John A. Weinbeck, Lowell, treas.

The trustees chosen were: C. H. Chapman and S. R. Merrill, Popperell; William Trull and Lyman Taylor, Acton; A. M. Warren and W. E. Lapham, Chelmsford; Dexter Butterfield and A. H. Kendall, Dunstable; Ben. T. Perry and A. B. Eames, Wilmington; J. E. Rowell and Sidney A. Bull, Billerica; Frank M. Case, North Reading; M. P. Swallow and M. P. Palmer, Groton; Jesse B. Butterfield and Ben. B. Lawrence, Framingham; Herbert B. Fletcher and S. L. Taylor, Westford; Enoch Foster and H. W. Foster, Tewksbury; J. J. McManis and A. W. Colburn, Dracut; E. S. Howe, George E. Putnam, George B. Washburn and J. E. Foster, Lowell.

Howard M. Foster was appointed on committee on farmers' institutes and he was authorized to expend not exceeding $100 in conducting them.

MATRIMONIAL

A marriage of interest to Lowell people was that of Mr. Albert Gifford Mott and Miss Mina Gertrude Jacques, which was celebrated Oct. 5 in Corona, Cal. The bride is the daughter of Rev. Benjamin B. Jacques, pastor of the Baptist church in that place, and who was at one time superintendent of the Sunday school of the Branch Street Baptist church in this city.

GIRAZIAN—MARDIGIAN

Mr. Sahag Girazian and Mrs. Goulvart Mardigian, both of this city, were married Monday, Oct. 10, at 6 o'clock in the evening, by Rev. Geo. F. Kenn-gott, pastor of the First Trinitarian church. The wedding took place at Rev. Mr. Kennigott's residence, 298 Liberty street, and Mr. Kennigott was assisted by Rev. A. Garabedian.

CRIPPEN INDICTED

Charged With Murder by Grand Jury

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The grand jury today found true bills against Dr. Hawley Crippen and Ethel Clara Le-neve, charging the former as the principal and the latter as an accessory, after the fact with the murder of the doctor's wife, whose stage name was Belle Elmore.

The trials will probably open on Tuesday instead of on Monday, as at first expected.

Dr. Greene's NERVURA

TIED TO THE DESK.

How long can they stand it? Hour after hour, day after day, year after year, books, accounts, figures, statements! Ah! the young men grow narrow chested and pale. Strong, vigorous fellows shrivel up into weak, sickly, irritable, round shouldered failures!

Think it over now! Are you getting this way? Are you losing ground? Have you some chronic trouble? Don't take any chances. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will make a new man of you.

Mr. H. F. Davis, 209 Catherine Street, Syracuse, N. Y., says:
"I was induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy at that particular time of the year when a person's system is generally run down. I tried this remedy and to my surprise, it benefited me. I would not exaggerate my feelings. It seemed to take hold of the whole system and strength and make new all parts which seemed to have perished had they not been there."

"As a blood purifier and a system builder Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy far exceeds all other remedies and stands in a class by itself. I shall always be pleased to say a good word for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy whenever the opportunity offers."

Mr. T. F. Smith, Clinton, N. J., says:
"I was very nervous and run down, had complete loss of appetite and always had that 'fired feeling.' Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cured me. I can use my testimonial, as I consider Nervura a wonderful medicine."

ROOSEVELT FLEW

Took Trip in Flying Machine at Kinloch Park, Near St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12.—Theodore Roosevelt yesterday made an aeroplane flight as the passenger of Archibald Hoxsey and said it was the finest sensation he ever had experienced. He traveled twice around the aviation field at Kinloch Park in three minutes and 59 seconds. He waved his hand at the thousands of spectators much to the discomfort of the aviator, who feared that the colonel might hit a controlling cord. When the machine alighted easily a few feet from the starting place, a mighty shout of applause went up.

Hoxsey, a Wright aviator, said that Mr. Roosevelt made a good passenger except that he was afraid the colonel would fall out or interfere with the engine. The colonel waved his hands at the crowd so vigorously that Hoxsey called out to him, "Keep your hands on the rail, colonel."

Colonel Roosevelt, who had forgotten to hold himself in, waved his hands once more and then obeyed orders.

The colonel's flight was a surprise to everybody. Although he had been invited to go, no one had the least idea that he would do so, and he himself did not decide to fly until the moment before he stepped into the machine.

The trip to the aviation field to watch the aeroplane flights was in the afternoon's program of the colonel's day in St. Louis.

STAR PITCHERS WHO WILL MEET IN HIGHLANDER-GIANTS SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Second in importance only to the world's series is the post season games between the Highlanders and the Giants for the championship of New York. To the country at large the fight between the two teams can be but less interesting than the world's series. It brings together the runners-up of major league baseball. To local fans the series makes the clash between the Athletics and Cubs sink into insignificance. Each side boasts one wonderful twirler. The Giants have the great Christy Mathewson and the Highlanders Russell Ford, the sensation of the American league this year. Ford's record this season is far more brilliant than that of the great old master. Mathewson, but Ford is not as valuable to a club in a short season as his renowned rival. Mathewson is an iron man. He can pitch every other game if need be, provided his physical condition is right. Ford has never worked oftener than every fourth or fifth day. He might be able to work more frequently if absolutely necessary, but it is questionable if he would retain his effectiveness. Mathewson has proved the task an easy one. He has been resting up for this series and will be McGraw's chief dependence.

Cloheey, new president of the Haverhill New England baseball association, yesterday announced that William R. Hamilton, the old Boston National league player, may resume the management of the Haverhill line next season.

Mr. Cloheey has conferred with Mr. Hamilton, who was with the Lynn club for the past two years, and has obtained his consent to come here providing he does not buy a franchise in the Connecticut league for which he is now negotiating.

THE POLICE BOARD BARNEY OLDFIELD

Promoted Probationary Men to Regular Reserve

Suspended for Taking Up Johnson

The board of police met in regular session last night, but there was very little business of importance transacted at the regular meeting other than the promotion of a number of police officers from the probationary to the regular reserve force.

The hearing on the petition of the Montefiore society, that the special police officer license of Moses Shapiro be revoked, was scheduled to take place last night, but the person who had petitioned the appointment of the officer was not present. It was decided to postpone the hearing until the next meeting night.

Patrick Connolly, Michael Connolly, Joseph L. Conedine, Louis G. A. L. LeMay, Jerome P. Cullen, William L. Keegan, Patrick B. Clark, Thomas R. Tighe, William P. Reagan, Martin R. Crowe, Joseph H. Johnson, Alfred J. Conroy, William J. Kenney, Michael H. Wayne and Patrick P. Noonan who had petitioned the appointment of the officer was not present. It was decided to postpone the hearing until the next meeting night.

Licenses granted:

Job wagon—Manoog Asdourian, 57 Lakeview avenue.

To sell ice cream, confectionery, etc., on the Lord's day—Bannister Brothers, John T. Bannister, 629 School street.

COLUMBUS DAY

RED MEN MADE FINE DISPLAY AT NEW BEDFORD

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 12.—In the first Columbus Day celebration here today the Red Men's parade furnished one of the most brilliant pageants of its kind ever seen in this city. Over two thousand men were in line, divided into squads of different kinds of soldiers and Indians. The most attractive features of the parade were groups of men who represented the picture, "The spirit of '76" and automobiles which were decorated with flowers and ribbons.

"JAWN O'BRIEN"

RE-ELECTED MANAGER OF FALL RIVER TEAM

FALL RIVER, Oct. 12.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fall River baseball club was held last evening, the most important item being the re-election of John H. O'Brien manager for the season of 1911. The old board of directors was re-elected: Martin J. McDonald, John E. Torphy, Joseph P. Mooney and Harold Crook.

Plans for next season were discussed at some length. The past season was a profitable one from a financial standpoint, the balance sheets showing a net loss of $700.

LAJOIE VS. COBB

"Ty" Regrets Controversy Has Arisen

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Pres. Robert Hedges of the St. Louis Browns is plugging for Nap Lajoie in the controversy attending the American league batting honors.

During a conference yesterday with Pres. Johnson of the American league the Mount City owner supported King Lajoie, asserting that the latter was entitled to each and every one of the eight hits credited to him in the double-header Sunday.

According to Hedges, infielder Corridon played back on the grass every time Lajoie went to bat as if fearful lest the Cleveland slugger might interfere in his direction. Other players had warned Corridon to be careful when Lajoie was batting, and the youngster was merely following instructions.

The league chief yesterday telegraphed Umpire Billy Evans, who officiated during the games, asking for a complete statement, together with the scores, from the St. Louis official scorer. After considering these reports Johnson will be prepared to make his decision.

Thus far Lajoie hasn't received a word of congratulation from Cobb on the batting competition. For years it has been the custom of the second heavy hitter to send a line of good cheer to the victor, but the Georgian has overlooked this little courtesy.

CORRIDON EXPLAINS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—John L. Corridon, who played third base for St. Louis Sunday, when Lajoie of Cleveland made eight hits in two games, said yesterday he played so far back of third base because he was afraid of the speed in Lajoie's hits.

"I want to remain in baseball for some years," said Corridon. "I was not going to get killed playing in on Lajoie. Lajoie is known as a hard hitter, and I played far back."

Manager O'Connor of the Browns says there is nothing to investigate in the matter. He denies that he ever gave any order or suggestion looking to favoritism for Lajoie.

COBB MAKES NO KICK

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Ty Cobb of the Detroit team, who with Napoleon Lajoie of Cleveland, heads the list of heavy hitters in the American league, arrived in this city last night. He said he did not care to discuss the recent game at St. Louis where Lajoie made eight hits in eight times at bat, which may place Lajoie first in the batting averages for the year.

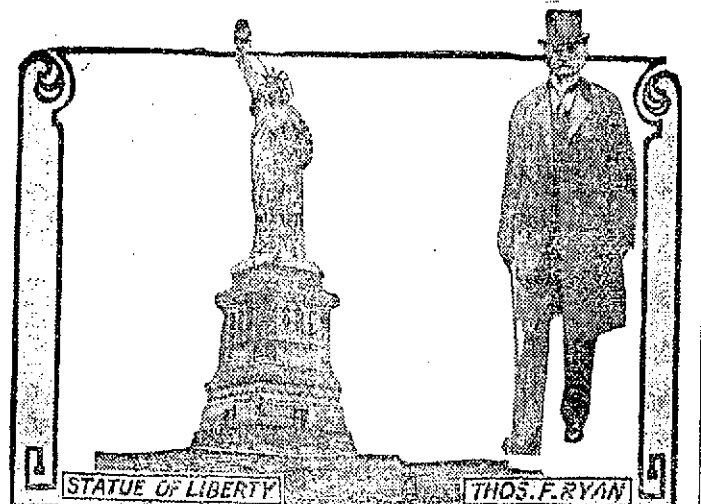

"I was surprised when I read of the result of the games in the papers," said Cobb. "and am sorry that either Lajoie or myself did not win the prize for the highest average without anything occurring which could cause unfavorable comment. I am not prepared to make any charges against either Lajoie or members of the St. Louis team."

WANTS HAMILTON

HAVERHILL MANAGER DESIRES HIS RETURN

$10,000 FOR FLIGHT AROUND THE STATUE OF LIBERTY

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Thomas F. Ryan has offered a $10,000 prize for the fastest flight from Belmont park around the statue of Liberty during the international aviation tournament, Oct. 22 to 30. It is the largest prize to be won for any one feat. The details of the contest have not been formulated, but it is said that it is probable that each aviator will be allowed to select his own route. Mr. Ryan announced this prize in a cable message to his son, Allan A. Ryan, who is acting as the business director of the tournament. In the message Mr. Ryan simply offered the $10,000, instructing that it be used for any prize that Allan A. Ryan and De Lancey Nicol might determine upon. They at once selected the statue of Liberty flight. The aviation committee is now working on the rules to govern the competition. If the flight is made in direct line and over South Brooklyn the distance to the statue and return will be about 33 miles. Should the flight be made from the aerodrome to the sea and up the harbor the distance would then be about 55 miles. American air men, as a rule, are opposed to flying over populous districts, but some of the French competitors may attempt the feat and take the short course. Arrangements will be made to place the statue in wireless communication with the judges stand on the aviation field, so that the exact moment when each aviator turns the statue can be instantly announced to the crowds at the tournament.

WORLD'S RECORD SPEAKER CANNON

Has Opposition in His Home Town

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12.—A. L. Welch in a Wright biplane yesterday created a new endurance record for America, of three hours, 11 minutes and 55 seconds. The previous record was made by Ralph Johnson at Airbury Park, N. J., in 3 hours, 5 minutes and 40 seconds. Welch ascended at the Kinloch aviation field at 1.48 o'clock. Most of the time he flew at high altitudes.

Alfred LeBlanc, a French aviator drove his Blériot monoplane for the first time in America at the local meet yesterday. He was greeted with enthusiasm and made two flights, one of which was highly spectacular.

ELY GIVES UP

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Eugene Ely, an aviator yesterday gave up his attempt to make a flight from Chicago to New York for the $25,000 prize offered by the Chicago Evening Post and the New York Times. Ely left his aeroplane in a field near South Chicago, 21 miles from Hawthorne park, whence he started at 4.11 p. m., and departed for Cleveland. The machine will be shipped to New York today.

Ely declared that his continued trouble with his aeroplane was due to the failure of mechanics to arrange the gasoline tank on the machine properly. He said that the gasoline feed was interrupted by a lack of a vent hole in the tank.

BOWLING NEWS

The formal opening of the bowling season took place last night when the Manufacturers' league brought itself into the lime light, three games being played. In the game between the Bigelow Co. and Bratt Co., the former took two points and the latter one. The game between the Manufacturers' league and Tremont & Suffolk aggregation resulted in a severe trouncing for the latter team. The Appletons and Hamiltons were there with the close game for there was a difference of but seven pins between the two teams when the smoke of the battle cleared away.

CONVENTION INVALID OFFICERS ARE NAMED

Another Convention Will be Held in Waltham—Lively Hearing on Recent Conventions Held in This City

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—That the democratic convention held in Lowell last Friday which nominated John J. Higgins for district attorney for the Middlesex county district was invalid but was no conspiracy was the decision rendered yesterday by Judge Richardson in the equity session of the Middlesex superior court.

Mr. Higgins, who is the republican candidate for reelection, announced in open court that he would decline to accept the democratic nomination in view of the circumstances under which the convention was called.

The hearing came as the result of a bill filed by James J. Irwin of Everett for an injunction to restrain William J. McCluskey from filing the certificate of nomination of Mr. Higgins.

Mr. Irwin charged that notices of the convention were sent out so late that only a small fraction of the delegates were present. It was alleged that Mr. Higgins and others interested in the republican county ring had conspired to pull off a snap convention and hand the party nomination to the republican candidate.

Judge Richardson, after hearing the evidence, declined to issue the injunction and absolved all persons concerned of any fraud or wrongdoing. He attributed the insufficient notice to the loose way in which by custom such conventions had been called in the past.

"I find," he said, "that the fact that the notices were sent out as they were was the result of the habitual loose way of doing such business. It was the loose way of doing things rather than any wicked, bad design to defraud people of their rights. The charges of wickedly and wrongfully conspiring are not maintained."

"The evidence failed utterly to show that Mr. Higgins took any part in any way, directly or indirectly, in calling the convention or getting himself nominated. There is evidence to support any allegations of the bill as to him. An injunction is not needed here."

"The notices sent out were insufficient and the nomination was invalid. As to whether those having to do with the calling of a convention desire to take further action to call a convention, they may do as they see fit."

Thomas J. Boynton, counsel for the complainant, said that he would exonerate Mr. Higgins on the charge of conspiracy.

Mr. Higgins himself stated that in view of the circumstances and the objections of Mr. Irwin he would not accept the nomination. "I am in a position to say," he added, "that I should prefer that the democratic nominate Mr. Irwin as their candidate. Of course, if a convention should be properly called and should nominate me, I should accept the nomination."

Mr. Irwin in the course of his testimony, under cross-examination, said that he had been told by Larry Smith, a detective, that one of the judges of the superior court had stated that the district attorney should have been impeached for the manner in which he conducted a recent criminal case.

His reason for implicating Mr. Higgins in the conspiracy, he said, was Mr. McCluskey's statement that he was with the county ring, and that they had to have him cover up their tracks.

Mr. Irwin further complained of Mr. Higgins' conduct toward Nelson P. Brown, of Everett, his opponent in the convention three years ago. Mr. Higgins, he said, had bargained with Brown for the nomination and had then broken his side of the bargain. Later, he charged, he had used his office to persecute Brown, attempting to indict him for perjury.

"A man of that character," said Mr. Irwin, "in my opinion is capable of doing the things that were done at Lowell."

William J. McCluskey of Lowell, chairman of the democratic Middlesex county district attorney committee, testified that there was no intention to steal the convention or to get a snap convention. He knew, he said, of no domination by the county ring to secure the nomination.

A CONFERENCE

DEVOTED SESSION TO CHILD PROTECTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Today's session of the International Humane conference here will be devoted exclusively to the discussion of child protection. Particular subjects to be dwelt upon are moving-picture shows and their influence on the child and children and the theatre. The child legislation relating to children on the stage will be reviewed by the delegates. The discussion on "Moving picture shows and the child" will be opened by T. H. Agnew of New Orleans, superintendent of the Louisiana Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Pres. Durnin and Sec'y Driscoll Re-Elected Without Opposition—Convention Turns Down Plan to Form a Labor Political Party

WORCESTER, Oct. 12.—Their sessions during the past two days having developed more business than was anticipated, the delegates to the annual convention of the Massachusetts branch, American Federation of Labor, continued their deliberations today with the election of officers and a general committee reports before them. It was expected that the convention would take action before adjournment on resolutions regarding the coming state campaign in Massachusetts and on other subjects.

The election of officers was without great interest. President Durnin of Holyoke being unopposed for re-election as was Secretary-Treasurer Driscoll of Boston and most of the other officers. There were nine or ten candidates for the five vice-presidencies and nearly as many for the five places on the legislative committee. Haverhill was generally favored as the place of holding next year's convention.

In view of the discussion in the convention yesterday on the stand to be taken by the state branch in the coming elections the report of political activity committee, headed by Chairman James W. Wall of Worcester, was awaited with much interest by the delegates. The convention yesterday voted to place an independent ticket in the field but it is probable that the committee will report in favor of using the utmost strength of the state branch in fulfilling its political slogan, "Elect our friends, defeat our enemies."

No Political Party

The proposition to form a political party which should champion the labor cause was unanimously defeated yesterday. The measure received an adverse report from the committee, while Frank H. McCarthy spoke at length upon the subject and the debate lasted for two hours. It was contended by Mr. McCarthy that every precedent was against the move and that the labor unionists could not expect to get a party which would work in such harmony and have enough strength to accomplish any effective work. He advised inspection of candidates' labor records and then voting for the best man.

Declaring the 64 hour bill governing the hours of labor for women and children was eminently satisfactory and in harmony with the expressed belief of our churches of every denomination, a resolution was passed to ask the aid of the clergymen through preaching one sermon on the subject previous to the state election November 8.

J. A. Lowell of South Lawrence spoke upon "Compensation for Injured Workmen" at the afternoon session.

President Taft Will Not Act Hastily

BEVERLY, Oct. 12.—President Taft announced yesterday that he would decline to take any action whatever on recent applications for clemency in the case of Charles W. Morse, the convicted New York banker now serving a term in the federal prison at Atlanta until the papers in the case came to his desk through the regular routine channels and with a report from the department of justice.

The latest application in behalf of Morse was made today by Gilbert A. A. Peavey of Boston, whose daughter married a son of the former banker. The president told Mr. Peavey that he was not ready to act upon the case and would not until the papers had reached him and he had had time to examine them. Just when this would be, Mr. Taft said he didn't know. While generally opposed to hearings in pardon cases, the president told Mr. Peavey he would give him a chance to be heard before he had finally disposed of the case. Mr. Peavey came to the president with a letter from Representative McCall.

President Taft's plans for the return to Washington have been completed. He has decided to stop over in New York for two days as the guest of his brother, Henry W. Taft, who has just returned from Europe, and will not be back at the capital until October 20.

The president will leave Beverly next Monday afternoon the 17th and will reach New York Monday night. The visit is to be largely one of pleasure. Mr. Taft expects to attend the theatre two evenings and Mrs. Taft will finish her fall shopping.

Henry C. Ide, former governor-general of the Philippines and now minister to Spain, spent two hours with the president this afternoon.

H. F. McGregor of Texas, who has been visiting his old home in New Hampshire, saw the president yesterday and told of plans to build up the republican party in Texas.

Col. Isaac Ullman of New Haven and Charles M. Jarvis of Berlin, Conn., were among the president's visitors yesterday afternoon.

A delegation from the National Horse Shoe Manufacturers' Association, sightseeing along the North Shore, called on President Taft with a letter of introduction from Senator Lodge. The president asked his visitors if the automobile had cut into their business in any way and was told it had not been felt at all.

Mrs. Taft is still house hunting for next season. A decision as between three or four cottages between Beverly and Gloucester may be announced before the president leaves on Monday.

BOSTON & MAINE

Holds First Meeting Under New President

LAWRENCE, Oct. 12.—The annual meeting of the Boston & Maine railroad, the first under the presidency of Charles S. Helen, was held in the Board of Trade rooms here today. The present board of 19 directors, including former President Lucius F. Tuttle, was unopposed for re-election and as the annual report had previously been given to the stockholders and the public the meeting was without special interest.

It was expected, however, that the directors in a meeting in Boston to be held later in the day would make several changes in the duties and titles of some of the executive officers, although it was believed all would be elected.

Servant Girl Robs Employers at Brookline

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—While the family of the Rev. Francis H. Rowley was away yesterday, the Rowley home, 80 Mason terrace, in the exclusive Corey Hill section of Brookline, was ransacked of valuables estimated at $10,000 or over.

With the discovery of the robbery it was found that the hired girl, Mary Schwartz, had disappeared. The police of Greater Boston and the surrounding cities are searching for the missing woman, who is believed to have taken away the valuables with the aid of accomplices, in an automobile.

The robbery was discovered yesterday afternoon when Miss Alice Rowley returned from a shopping trip in Boston. Every room in the house had been ransacked, bureau drawers turned upside down and everything of value in the house stolen.

The servant suspected of the robbery is between 30 and 35 years old, a blonde, and short in stature. She is said to be remarkably good looking.

She had only been employed by the Rowleys about one week and went to them from an employment bureau in Boston. She had several references from prominent people, which are thought to have been bogus.

BATHING BARRED

Residents of Palmer Must Go Unwashed

PALMER, Oct. 12.—Tub bathing, unless one cares to use the Quaboag river for a bathtub, is prohibited in an order issued by the Palmer Water Co. yesterday in an effort to conserve the rapidly diminishing supply which the town's reservoirs hold until artesian wells can be sunk and other steps taken.

The water yesterday had reached a point where it is but a few inches above the pipes through which it is pumped to the houses and stores and Chief Summers of the fire department declares that with two fire streams he could completely empty the pipes in 10 minutes. It was this condition that caused the water company to issue the notice to householders yesterday forbidding the drawing of water for bath tubs until further notice.

The water company has already made arrangements for the sinking of artesian wells to tide the town over until the reservoirs fill up again and this work was started early today. It will be several days, however, before the town will be able to draw upon this new supply to any extent.

Meanwhile, Fire Chief Summers has made arrangements for the protecting of property in case of fire to the best of his ability. The town's fire engine has been placed under a temporary shelter at the bank of the Quaboag river with lines running into the water and steam constantly up.

From the engine a line of hose 900 feet long extends to Main street in the heart of the business district ready for instant use and another to a hydrant on Water street from which the backed streets of the town could be supplied if the necessity arises. In addition, scores of chemical fire extinguishers are being distributed throughout the town.

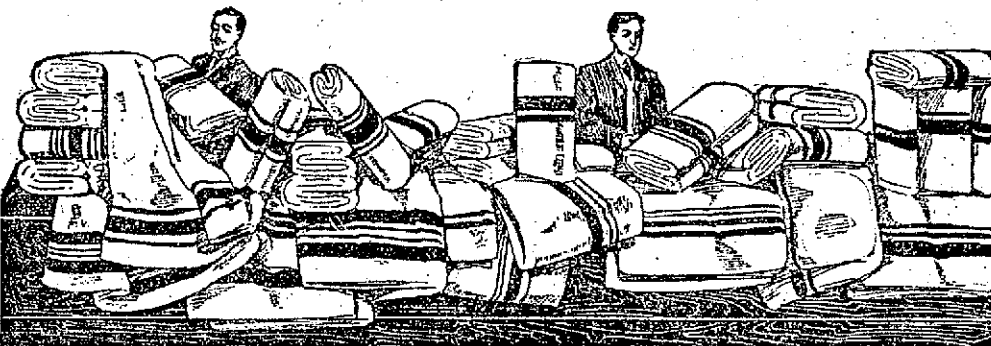

Citizens are aiding the water company officials in conserving the supply as best they can, many of those living near the river making it a point to carry water from the river for all household purposes, using the town water for drinking purposes only.

POISONED WELL

Paris Green in Water at Haverhill

HAVERHILL, Oct. 12.—The police yesterday began investigating what is believed to be an attempt to poison Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lauder of 1407 Broadway and their three children, a large quantity of paris green having been thrown into their well. The family has not used the well for the past two weeks, owing to the dry spell the well having run dry.

A few days ago, when the Lauder family's dog died suddenly and the cat was missing, Mr. Lauder had his suspicions aroused. A quantity of the water was taken from the well for analysis and it was found to contain paris green.

Mr. Lauder complained to the police yesterday. He declared he believed some one in dumping the poison into the well. The analysis that was made of a sample of the water showed that it contained enough poison to kill several people.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

Irassburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irassburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

DIX FOR GOVERNOR FAMINE THREATENED

Formally Accepts

THOMSON, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Planting himself squarely upon the platform adopted by the Rochester state convention and pledging his support to the principles enunciated therein, John A. Dix today formally accepted the nomination as the candidate of the democratic party for the office of governor of the state of New York.

Herbert P. Bissell, of Buffalo, the convention's presiding officer, officially notified Mr. Dix and the other candidates on the state ticket of their nomination.

National questions of grave importance, aside from questions of good government within the state, Mr. Bissell said are involved in this election.

"They relate to public extravagance in national affairs," he said. "There is also involved the curbing of the inordinate and reckless ambition of a former president of the United States, whose record, doctrines and methods present a menace to constitutional government and business prosperity."

In his speech of acceptance, delivered from a temporary platform extending out from the porch of his country residence here, Mr. Dix promised, if elected, to give the people of the state a business administration.

"There does not exist today," declared the candidate, "a human being who will attempt to deny that for years corruption has run riot in the official life of our capital. I do not know that it is possible for human agency to entirely eradicate this evil, but this I do know, if I become governor of this state I will turn on the searchlight and drive the black horse cavalry out of business."

Mr. Dix said he favored home rule for cities and sub-divisions of the state; a downward revision of the tariff; a statewide system of direct primaries; statewide uniform personal registration; popular election of United States senators and ratification of the income tax amendment to the federal constitution.

"But above all," said the candidate, with emphasis, "I resolutely and aggressively take a position against attacks and assaults upon the courts of the country. They are the very bulwarks of our free institutions. Any American who, occupying a position of authority, or having the public ear, assaults and attacks our courts—now, as they have already been, seats of justice and of equity—is to be regarded as a public enemy and should be so branded by every reasonable man."

"Overshadowing all these questions and of most vital importance to the people, is the menace offered to the various institutions of the country by the new nationalism, fostered and advocated by a new apostle of discord and dissension. We have already had, to our cost, ample proof of his ability to disturb business, destroy values and create a condition of panic country-wide in his evil effects. But if with all that, he is to be permitted to succeed in his campaign to weaken or destroy the powers of the supreme court of the United States, to take over to the central government the powers reserved to the states, to substitute the will of the president for the will of the people as expressed through all the regularly chosen officers of the federal government and to set arbitrary bonds to what any man by ability and enterprise may legitimately secure, then all the sacrifices made by the founders of the republic, all the blood shed for its preservation will have been in vain and we shall see in a time of profound peace a dangerous disorder, bringing about the destruction of a free people against whom all the forces of the world in arms might have been hurled in vain."

Besides Mr. Dix the other nominees were present at today's notification. A special train from Albany brought the candidates, members of the notification committee, and a large delegation of prominent democrats from New York city and other sections of the state.

Paris in the Throes of a Gigantic Strike

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Encouraged by the effectiveness of the strike of employees on the Northern and Western railroads and the extension of the movement today, the eastern road and the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean lines, the leaders of the French workingmen generally threatened a gigantic move to paralyze the activities of the whole country. Paris is threatened with famine.

The electricians and the employees of the omnibus, metropolitan and subway transportation lines of this city consider today the advisability of setting this favorable opportunity to launch a strike for a redress of long standing grievances. The situation throughout the republic is regarded as grave. To the government's call to the colors to 30,000 strikers the latter reply that the military code allows them a delay of 15 days before responding.

Up to this afternoon the acts of violence have been confined to the cutting of telegraph wires and the tearing up of the tracks at several points.

The Paris end of the western road strike is complete. The highways leading to Paris are blocked with humanity and the congestion was frightful at the city gate. Already the market is plucked. All the milk and fish markets from Normandy and Belgium are closed. The president of the grain syndicate said that the stock of flour on the Paris market today did not exceed 75,000 quintals. Paris consumes 10,000 quintals daily. The bakers, since some of them were accused of an attempt to corner flour at the time of the flood, do not carry a heavy reserve.

The National railroad union comprises only 166,000 of the total of 300,000 men employed in the railroad service but the non-union men are participating in the strike.

The government is adopting measures similar to those practiced in time of war.

DEATHS

KING—Jennie King, five-year-old daughter of John J. and Della C. King, died yesterday at the Lowell hospital. The body was removed to the home of the parents, 43 Rustic avenue, by Undertaker C. H. Molloy & Sons. Besides her parents, the deceased leaves three sisters, Mary, Anna and Helen.

DAVIS—Margaret Anna Davis, infant daughter of Wilber C. and Catherine E. died this morning at the home of her parents, 187 Chapel street, aged two months.

KING—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John J. King of 43 Rustic avenue will be pained to learn of the death of their little daughter, Jennie, aged five years, which occurred yesterday afternoon. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon.

HEERIN—Theresa Heerin, aged 11 months and 2 days, died today at the home of her parents, Frank and Margaret, 53 Hudson street.

FUNERALS

GILMAN—The funeral of Mrs. Martha Ellen Gilman, the beloved wife of Warren Gilman, took place from her residence, 50 Varian street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was largely attended. There were many beautiful offerings. The services were conducted by Rev. M. T. Whitaker, pastor of the Central M. E. church, and the following selections, "Nearer, My God, To Thee," "One By One," and "We'll Never Say Goodbye," were sung by Mrs. F. L. Roberts and Harry Stocks.

The bearers were William Clee, John Gale, James Leighton, and Edward Goward. The committal services were held at the grave and the burial was in the family lot in the Edison cemetery in charge of Undertaker J. B. Currier Co.

BYAM—The funeral of George Olie Byam was held yesterday afternoon from his residence on the Boston road, Chelmsford, and was very largely attended. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. The services were conducted by Rev. L. L. Greene, pastor of the Unitarian church. The selections, "Lead Kindly Light," "Some Sweet Day, Bye and Bye," and "The Homeland," were given by Mrs. Geo. Spaulding and Edward Everett Adams. The bearers were four sons of the deceased, Ralph, Otto, James and Herbert Byam. The body was laid at rest in the family lot at Hart pond cemetery, South Chelmsford. The arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Porham.

BERNARD—The funeral of Helen Bernard, infant daughter of Fred and Helen, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her parents, 297 Jutland street. The burial was in the Edison cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

CHARLES GILBERT
FAMOUS BARITONE DIED SUDDENLY IN HOTEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Charles Gilbert, the well known French opera baritone, died suddenly last night here at a hotel. News of Mr. Gilbert's death did not become known until today. He arrived from Europe last week to sing in the coming season with the Metropolitan opera company after four seasons with the Manhattan company.

Mr. Gilbert was to have sung next week with the Boston symphony orchestra at Boston and Cambridge, Mass.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION CALL FOR FRIDAY

At democratic headquarters this morning it was announced that the Seventh district democratic senatorial convention, which comprises wards 5 and 9 of Lowell, ward 6 of Lynn, and several towns, would be held in Lowell, democratic headquarters, Friday afternoon, October 14th, at 3 o'clock. The democratic headquarters are located at 228 Central street. The call has been issued legally by the chairman of the district committee, Edward Gallagher, who is also a member at large of the democratic state central committee for the fifth democratic congressional district.

BARNES OF N. Y.
Quits the Republican State Committee

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Contending that his party loyalty had been questioned through the failure of E. P. Barnes, Jr., to resign as chairman of the republican state committee, to appoint him a member of the executive committee of the state committee, William Barnes, Jr., of Albany has tendered his resignation as state committeeman from the 23rd congressional district, comprising Albany and Schenectady counties. Mr. Barnes led the fight against the nomination of Col. Roosevelt as temporary chairman of the recent republican state convention at Saratoga.

In his letter Mr. Barnes says: "In reading the list of the members of the executive committee of the state committee, announced by you this morning, I find that my name is not among the number."

"The mere fact of membership in the executive committee is entirely unimportant, but after having served as a member of that committee ever since I was first elected to the state committee in 1892 the omission involves the inevitable conclusion that your action was caused either by your belief that my services would not be useful or that I was faithless to the republican ticket. Under neither supposition can I stay."

"Having been a member of the executive committee for 18 years, if my services are no longer useful or my party loyalty is questioned by you as the head of the organization, then I am no longer qualified to serve under you as a member of the state committee itself."

MORE ARTILLERY

Murray for Stronger Coast Defence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Brigadier-General Murray, chief of coast artillery, in his annual report to the war department on the efficiency of personnel of the service strongly advocates an increased detail of artillery troops to man the coast defense of this government.

"It is believed to be established beyond dispute," says General Murray in his report, "that in order to insure efficient handling of our coast defenses in time of war it is necessary that we should maintain in time of peace at least one full manning detail of coast artillery troops."

"In time of war we must have at each place likely to attack such a number of coast artillery troops that they will be sufficient not only to form a full manning detail but to maintain a full manning detail, allowing for absentees, sick and wounded. And in case of a long continued attack or siege it is more than probable that for some of the elements if not all it will be necessary to maintain more than one full manning detail in order to provide relief."

The report shows that the actual strength of the coast artillery corps on July 1, 1910, was 634 officers and 18,109 enlisted men. The authorized strength on that date was 672 officers and 19,322 enlisted men. The fact that the number enrolled is so near the authorized strength was ascribed by General Murray to the fact that congress in 1908 authorized an increase in pay to all grades in the service.

COMMON COUNCIL

Board of Health Wants $7700 Additional

The common council at a regular meeting held last night voted to adhere to its former action to appropriate $2000 additional for the wages of street laborers.

The board of health asked for an additional appropriation of $7700 for salaries and sundries. The communication was referred to the committee on appropriations.

A communication from the park commission reporting adversely on a proposed new playground near Hudson and Richardson streets was placed on file.

A communication from Supt. Whitcomb of the school department, relative to the law demanding new drinking cups, was referred to the inspector of buildings.

The order for $300 for Columbus day came up on reconsideration, the council having voted against the order at the last meeting. Councilmen Gargan and Sullivan were of the opinion that action at this time was unnecessary, and it was voted to table the matter.

SWISS GOV'T

PREPARES TO COMMUNICATE WITH PORTUGAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The Swiss government is preparing to enter into communication with the new government of Portugal, according to advices today from American Minister Svenson at Bern. Minister Gage at Lisbon cabled under yesterday's date that the king's yacht Amelie, after leaving the royal family at Gibraltar, returned to Lisbon, where she was delivered into the hands of the government in power.

KING MANUEL

WILL BE THE GUEST OF DUKE OF ORLEANS

EVESHAM, England, Oct. 12.—King Manuel of Portugal and Queen Mother Amelie have accepted the invitation of the Duke of Orleans to become his guests in Wood Norton. The queen mother and king will embark on the "Victoria" and Albert as soon as the imperial yacht reaches Gibraltar and proceed at once to England.

The house in which Amelie spent her childhood stands on the duke's estate, a short distance from Wood Norton.

Will be Confiscated at Lisbon

LISBON, Oct. 11.—A detachment of soldiers making the round at the Camillo Jesuit college this morning, was fired upon. One of the men was killed and another seriously wounded. Minister of the Interior Almeida, questioned regarding the disposal of the king's property, said that nothing had yet been decided upon officially. All the palaces are closed and carefully guarded. They probably will be converted into museums or schools, or used for other public purposes. He believed that any property or palaces belonging to the king personally would be kept for him, but it is to be remembered that if the king left debts to the nation, these debts must be satisfied.

NOVEL DISPLAY

IN THE SHOE STORE OF FRED H. PEARSON

Have you seen it? There's no doubt that you have, or else someone must have told you about it, for it is the talk of the town. What is it? Well, if you have not heard as yet I suppose curiosity will grasp you and you will be uneasy until the spell is broken. That which we refer to is the wax figures in the window display at the store of Fred H. Pearson on Merrimack street. There's certainly "some class" to the display and it is the most novel which has ever been shown in this city in connection with the shoe business. The introduction of life size figures in the shoe business was always considered as a good thing but some of the most popular shoe merchants of the country looked upon the introducing of the figures with the display of their goods as ridiculous and would not give any thought to the idea. After some work and likewise persuasion on the part of the men behind the project, the men who had previously been against the innovation decided to try it with the result that it created a furore on account of its novel conception and was immediately accepted and placed in almost every state in the union.

It remained for Fred Pearson to place the novelty in this city and this he has done with the same alacrity that he has brought other novelties in his line here.

FUNERAL NOTICE
KING—The funeral of Jennie King will take place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her parents, John J. and Della C. King, 43 Rustic avenue. The burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery. C. H. Molloy and Sons undertakers in charge.

Faint?

Have you weak heart, dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals? Or do you experience pain over the heart, shortness of breath on going up stairs and the many distressing symptoms which indicate poor circulation and bad blood? A heart tonic, blood and body-builder that has stood the test of over 40 years of cures is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

The heart becomes regular as clock-work. The red blood corpuscles are increased in number—and the nerves in turn are well fed. The arteries are filled with good rich blood. That is why nervous debility, irritability, fainting spells, disappear and are overcome by this alternative extract of medicinal roots put up by Dr. Pierce without the use of alcohol.

Ask your neighbor. Many have been cured of scrofulous conditions, ulcers, "fever-sores," white swellings, etc., by taking Dr. Pierce's Discovery. Just the refreshing and vitalizing tonic needed for excessive tissue waste, in convalescence from fevers or for run-down, anemic, thin-blooded people. Stick to this safe and sane remedy and refuse all "just as good" kinds offered by the dealer who is looking for a larger profit. Nothing will do you half as much good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Tewksbury. It started late this forenoon in Wamesit and is burning its way toward Tewksbury Centre. More than 100 acres of valuable woodland has been swept by the fire and at 4 o'clock it was stated that the fire was not under control. How the fire was set is unknown.The auto fire patrol from this city went as far as the Tewksbury line, but did not venture farther because of the order of the city council forbidding thefire department to send the auto machine beyond the city lines. A chemical engine visited the scene of the fire.More than 150 men were engaged in fighting the fire this afternoon, but despite their best efforts the enemy continued to gain ground and was burning its way towards Tewksbury Centre.
It was stated, however, that after the fire left the thick woods it would be more easily controlled. It is not expected that the fire will reach the centre.

to the trio, and had informed their folks that this sort of thing would not be tolerated in this city, and if these boys were again brought before the police officials they certainly would have to go to court.

Of Foreign Missions Commissioners Observed at Andover

ANDOVER, Oct. 12.—The seat of the centennial anniversary celebration of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, which is being observed at Boston in conjunction with the triennial meeting of the national conference of Congregational churches, shifted today from Boston to Andover and the neighboring village of Bradford. It was at Andover one hundred years ago that four young students of the Andover theological seminary, headed by Adoniram Judson, walked to Bradford and back, a distance of 20 miles, to lay before the Massachusetts Association of Congregational Ministers their appeal to be sent as Christian missionaries to heathen lands. Previous to their trip to Bradford the four young men met in the woods for a service of prayer and in the missionary woods, as they are now known, a native boulder bearing a tablet in memory of the first missionaries of what is now the American board was dedicated today. The boulder is also a memorial to the 24th missionaries who have been trained in the Andover seminary.

Hundreds of delegates and visitors to the Congregational meetings left Boston on a special train at 9 a. m., arriving here about an hour later. Professor Hincks of Andover presided at the dedication. Prayer was offered by Rev. George Hall, grandson of Gordon Hall, one of the four original missionaries of the board. An historical address was made by Professor Hincks, and the tablet was unveiled by Rev. J. A. Richards, pastor of Mount Vernon church, Boston. A dedicatory address by Rev. Dr. Hume, a missionary in India, closed the exercises.

After being shown the various places of interest in and about Andover by guides from Phillips-Andover academy the party proceeded in special electric cars to Bradford, where a luncheon was served by the ladies of the Bradford and Haverhill churches. After luncheon there was a dedication of a monument marking the spot where the American board, the first missionary association in North America, was organized in the old church which has long since disappeared.

President Capen of the American board presided at the exercises and the principal addresses were made by Rev. E. S. Stackpole, pastor of the Bradford Congregational church and John R. Mott, chairman of the continuation committee of the world's missionary conference.

At the conclusion of Mr. Mott's address, President Capen gave commissions to six young missionaries who are soon to sail to foreign fields. These are: Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Galt, to North China; Miss Gertrude Blanchard, to Peking; Miss Gertrude Harlow, to the Marathi mission in India; Rev. Henry Holbrook, to Turkey; and Dr. O. H. Love, to North China.

Later today the delegates returned to Boston by special train.

to the church was over the following route: Merrimack street to Central, to Central to Moore, thence to the Sacred Heart church. At the conclusion of the mass the parade marched over the same route reversed, back to the city hall, where exercises were held.

The following were aids to the march: Captain John J. Monahan, Lieut. Bernard E. McArdle, John Hanlon, William McGowan, Richard O'Connell, Joseph Handley, Arthur McQuade, Walter Flynn, John Kivlan, Michael Adams, Frederick Rooney, and John H. Murphy.

The Knights in parade wore black derby hats, dark clothing, black shoes, dark ties and white gloves, and they were the Columbus day souvenir medal. The Associate building in which is located the headquarters of the Knights of Columbus was quite profusely decorated, the feature of the decoration being a large picture of the first sight of land by Columbus and his crew.

At the Church

The military mass was sung by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., pastor of the church and provincial of the Oblate order. Rev. Fr. Quinn, O. M. I., formerly of the Sacred Heart church, but now pastor of St. Mary's, at San Antonio, Texas, was deacon; Rev. Fr. Flynn, O. M. I., was sub-deacon and Rev. Fr. McDermott, O. M. I., master of ceremonies.

There were present also in the sanctuary Rev. Frs. McQuaid, Fox and Fletcher.

The mass was the six tone Gregorian and the sanctuary choir of the Sacred Heart church assisted in the music. Its singing was a revelation as to what they can do under proper training. The Gregorian was particularly fine. Mrs. Muldon presided with her usual ability at the organ. Mrs. Muldon at the offertory sang the "Salve Regina," which was a favorite hymn of Columbus. James E. Donnelly sang the Veni Creator with fine effect. The choir was augmented by many singers from other Catholic churches.

The congregation, including those who had turned out in the parade and many more, taxed the capacity of the church, many being unable to find even standing room.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flags and national colors, while around the sanctuary were placed potted palms.

As the procession approached the church the school children massed against the new parochial school building sang national airs, and at the close of the mass the sanctuary choir and congregation sang with great volume and harmony "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

A Pretty Scene

At noon a chorus of school children sang patriotic airs at city hall and this feature of the day's exercises was one of the prettiest imaginable. The front entrance to the hall was flanked by school children and their happy faces and joyous voices were good to see and to hear.

The streets and the lawn in front of the hall were crowded with men and women, and the beauty of the day added to the beauty of this particular scene. It was all very graceful and pretty, and one could not refrain from allowing his imagination to carry him from the picture of Columbus' first sight of land to the headquarters of the local knights on the Association building across the way, to that sea of happy faces, that garden of beautiful little ones on the steps to the municipal building, and men were seen to study first one picture and then the other.

Every child there had a heart to sing and they were almost impatient of delay. They seemed jealous even of the whirling sounds of the pigeons' wings and waited impatiently for the return of the marchers.

Mr. F. O. Doherty, director of music in the public schools, arrived at the hall before the noon hour and arranged the children on the hall steps, the girls above and the boys below.

When the return of the parade was announced the streets were cleared and in minutes all was in readiness for the children's part of the exercise. The first number given by the children was the "Star Spangled Banner." Then came "Columbus, the God of the Ocean," "Keller's American Hymn," and "America."

The voices of the little ones were heard to good advantage and there was no lack of harmony. One little girl in the center of the group waved an American flag and men heard their heads while the little ones sang the patriotic air.

Prof. Molloy Speaks

It was not down on the program that there would be any speaking at the children's exercises at the city hall, but the scene was too inspiring to go without a word.

Mr. Hugh J. Molloy congratulated the children and told them that they might well feel proud of the important part they had taken in the first celebration of Columbus day as a holiday in Lowell.

Mr. Molloy introduced Mayor Monahan, who said he was well pleased with the observance of the day especially with the part the children played. He said he was inspired by the sight of so many children united at the very foot of the statue of our government adding patriotic exercises to the program. He said it was the first time in the state of Massachusetts that the day had been observed as a legal holiday and only 11 states in the Union joined in the observance. He said there would come a time when all states in the Union would observe Columbus day as a legal holiday. He admonished the children to learn from the life of Columbus the virtues of heroism. He said that Columbus was responsible for the great American republic and it was Columbus who made American citizenship possible.

Tonight a banquet will be held in Knights of Columbus hall. Several hundred persons will attend the banquet and there will be a number of good speakers, including Rev. J. J. Coyne of Taunton; E. Mark Sullivan of Boston, Mayor McEneaney and others. Hugh J. Molloy will preside.

Masses in All Churches
Masses were held in all of the Catholic churches in the city today in honor of Columbus day.

Offices Closed, Stores Open

The holiday is being officially observed in Lowell. All the municipal, state and county buildings are closed, and the national banks and trust companies are also closed. The large machine shops are in operation, and their employees reported for work this morning as usual. The Heine Electric company closed down in honor of the day.

Most of the stores in the city kept open for business, but about Central, Merrimack, Middlesex, and Gorbam streets most of the stores were very appropriately decorated with bunting, the national colors, and pictures illustrating the story of the great explorer's discovery.

FUNERALS

BUCKLEY.—The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Buckley took place this morning from her late home, 89 Concord street, at 9 o'clock. A high mass of requiem was sung at the immaculate Conception church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. McQuade, O. M. I. The choir under the direction of Mr. Chas. P. Smith sang the Gregorian mass. Mrs. Hugh Walker presided at the organ. The bearers were Fred Hollins, John Buckley, Matthew McCarthy, Patrick Doherty, William Buckley, and Michael Flynn. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Fr. McQuade read the committal prayers. Undertaker Thomas J. McDermott in charge.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes were the following: Standing tablet inscribed "Good-bye, Grandma," Margaret, John and Francis McCarthy; standing cross, from friends of the Threading Circle; spray of pink, Bigelow Carpet Co.; spray of pink, inscribed "Grandma," Baby and Jennie Buckley; spray of pink and roses, Miss Kille Doherty; mount, inscribed "Aloft," Miss Esther Whitehead and Miss Isabel Palm; spray of white pinks, Miss Bushy.

O'HEARN.—The funeral of Miss Catherine Frances O'Hearn took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from her late home, 305 1/2 High street. The funeral service proceeded to the immaculate Conception church, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Crowley of Brighton, Mass. The choir under the direction of Mr. Charles P. Smith sang the Gregorian mass. Mrs. Hugh Walker presided at the organ. The bearers were Robert Crowley, Leo Crowley, Dr. J. J. McCarthy, Dr. James O'Brien, Robert Crowley, Dr. Edward McGubbie.

There were many beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Fr. Crowley read the committal prayers. Undertaker Thos. J. McDermott in charge.

HOUSE OF BISHOPS

To Consider Prayer and Unction Proposition

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12.—Although defeated in the house of deputies by reason of the fact that the clerical and lay delegates did not agree on it, the proposal to aid to the ritual of the church a form of prayer and unction for the sick, not as a sacrament in preparation for death, but as a means of healing, is far from being dead in the opinion of its advocates.

The report of the joint committee on the subject is still to be acted upon in the house of bishops.

The fact that the so-called Emmanuel movement had its origin in the Protestant Episcopal church, in Emmanuel parish, in Boston, has had a deep effect on the subject.

There is a large proportion who admit that faith is an element of cure is not to be overlooked while contending that faith alone cannot heal.

This was the day set by the house of bishops for discussion of the question of suffragan bishops, the matter having been postponed on the previous day. The bishops were divided on the subject, having been voted down. There is an acute difference of opinion on this point, many bishops under the leadership of Bishop Kisselbach of Texas favoring negro missionary bishops to take charge of all negro churches.

PLUCKY GIRL

SAVES FATHER AND PUTS OUT FIRE

NEWBURGH, Oct. 12.—With the automobile on fire and her father pinned under the machine Miss Elsie Ewing of Meadowbrook on Monday afternoon released him from his perilous position and then extinguished the flames by collecting earth and throwing it upon them. Miss Ewing and her father, John Ewing of Salisbury Mills, were riding in an automobile when Dr. C. V. Gore came along in a carriage. The Ewings attempted to turn out and to do so made a quick turn that sent the car down an embankment twelve feet. Miss Ewing was thrown free from the car, which turned turtle, pinning the father under the seat. Using the wheel of the car as a pivot the girl lifted enough of the car to release her father and then extinguished the fire before aid arrived.

Mr. Ewing is confined to his bed by injuries about the abdomen. Miss Ewing is able to be about but is much bruised.

BRUCE MILLER

TO TESTIFY IN CRIPPEN MURDER CASE

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Bruce Miller, the St. Chicago real estate man, former actor and friend of Belle Elmore, was today expected to testify in the Crippen murder trial in London, on his way to England to be a witness at the trial.

CUPS REMOVED

Boston & Maine Conform to Law

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—In conformity with the state law relating to the use of drinking cups in public places, the Boston & Maine railroad and all the lines running through this state have begun the removal of drinking cups from the cars. The Boston & Maine system installed the slot device whereby a paper cup can be obtained. In speaking of the change this morning General Manager Barr said:

"This system of securing individual drinking cups was installed on our system more than a year ago and was not done to meet the new law, as some people suppose. We have in all about 100 of these devices in operation on the through trains and for the present at least will confine our efforts to through cars and trains. We have in conformity with the law removed all the drinking cups from all the state cars in the above named state in an effort to meet the law recently passed."

On all the other lines the railroad officials have the same problem to solve and some of them are meeting it by having the newsboys offer for individual drinking cups to those who care to buy them at a cost of one cent.

TELEPHONE RATES

NEW PLAN DEFERRED UNTIL MAY, 1911

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the general association organized to protest against the proposed telephone rates, a letter was read by Representative Charles A. Dean of Wakefield, chairman, from Francis A. Houston, vice president and general manager of the telephone company, promising not to raise the rates until after May 1, 1911, save as requested by subscribers.

The text of the letter was as follows:

"Referring to the request of your committee that such subscribers as desire to do so be given a reasonable basis of comparison in the new rates before any change is made in their present service, it seems to us that this is an entirely reasonable request and one that we are very glad to see our way clear to comply with. It is farthest from our desire to insist upon any changes to the new rates until a substantial basis has been made in our rates. We have a most ample opportunity to satisfy ourselves as to the study of the new schedule, but from experience of others which of the new classes is best adapted to his needs."

It would seem that a period of six months would give ample opportunity for the study and comparison of rates to be made by the subscribers. The organization which you represent this assurance—that prior to May 1, 1911, the company will make no changes in the present rates and service of any subscriber unless the same are desired or requested by the subscriber."

"I trust that we were unable to see our way clear to comply with the other suggestions of your committee, but trust that Mr. Hall and Mr. Barry were able to satisfy you of the soundness of our reasons for feeling that we could not do so."

The requests made to the telephone company by the committee were: (1) That the proposed rates should be established; (2) that a 5-cent call rate be established between the metropolitan exchanges and all suburban exchanges; (3) that the rates be made optional and not compulsory.

The third of these requests the company has for the present refused. Mr. Dean and his colleagues are much encouraged by this, and now plan to comply with the instructions of the general association by taking the case to Gov. Draper and the highway committee. Mr. Dean will see the governor in person, and request his intervention in the matter at least by recommending that the commission grant a public hearing.

WOODEN LEG

USED TO ENLIST SYMPATHY OF COURT

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Henry Wilson Griffith, whose wife Eleanor obtained a decree of divorce by default last month with $22.50 a week alimony, told Sunday morning Justice Page yesterday that his wife had won success in the sympathy of Justice Erlanger and Greenbaum, who signed the decrees in the case, and got them to direct the payment of more alimony than he could afford by using their son, who has an artificial foot, "to attack a soft and tender spot in the heart of Justice."

Justice Page was impressed by Griffith's application, fixed the alimony at $12.50 and denied a motion to punish him for failing to pay alimony at the rate of $22.50.

AFTER ENTERING A YARD IN METHUEN

METHUEN, Oct. 12.—A deer entered the yard of Samuel Dearborn of this town in an exhausted condition. The animal had apparently been followed a long distance by dogs and sought protection, which was given by Mr. Dearborn. The game warden was notified and was to make arrangements for the care of the deer, but the animal died. In going to the shed Monday afternoon Mr. Dearborn found the animal dead. The deer had been bitten by the dogs in several places.

BOAT DAMAGED

IN STORM OFF ROCKLAND, ME. TODAY

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 12.—The heavy northwest gale this afternoon severely damaged the schooner Ella May and placed her in a dangerous position. The little schooner was reported in distress near Whitehead with her main boom and anchor gone and in danger of going on to the rocks. A tug was sent to her assistance and it was believed the life-saving crew from the Whitehead station was lending a helping hand. The members of the schooner crew were still on board. The schooner is owned by S. B. and H. L. Shepard of Rockland and is in command of Captain Harrington.

STILL IN DEADLOCK

Committee of Four at Sea Over Nominee

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The committee of four appointed by the democratic state convention to select a nominee for governor, went into session again this afternoon. There was little prospect of an early break in the deadlock.

No Fifth Member

Adjournment at noon for a meeting at 5 p. m. found the committee still deadlocked. During the session Mr. Maynard made a motion to the recommendation of Congressmen Ross for a convention recall was deadlocked. So too the motion of Mr. Crowley that Mr. Foss be asked for a statement similar to the Hamilton statement, to support any candidate the committee chose.

Maclean moved that Mr. Hamilton be asked if he favored Mr. Foss' recommendation for a second convention.

The fourth deadlock of the morning resulted when Mr. Crowley named Judge Lilly of Lowell, a member of the superior bench, as the fifth member of the committee. Mr. Maynard said that he would not vote for a fifth member of the committee at this time as he wished to know what action the state committee, which meets today, would take. Mr. Crowley said that he would not consider that the committee of four ought to have made in the state committee, inasmuch as the committee of four was appointed by the convention for the purpose of carrying out the will of the convention.

Mr. Maynard then brought another deadlock by moving that the selection of the fifth member of the committee be postponed until the next meeting. Mr. Crowley then presented a list of eight names for a choice for the fifth member of the committee. These were: former Assistant District Attorney Henry Dwyer of Boston, Judge Henry May of Fall River, Chief Justice Aiken of Dedham, Judge Frederickson of Greenfield, and Judge Charles Decoursey of Lawrence, all members of the Massachusetts superior court; Bernard Wolf of Boston, J. J. Phelan of Boston and Patrick Keating of New Bedford. Each name was voted on in turn and each time there was a deadlock. Crowley and Hayes favoring Maclean and Maynard opposing.

Adjournment until 5 p. m. was taken.

Maclean Calls Meeting

A meeting of the democratic state committee was called by Chairman Frederick J. Maclean at 2:30 p. m. today to consider reconvening the delegates to the state convention at Faneuil hall on Saturday for the purpose of nominating a candidate for governor.

This proposition was advanced by Chairman Maclean in the Hotel Bellevue last night.

Congressman Eugene N. Foss, who has already stated above his signature that he was not a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, endorsed the suggestion made by Chairman Maclean in a letter to the latter last night.

The situation on the democratic side became more complicated than ever yesterday.

Maclean Makes Declaration

When the meeting adjourned at the Hotel Bellevue last night Chairman Maclean in the foyer announced that he had determined to "take the situation in his own hands," and that he already had called a meeting of the state committee today for the purpose of getting the delegates together for another convention on Saturday.

Ex-Rep. William Hayes of Springfield was present when the statement was made. He was very angry at the tone adopted by Maclean.

An "interested crowd" of hallboys, clerks and guests listened to the ultimatum of the chairman of the state committee. James H. Vahey, who was standing nearby, flushed, but said nothing.

"This is no place to make such a statement," said Hayes. "Let us sit down to a table with the newspapermen, and not be finally persuaded to go down stairs to the lower end of the newsroom, had gathered around a table. Hayes, who is secretary of the meeting, interrupted Maclean's statement to read the minutes of the meeting.

He said that the committee for the second time during the day had voted on the names of Hamilton and Foss, and that both times there had been a deadlock. Major Robert Crowley of Lowell and Hayes of Springfield voted for Hamilton and against Foss, and Chairman Joseph Maynard of the democratic city committee and Chairman Maclean of the state committee voted for Foss and against Hamilton.

PAID BY MRS. W. K. VANDERBILT FOR IMPORTED GOWNS

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt arrived yesterday with her daughters, the Misses Margaret, Emily and Ruth, and Barbara Calvercross Rutherford, by the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie. She had 48 trunks and paid $11,000 duty on Parisian gowns and jewelry for herself and her daughters. It is the largest amount of money collected on a steamship pier from a single person this year. It took a force of inspectors five hours to examine the trunks and verify the declaration. The party also brought in $200,000 worth of jewelry which they proved had been bought in the United States.

BASEMENT

THE IMPORTANCE OF DRESS

Your dress is now become an object worthy of much attention, for as most people will confess, they cannot help forming an opinion of a man's sense and character from his dress. Any affectation whatsoever in dress implies a flaw in the understanding. A man of sense carefully avoids any particular character in his dress; he is accurately clean for his own sake, but all the rest is for other people's. He should dress as well, and in the same manner, as the people of sense and fashion of the place where he is. If he dresses better, as he thinks, that is, more than they, he is a fop; if he dresses worse, he is unpardonably negligent; but of the two it is better too much than too little dressed, and we say right here that there is no need of being anyway but properly dressed while you have such a store as the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY with its competent salesmen always anxious to see everyone correctly dressed. Dress yourself fine where others are fine, and plain where others are plain, but take care always that your clothes are well made and fit you, for otherwise they will give you a very awkward air. This is just where the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY shines—they've struck a stride that others can't keep up with, not only in having their clothing properly made, but fitted by expert tailors.

When you get the best ready-to-wear garments fitted to your form by the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY, you will be well dressed and protected against any criticisms anyone might offer. It is that fine harmony between a man and his dress that distinguishes the gentleman from the vulgarian. We advise that you cultivate this excellence and visit the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY, across from city hall, for your Fall Suit or Overcoat.

After Killed Himself When Cornered by Infuriated Mob—Man Who Held Up Boy to Protect Himself Made His Escape

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A schoolboy, Charley Fisher, of 1430 Madison avenue, was playing ball with other boys on Madison avenue at East 103d street at the time the home coming work was being done in the neighborhood last night. Two men stopped at the northeast corner and began to fight. One of the men pulled a revolver from his pocket, the other yelled and ran toward Charley Fisher. The frightened boy picked up Charley and held him in front of him as a shield. The expected bullets, the frightened boy cried as he tried completely to hide himself behind Charley's slight body. "Look out, Biff—don't shoot the boy," Charley added his yell of terror to the man holding him. As the man tried to struggle away from the boy, the revolver fired. The bullet cut through Charley's head. The man, for whom the bullet was meant to go, fled, and the boy crumpled to the ground. He died two hours later in a hospital.

The homegoers who had been halted by the crack of the pistol came charging toward the corner where the boy lay. The man who had held him turned and ran eastward through 103d street. No one paid much attention to him just then, and he got away. He appeared, some say, in a tenement on the south side of 103d street, half a block from where the shooting took place.

Clark, a prize fighter, is the man who did the shooting. Biff's real name is Harry Greenwald, 25 years old. The nearest the police have come to his home address is McKimley street, The Bronx. He and another thought to be the one who last night ran from the crowd—some think he ran in front of the shooting—were in the front of the crowd when the shooting started, but what they did in the fight has not been learned.

The fight between the two and the argument that preceded it had not been noticed only by Charley Fisher and his playmates, and very few saw the man who escaped pick up Charley. Charley thought that Biff Clark had the boy wantonly, and so they went on Biff savagely. From shops and tenement doors and passing cars and the streets, runners toward Biff. He was in a circle once or twice with leveled livers and held the leaders of the mob back for a moment. While there still an opening in the narrowing of faces Biff broke through and ran south on Madison avenue with a crowd of people jostling and yelling and him.

Free of the crowd there was a way ahead of Biff Clark. Those thought to stop the murderer were clear as he pointed his revolver at them, and he ran on. When he reached the street the fastest sprinter in a mob that now must have numbered almost 1000 were gaining upon him. He turned west into 101st street, with the clattering and yelling of his heels.

The crowd was almost within grasp when he got to Fifth avenue. At the door of 1208 Fifth avenue he turned and disappeared in a hallway of the flat house. The crowd could hear him tramping up steps, but only Policeman Searies dared to follow the man with the livers. For a quarter of an hour he searched the house, but Clark had to have gone away.

Some of the crowd ran through halls to search the back yard of 1208. newcomers swelled the crowd still Fifth avenue until the street was packed. Police and crowd then began to spread out to surround the block. Biff, who evidently had been on the flat house, must have thought the street door was clear again, for he suddenly appeared in the doorway of those who saw his face yelled the word "back" came the searchers. In the lead they struggled into the hallway after Clark. At the far end of the hallway he stopped with a dim light and brandished a revolver against him. The crowd closing on him. He pressed the livers against his temple, fired twice and dropped dead.

Hours after the excitement of the upper East Side kept the neighborhood in a fever. It was said that all traffic was blocked until Captain Corcoran and the rest from the East 104th street station a passage for the trolley cars through the jam.

Charley Fisher was hurried to a hospital. At 7:30 o'clock last night he died. The body of Charley Fisher was first taken to the East street police station and later moved to the morgue.

While detectives were making an unsuccessful search for the man who had been in the corner and held up the boy, the men first began to hunt for the man who had been in the corner and held up the boy.

At the great Nelson day celebration in London Francis MacMillan, who is to be heard in Lowell on the 17th of October, was the American chosen to represent his country at the great Albert hall, concert, which was part of the official program of the celebration. At the close of his playing, MacMillan was presented by Lord Brassey, on behalf of the committee, with a plate made from copper taken from the Victory, Lord Nelson's flagship, at the memorable engagement at Trafalgar.

Clark, so some who have seen him in preliminary bouts say, was looked upon by fight promoters as a "corner." Men in the neighborhood said that he had begun training for a fight next month with the negro pugilist known as the Dixie Kid.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

A fair sized audience went into raptures over the second performance of Jerome K. Jerome's beautiful play, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" at the opera house last evening and Manager Ward is to be congratulated upon presenting such an unusually fine production at the local theatre before its production in Boston. The play has yet to be seen by Boston theatregoers.

"THE SMART SET"

A three-act musical comedy that differs from its contemporaries in diverse ways will be the attraction at the opera house tonight. It is from the pen of Edwin Hanford and is entitled "His Honor the Barber." As presented by the famous "Smart Set" company with S. E. Dudley in the stellar role, the offering has become one of the real treats of the season.

Although the comedy contains fifteen original songs hits, musical numbers and ensembles it could easily hold its own on the strength of its brisk and humorous dialogue, situations, novelities, features, etc., and the interpretation of the company itself which is composed of six capable people. Dudley is seen at his best as Raspberry Snow, a negro who wants to shave the president of the United States. As Mr. Dudley portrays the character it becomes one of the funniest and best developed types seen on the stage.

Herabour's "Rastus," the trained donkey, which was such a favorite last season, has been retained. "Rastus" is the constant companion of Raspberry and there are many side splitting adventures during the action of the play. In point of durable excellence, style and originality, the comedy is said to be the most pretentious ever offered in years. Edwin Hanford wrote the book and Messrs. Brin Smith and Burris furnished the lyrics and music, and Messrs. Barton and Wiswell are the owners. The costumes, which are said to be the most original seen on the stage in many a day were selected from plates furnished by William H. Barnes.

Alda Overton Walker forms an attractive part of the production. She will introduce a singing and dancing specialty said to be the best of its kind offered on any stage.

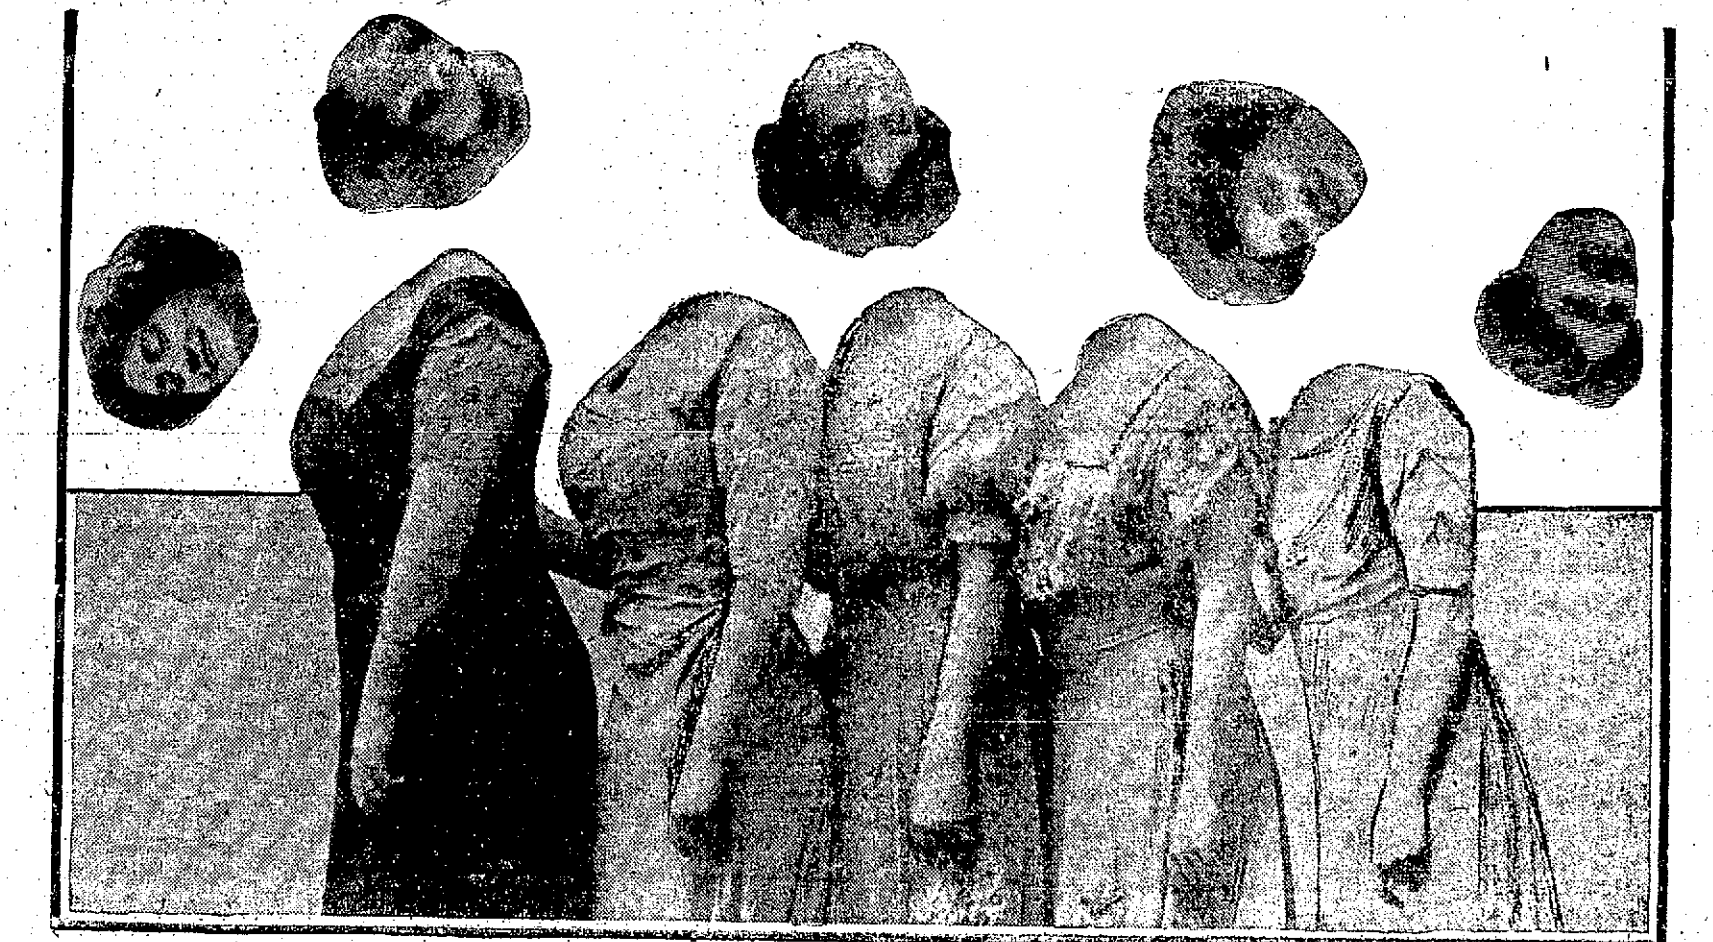

"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI" Wm. A. Brady announces the eminent comedian, The A. Wise in "A Gentleman from Mississippi" at the opera house on Friday and Saturday. Custom cannot state this uproarious comedy, which is now in its third year of success and it bids fair to go on until the copyright expires. A long stage career is the more assured for it because it is so absolutely true to the life it represents. Throughout the story run the scarlet threads of laughter, the gray threads of pathos and the white threads of good deeds, and from these variegated strands authors Harrison Rhodes and Mr. Wise who is also co-author of the play, have woven a tapestry of humor, love and kindness that touch alike the heart and eye, and the figures stand out with startling fidelity to life. Mr. Wise will be seen in his now famous laugh-provoking creation of Senator Langdon and will be supported by the entire company that appeared during the record breaking run of 16 weeks at the Park theatre, Boston, last season.

BINGVILLE BUGLE FOLKS

Newton Newkirk's famous cartoon characters "Bingville Bugle Folks" have at last been dramatized and will be seen here at the opera house next Thursday night, Oct. 13th. "Bingville Folks" have been one of the comic features of the Boston Sunday Post, and it is said that the characters as presented in dramatic form have developed into a splendid rural comedy drama that is meeting with great success wherever presented. The company is said to be an excellent one, headed by Jonathan Keefe, and is presented at the Boston Sunday Post, and it is said that the characters as presented in dramatic form have developed into a splendid rural comedy drama that is meeting with great success wherever presented.

Have you entered The Sun's contest for seats at the Opera House next Saturday night? Answers to the headless puzzle are pouring in, and there will be ten lucky persons, who, with their families or friends will see "A Gentleman From Mississippi," the play that convulsed Boston for sixteen weeks last season and which comes to the Opera House for an engagement of two nights, Friday and Saturday, of this week with Saturday matinee. Now is the time to get busy solving the problem of which head belongs on each body. Paste the heads where they belong, and send the picture to the Theatre Contest Editor of The Sun. The girls are members of the Thos. A. Wise company and by special arrangement with Louis Miller, business manager for Wm. A. Brady, The Sun gives you the opportunity of seeing the original.

Prizes will be awarded for next Saturday evening's performance at the Opera House. First will be two orchestra seats; the second, two more orchestra seats; the third, two orchestra seats; the fourth, two orchestra seats, and so on. The contest closes at ten o'clock Friday morning, October 14th. No solutions submitted later than that hour will be considered. The ten prizes offered will be awarded the ten persons whose correct solutions reach The Sun office first. Winners will be announced in Friday's Sun when the young women with their heads regained will be depicted.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Aviation has its innings at Hathaway's theatre, this week. A Herring-Curtiss aeroplane, the identical one with which Glenn H. Curtiss established the world's speed record at Rheims, France, last year, is shown and explained by an expert lecturer. The frail machine should arouse much interest. At the close of every performance the audience has an opportunity to go on the stage and examine the plane.

Middlesex North Held Its Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Middlesex north agricultural society yesterday afternoon action was taken to learn how many of the 1600 persons whose names are on the lists as members are living. It was also said that the secretary of the state board wished that the name of the Middlesex north agricultural society should be prominent when fairs are held in conjunction with any of the granges.

It was voted to hold a fair next year. Dr. Hunt, grange invited the society to hold it in that town, but the matter was held over for future consideration.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of Ex-Pres. Arthur H. Clegg of Lowell, Ex-Pres. Henry J. Toller of Dunstable and E. C. Farwell of Reading, a member of the board of trustees.

The treasurer reported that the society had on hand $7131.94, about $39.45 less than last year. The following officers were elected:

George W. Trull, Tewksbury, pres.;

George L. Huntton, F. J. Flemings, M. G. Perkins and Thomas Varnum, Lowell, J. P. Perkins, Chelmsford, John Peabody, Dracut, vice pres.; Andrew Liddell, Lowell, sec.; John A. Weinbeck, Lowell, treas.

The trustees chosen were: C. H. Chapman and S. R. Merrill, Pepperell; William Teal and Lyman Taylor, Acton; A. M. Warren and W. E. Lapham, Chelmsford; Dexter Butterfield and A. M. Kendall, Dunstable; Benj. T. Perry and A. B. Barnes, Wilmington; J. E. Russell and Sidney A. Bull, Billerica; Frank M. Case, North Reading; M. F. Swallow and M. P. Miner, Groton; Jesse B. Butterfield and Benj. B. Lawrence, Tyngsboro; Herbert B. Fletcher and S. L. Taylor, Westford; Enoch Foster and R. W. Foster, Tewksbury; J. J. McManis and A. W. Colburn, Dracut; B. S. Howe, George E. Putnam, George B. Washburn and J. E. Foster, Lowell.

Howard M. Foster was appointed on committee on farmers' institutes and he was authorized to expend not exceeding $100 in conducting them.

MATRIMONIAL

A marriage of interest to Lowell people was that of Mr. Albert Gifford Mott and Miss Mina Gertrude Jacques, which was celebrated Oct. 5 in Corona, Cal. The bride is the daughter of Rev. Benjamin B. Jacques, pastor of the Baptist church in that place and who was at one time superintendent of the Sunday school of the Branch Street Baptist church in this city.

ROOSEVELT FLEW

Took Trip in Flying Machine at Kinloch Park, Near St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12.—Theodore Roosevelt yesterday made an aeroplane flight as the passenger of Archibald Hoxsey and said it was the finest sensation he ever had experienced. He traveled twice around the aviation field at Kinloch Park, in three minutes and 20 seconds. He waved his hand at the thousands of spectators much to the discomfort of the aviator, who feared that the colonel might hit a controlling cord. When the machine alighted easily a few feet from the starting place, a mighty shout of applause went up.

Hoxsey, a Wright aviator, said that Mr. Roosevelt made a good passenger except that he was afraid the colonel would fall out or interfere with the engine. The colonel waved his hands at the crowd so vigorously that Hoxsey called out to him, "Keep your hands on the controls." Colonel Roosevelt, who had forgotten to hold himself in, waved his hands once more and then obeyed orders. The colonel's flight was a surprise to everybody. Although he had been invited to go, no one had the least idea that he would do so, and he himself did not decide to fly until the moment before he stepped into the machine. The trip to the aviation field to watch the aeroplane flights was in the afternoon's program of the colonel's day in St. Louis.

THE POLICE BOARD BARNEY OLDFIELD

The board of police met in regular session last night, but there was very little business of importance transacted at the regular meeting other than the promotion of a number of police officers from the probationary to the regular reserve force.

The hearing on the petition of the Montefiore society, that the special police officer license of Moses Shapiro be revoked, was scheduled to take place, but inasmuch as the person who had petitioned the appointment of the officer was not present, it was decided to postpone the hearing until the next meeting night.

Patrick Connolly, Michael Connolly, Joseph L. Connelley, Louis G. A. J. LeMay, Jerome P. Cullent, William L. Keegan, Patrick B. Clark, Thomas B. Tighe, William P. Reagan, Martin B. Crowe, Joseph H. Johnson, Alfred J. Cooney, William J. Kenney, Michael H. Wynne and Patrick T. Noonan.

The board took the following action in regard to minor licenses:

Licenses granted:

Job wagon—Mabrog Asdoorian, 57 Lakeview avenue.

Express—Fred H. Wolfe, twin licenses, 419 Chelmsford street.

Theatre—Robert P. White, by J. L. Burton, manager, 84 Middlesex street (Colonia theatre).

Hawker and peddler—Arthur J. Leach, 57 Belmont street, Lawrence; William A. Stoley, 23 Howard street, Lawrence.

MILK QUESTION

HEARING TO BE HELD IN REGARD TO INSPECTION

There will be a public hearing by the state legislative committee on the inspection of milk, in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville, on Thursday, October 20, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Everybody will be given an opportunity to express his opinion and suggestions bearing on the subject will be welcomed by the committee.

LAJOIE VS. COBB

"Ty" Regrets Controversy Has Arisen

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Pres. Robert Hedges of the St. Louis Browns is plunging for Nap Lajoie in the controversy attending the American league balling honors.

During a conference yesterday with press Johnson of the American league the Browns club owner supported King Lajoie, asserting that the latter was entitled to each and every one of the eight hits credited to him in the double-header Sunday.

According to Hedges, infielder Corridon played back on the grass every time Lajoie went to bat as if fearful that the Cleveland slugger might land in his direction. Other players had warned Corridon to call when Lajoie was hitting, and the youngster was merely following instructions.

The league chief yesterday telegraphed Umpire Billy Evans, who umpired during the games, asking for a complete statement of the second scorer. After considering these reports Johnson will be prepared to make his decision.

Thus far Lajoie hasn't received a word of congratulation from Cobb on the batting competition. For years it has been the custom of the Browns heavy hitter to send him off with cheer to the victor, but the Georgian has overlooked this little courtesy.

CORRIDON EXPLAINS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—John L. Corridon, who played third base for St. Louis Sunday, explained the Cleveland-made eight hits in two games, said yesterday he played so far back of third base because he was afraid of the speed in Lajoie's hits.

"I want to remain in baseball for some years," said Corridon. "I was not going to get killed playing in on Lajoie. Lajoie is known as a hard hitter, and I played far back."

Manager O'Connor of the Browns says there is nothing to investigate in the matter. He denies that he ever gave any order or suggestion looking to favoritism for Lajoie.

COBB MAKES NO KICK

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Ty Cobb of the Detroit team, who with Napoleon Lajoie of Cleveland, heads the list of heavy hitters in the American league, arrived in this city last night. He said he did not care to discuss the recent game at St. Louis where Lajoie made eight hits in eight times at bat, which may place Lajoie first in the batting averages for the year.

"I was surprised when I read of the result of the games in the papers," said Cobb, "and am sorry that either Lajoie or myself did not win the prize for the highest batting average without anything occurring which could cause unfavorable comment. I am not prepared to make any charges against either Lajoie or members of the St. Louis team."

WANTS HAMILTON

HAVERHILL MANAGER DESIRES HIS RETURN

HAVERHILL, Oct. 12.—Daniel F. Cloheey, new president of the Haverhill New England baseball association, yesterday announced that William R. Hamilton, the old Boston National league player, may resume the management of the Haverhill nine next season.

Mr. Cloheey has conferred with Mr. Hamilton, who was with the Lynn club for the past two years, and has obtained his consent to come here providing he does not buy a franchise in the Connecticut league for which he is now negotiating.

DEER HUNTERS

BEATEN OUT BY THE WARM WEATHER

BANGOR, Oct. 12.—The continued warm weather is proving decidedly annoying to sportsmen who are in the Maine woods in quest of deer or camp birds. Hunters have found it impossible, because of the heat, to bring out their deer or birds in good condition, the flesh, for some reason, seeming to spoil far more easily than ever before. Right here in Bangor there is practically no fresh venison available, for this reason, although the total number of deer brought here since the opening of the season is far in excess of former years. It is estimated that of the deer taken to date not 10 per cent have been used for food for the reason given.

NEARLY EXHAUSTED

COUPLE AT SEA IN DISABLED POWER BOAT

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 12.—After they had been battered about by tempestuous seas for eight hours and when they had given up hope of ever landing again, Mr. and Mrs. George Becker of Bath were rescued near Brown Cow Island two miles to the westward of Small Point by Captain George Rice, Parker Rice and Uncle Ferrin with the gasoline fishing launch Dolphin and brought here today. They were coming to this city in a small motor boat when the engine broke down. The motor craft was bled up of water when they were picked up, and both were exhausted from exposure and from their endeavors to keep their boat from sinking.

GOING WEST

CALIFORNIA TO GET MAINE LOBSTERS

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., Oct. 12.—As an experiment the United States Fish commission on Saturday will send to Seattle, Wash., a few lobsters to be planted in the Pacific Ocean. They will be taken from the San hatchery here and will be in charge of Capt. E. E. Hahn. A refrigerator car will be used for the journey of 5000 miles and the car will be kept at the same temperature throughout the trip. It is possible by this means it is expected the lobsters will be kept alive without being put into water.

MONSTER CELEBRATION

Boston Observes Columbus Day on Grand Scale

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Columbus day was observed for the first time in Massachusetts today. The celebration centered in Boston, where a parade of 80,000 men was reviewed by President William H. Taft, Gov. Eben S. Dummer, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Archbishop William H. O'Connell and by Col. John J. Sullivan of the Ninth regiment, M. V.

Although legally a public holiday, the principal observances were almost entirely Roman Catholic. The parades all were members of Catholic societies except the military. Knights of Columbus, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Massachusetts Order of Foresters, Polish and Portuguese societies and the Holy Name society composed the six divisions of the long line which required several hours to pass a given point and was more than an hour on the line of march.

A gun salute at sunrise officially opened the day, and the first march, which was a solemn pontifical mass at the cathedral of the Holy Cross. In his sermon to the thousands who thronged the cathedral, Archbishop O'Connell, after remarking on Columbus' triumph after following a scholarly review of the discoverer's achievements, said:

"Italy and Spain participate in the glory of his achievement. It is well to recall this fact today when other councils prevail for the time is either country. Short-sighted statesmen of the present time ignore the illustrious history of representing church and country in complete submission to the voice of the Holy See and seek now to create a prejudice in those countries against ecclesiastics and all that they represent."

"In the providence of God, Italy and Spain have given birth to achievements which dignify the world, precisely at that time when ecclesiastics stood in place and power and when 'catholicity' primacy over minds and hearts, how famous it is in these days to try to depict the history of representing church and country in complete submission to the voice of the Holy See and seek now to create a prejudice in those countries against ecclesiastics and all that they represent."

The hour of starting the parade was set at noon and the march was almost entirely within the business section, largely deserted by the usual traffic because of the holiday. The start was in the Back Bay. Here it was reviewed by Archbishop O'Connell, then at the state house by President Taft, Governor Dummer, and the guests the president was and on Mass street by Mayor Fitzgerald, and at the finish at Park square by Chief Marshal Sullivan.

President Taft planned to reach the state house about noon, motorizing up Bay Street. The president's party was expected to last several hours, but in the event of the parade being an unusually long one in passing, he had informed the governor that he must leave before his finish, probably about two o'clock.

The day was observed in a social manner more than by sports. Catholic clubs kept open house and many had arranged club affairs. There were a large number of high school and minor football games and in the evening a display of fireworks was arranged.

President Taft remained at the state house until about 2 p. m. when he went to the Touraine, the guest of Congressman Gardner at lunch.

The parade was about half over when the president left Gov. Draper to complete the official reviewing duties.

LAWRENCE ITALIANS

HAVE A "NIGHT BEFORE" CELEBRATION

LAWRENCE, Oct. 12.—The observance of Columbus day was ushered in last evening, when the Italian residents held a parade. The observance began with a salute of bombs on the common. Accompanied by two bands the paraders proceeded from the vicinity of the city hall, carrying torches and lanterns. Following the parade a concert was given by a band.

"This morning there was another salute and a parade. At 9 o'clock high mass was celebrated in the church of the Holy Rosary by Rev. Fr. Milanese, who will also speak on "Columbus." Masses will be said in other Catholic churches.

Several thousand are expected to be in line in the parade in the afternoon, of which Capt. Frank L. Donovan is chief marshal. Mayor Cahill will review the parade at the corner of Essex and Amesbury streets. In the evening Judge M. J. Murray of Boston will deliver an address in the city hall.

CELEBRATION AT R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 12.—Rhode Islanders today united in observing Columbus day for the first time since it was made a holiday by the legislature. Throughout the state business was suspended to a considerable extent while all of the public and private schools were closed for the day. The open exercise of the day's observance here was the decoration of Columbus' monument. A little later 10,000 men marched through the city's streets in a brilliant civic pageant. One of the important events here was the presentation of medals to Gov. Aram J. Pothier, Senator William M. Fowler and Rep. George F. O'Shaughnessy in commemoration of the signing of the

ROOSEVELT AT SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 12.—Governor Deneen of Illinois met Col. Roosevelt when he arrived in Springfield at 11 o'clock today. A reception committee from the Knights of Columbus of Peoria met Col. Roosevelt there. With Gov. Deneen standing beside him on the rear platform of the train and with over 1000 persons crowding around, the crowd yelled "Give the jackpots a shaking up."

Col. Roosevelt greeted his teeth and with both fists raised aloft condemned corruption but mentioned no names and made no direct reference to alleged legislative corruption in Illinois. He declared he would go everything in his power in Illinois and every other state in opposition to corruption.

"When corruption is involved," he declared, "there are no parties, but I intend to punch the corruptionist of my own party a little tighter than the corruptionist of other parties."

CELEBRATION AT PEORIA

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 12.—With the arrival of Col. Roosevelt at 1 o'clock the arrangements for Columbus day will have been completed. He will lunch at the Country club, visit Archbishop Sullivan and be given a reception by the Knights of Columbus. In the evening he will speak at the Coliseum with Dr. Bourke Cockran of New York and W. Everett Kane.

"DISCOVERY DAY" OBSERVED

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—"Discovery Day" was generally observed in Chicago today. Twenty thousand Italian-Americans marched in parade.

ITALIAN SOCIETIES CELEBRATE

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Two big parades in which Italian societies were participants featured New York's celebration of Columbus day.

A review of school children by Cardinal Venerabili at the Queensboro bridge over the East river was another feature of the day.

OUT FOR MAYOR

SALEM, Oct. 12.—Mayor Howard's

intention of not being a candidate for the mayoralty of Salem this fall, which was heard with some surprise yesterday, has brought out a number of aspirants. Those already announced were former Mayor John F. Stanley, who is a candidate for the 11th time, Alderman William H. McSwaney, who ran second to Mayor Howard last year, and Alderman John J. Cahill.

Yesterday Herman F. Cuzlis, a former associate of Mayor Howard, and Alderman Rufus D. Adams came forth with their announcements. Both are strong Howard men and will doubtless get the support of that faction.

Mayor Howard in making the announcement that he will not be a candidate for re-election, says in part:

"Since my inauguration I have been subject to continuous and violent newspaper criticism. In a notable instance a purely malicious character, Day after day I have been insulted, humiliated and hounded as no leading official of a New England city ever was before. I have had against me the city council, the school committee and practically every city official, including my own appointees, the chief of police, whom I have consistently supported in his every endeavor to clean up the city. It is needless to say that every corruptionist and every grafter has been bolder in his underhand opposition."

"In the presence of conditions aggravating in the extreme, I am glad to be able to say that not once have I lost my temper nor forgotten the dignity of my office. Day and night I have devoted myself to the city's affairs, persistently following a policy laid down at the outset and having as its purpose only the well-being of its citizens, and to the very serious detriment of my own business and personal interests."

"As mayor of Salem, I have had bitter and delightful experiences. I am proud to have been the mayor of the proud city of Salem, and I am content to relinquish the office and give my active support to my successor insofar as his acts shall make for the enduring good of the community."

WORCESTER DYNAMITER ARRESTED

WORCESTER, Oct. 12.—Louis Fenequel of Worcester, who, the police allege, admits placing a dynamite bomb under the Foster street bridge, was arrested at his home here today. The police believe that by the arrest of Fenequel they will be able to obtain tangible clues as to the identity of the men who set off a charge of dynamite under the Franklin street bridge early Monday morning. Fenequel, according to the police, yesterday placed under the Foster street bridge a potato with dynamite inside of it. This was given to him by a man, he said, and he put it under the bridge on October 9 to hear it make a noise.

The police say that Fenequel in dress and general appearance corresponds to a man seen running away from the Franklin street bridge on a gate tender last Monday.

WORLD'S RECORD SPEAKER CANNON

For Time in Air Made Has Opposition in His Home Town

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12.—A. L. Welch in a Wright biplane yesterday created a new endurance record for America, of three hours, 11 minutes and 55 seconds. The previous record was made by Ralph Johnstone at Asbury Park, N. J., in 2 hours, 5 minutes and 40 seconds. Welch ascended at the Kinloch aviation field at 1:48 o'clock. Most of the time he flew at high altitudes.

Alfred LeBlanc, a French aviator drove his Bleriot monoplane for the first time in America at the local meet yesterday. He was greeted with enthusiasm and made two flights, one of which was highly spectacular.

ELY GIVES UP

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Eugene Ely, an aviator yesterday gave up his attempt to make a flight from Chicago to New York for the $25,000 prize offered by the Chicago Evening Post and the New York Times. Ely left his aeroplane in a field near South Chicago, 21 miles from Hawthorne park, whence he started at 4:11 p. m. and departed for Cleveland. The machine will be shipped to New York today.

Ely declared that his continued trouble with his aeroplane was due to the failure of mechanics to arrange the gasoline tank on the machine properly. He said that the gasoline feed was interrupted by a lack of a vent hole in the tank.

BOWLING NEWS

The formal opening of the bowling season took place last night when the Manufacturers' league brought itself into the line light, three games being played. In the game between the Bigelow Co. and Scott Co., the former took two points and the total the game between the Manufacturers and quintet and Tremont & Suffolk aggregation resulted in a severe trouncing for the latter team. The Appletons and Hamiltons were there with the close game for there was difference of but seven pins between the two teams when the smoke of the battle cleared away.

CONVENTION INVALID OFFICERS ARE NAMED

Another Convention Will be Held in Waltham—Lively Hearing on Recent Conventions Held in This City

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—That the democratic convention held in Lowell last Friday which nominated John J. Higgins for district attorney for the Middlesex county district was invalid but was no conspiracy was the decision rendered yesterday by Judge Richardson in the equity session of the Middlesex superior court.

Mr. Higgins, who is the republican candidate for reelection, announced in open court that he would decline to accept the democratic nomination in view of the circumstances under which the convention was called.

The hearing came as the result of a bill filed by James J. Irwin of Everett for an injunction to restrain William J. McCluskey from filing the certificate of nomination of Mr. Higgins.

Mr. Irwin charged that notices of the convention were sent out so late that only a small fraction of the delegates were present. It was alleged that Mr. Higgins and others interested in the republican county ring had conspired to pull off a snap convention and hand the party nomination to the republican candidate.

Judge Richardson, after hearing the evidence, declined to issue the injunction and absolved all persons concerned of any fraud or wrongdoing. He attributed the insufficient notice to the loose way in which by custom such conventions had been called in the past.

"I find," he said, "that the fact that the notices were sent out as they were was the result of the habitual loose way of doing such business. It was the loose way of doing things rather than any wicked design to defraud people of their rights. The charges of wickedly and wrongfully conspiring are not maintained."

"The evidence failed utterly to show that Mr. Higgins took any part in any way, directly or indirectly, in calling the convention or getting himself nominated. There is evidence to support any allegations of the bill as to him. An injunction is not needed here."

"The notices sent out were insufficient and the nomination was invalid. As to whether those having to do with the calling of a convention desire to take further action to call a convention, they may do as they see fit."

Thomas J. Boynton, counsel for the plaintiff, said that he would expunge Mr. Higgins on the charge of conspiracy.

Mr. Higgins himself stated that in view of the circumstances and the objections of Mr. Irwin he would not accept the nomination. "I am in a position to say," he added, "that I should prefer that the democrats nominate Mr. Irwin as their candidate. Of course, if a convention should be properly called and should nominate me, I should accept the nomination."

Mr. Irwin in the course of his testimony, under cross-examination, said that he had been told by Larry Smith, a detective, that one of the judges of the superior court had stated that the district attorney should have been impeached for the manner in which he conducted a recent criminal case.

His reason for implicating Mr. Higgins in the conspiracy, he said, was McCluskey's statement that he was with the county ring, and that they had to have him cover up their tracks.

Mr. Irwin further complained of Mr. Higgins' conduct toward Nelson P. Brown, of Everett, his opponent in the convention three years ago. Mr. Higgins, he said, had bargained with Brown for his nomination and had then broken his side of the bargain. Later, he charged, he had used his office to persecute Brown, attempting to indict him for perjury.

"A man of that character," said Mr. Irwin, "in my opinion is capable of doing the things that were done at Lowell."

William J. McCluskey, of Lowell, chairman of the democratic Middlesex county district attorney committee, testified that there was no intention to steal the convention or to get a snap convention. He knew, he said, of no domination by the county ring to secure the nomination.

A CONFERENCE DEVOTED SESSION TO CHILD PROTECTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Today's session of the International Humane conference here will be devoted exclusively to the discussion of child protection. Particular subjects to be dealt upon are moving-picture shows and their influence on the child and children and the theatre. The child stage will be reviewed by the delegates. The discussion on "Moving picture shows and the child" will be opened by T. H. A. Groves of New Orleans, superintendent of the Louisiana Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Pres. Durnin and Sec'y Driscoll Re-Elected Without Opposition—Convention Turns Down Plan to Form a Labor Political Party

WORCESTER, Oct. 12.—Their sessions during the past two days having developed more business than was anticipated, the delegates to the annual convention of the Massachusetts branch, American Federation of Labor, continued their deliberations today with the election of officers and a general committee reports before them. It was expected that the convention would take action before adjournment on resolutions regarding the coming state campaign in Massachusetts and on other subjects.

The election of officers was without great interest. President Durnin of Holyoke being unopposed for re-election as was Secretary-Treasurer Driscoll of Boston and most of the other officers. There were nine or ten candidates for the five vice-presidencies and nearly as many for the five places on the legislative committee. Haverhill was generally favored as the place of holding next year's convention.

In view of the discussion in the convention yesterday on the stand to be taken by the state branch in the coming elections, the report of political activity committee, headed by Chairman James W. Wall of Worcester, was awaited with much interest by the delegates. The convention yesterday voted to support independent ticket in the field but it is probable that the committee will report in favor of using the utmost strength of the state branch in fulfilling its political slogan, "Bleed our friends, defeat our enemies."

No Political Party

The proposition to form a political party which should champion the labor cause was unanimously defeated yesterday. The measure received an adverse report from the committee while Frank H. McCarthy spoke at length upon the subject and the debate lasted for two hours. It was contended by Mr. McCarthy that every precedent was against the move and that the labor unionists could not expect to get a party which would work in such harmony and have enough strength to accomplish any effective work. He advised inspection of candidates' labor records and then voting for the best man.

Declaring the 14 hour bill governing the hours of labor for women and children was eminently satisfactory and in harmony with the expressed belief of our churches of every denomination, a resolution was passed to ask the aid of the clergymen through preaching one sermon on the subject previous to the state election November 8.

J. A. Lowell of South Lawrence spoke upon "Compensation for Injured Workmen" at the afternoon session.

President Taft Will Not Act Hastily

BEVERLY, Oct. 12.—President Taft announced yesterday that he would decline to take any action whatever on recent applications for clemency in the case of Charles W. Morse, the convicted New York banker now serving a term in the federal prison at Atlanta until the papers in the case came to his desk through the regular routine channels and with a report from the department of justice.

The latest application in behalf of Morse was made today by Gilbert A. A. Peavey of Boston, whose daughter married a son of the former banker. The president told Mr. Peavey that he was not ready to act upon the case and would not until the papers had reached him and he had had time to examine them. Just when this would be, Mr. Taft said he didn't know.

While generally opposed to hearings in pardon cases, the president told Mr. Peavey he would give him a chance to be heard before he had finally disposed of the case. Mr. Peavey came to the president with a letter from Representative McCall.

President Taft's plans for the return to Washington have been completed. He has decided to stop over in New York for two days as the guest of his other, Henry W. Taft, who has just returned from Europe, and will not be back at the capital until October 20.

The president will leave Beverly next Monday afternoon the 17th and will reach New York Monday night. The visit is to be largely one of pleasure. Mr. Taft expects to attend the theatre two evenings and Mrs. Taft will finish her fall shopping.

Henry C. Ide, former governor-general of the Philippines and now minister to Spain, spent two hours with the president this afternoon.

H. F. McGregor of Texas, who has been visiting his old home in New Hampshire, saw the president yesterday and told of plans to build up the republican party in Texas.

Col. Isaac Wilman of New Haven and Charles M. Jarvis of Berlin, Conn., were among the president's visitors yesterday afternoon.

A delegation from the National Horse Shoe Manufacturers' Association, sightseeing along the North Shore, called on president Taft with a letter of introduction from Senator Lodge. The president asked his visitors if the automobile had cut into their business in any way and was told it had not been felt at all.

Mrs. Taft is still house hunting for next season. A decision as between three or four cottages between Beverly and Gloucester may be announced before the president leaves on Monday.

BOSTON & MAINE

Holds First Meeting Under New President

LAWRENCE, Oct. 12.—The annual meeting of the Boston & Maine railroad, the first under the presidency of Charles S. Mellen, was held in the Board of Trade rooms here today. The present board of directors, including former President Lucius F. Tuttle, was unopposed for re-election and as the annual report had previously been given to the stockholders and the public the meeting was without special interest.

It was expected, however, that the directors in a meeting in Boston to be held later in the day would make several changes in the duties and titles of some of the executive officers, although it was believed all would be elected.

Servant Girl Robs Employers at Brookline

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—While the family of the Rev. Francis H. Rowley was away yesterday, the Rowley home, 80 Mason terrace, in the exclusive Corey Hill section of Brookline, was ransacked of valuables estimated at $10,000 or over.

With the discovery of the robbery it was found that the hired girl, Mary Schwartz, had disappeared.

The police of Greater Boston and the surrounding cities are searching for the missing woman, who is believed to have taken away the valuables with the aid of accomplices, in an automobile.

The robbery was discovered yesterday afternoon when Miss Alice Rowley returned from a shopping trip in Boston. Every room in the house had been ransacked, bureau drawers turned upside down and everything of value in the house stolen.

The servant suspected of the robbery is between 30 and 35 years old, a blonde, and short in stature. She is said to be remarkably good looking.

She had only been employed by the Rowleys about one week and went to them from an employment bureau in Boston. She had several references from prominent people, which are thought to have been bogus.

BATHING BARRED

Residents of Palmer Must Go Unwashed

PALMER, Oct. 12.—Tub bathing, unless one cares to use the Quaboag river for a bathtub, is prohibited in an order issued by the Palmer Water Co. yesterday in an effort to conserve the rapidly diminishing supply which the town's reservoirs hold until artesian wells can be sunk and other steps taken.

The water yesterday had reached a point where it is but a few inches above the pipes through which it is pumped to the houses and stores and Chief Summers of the fire department declares that with two fire streams he could completely empty the pipes in 10 minutes. It was this condition that caused the water company to issue the notice to householders yesterday forbidding the drawing of water for bath tubs until further notice.

The water company has already made arrangements for the sinking of artesian wells to tide the town over until the reservoirs fill up again and this work was started early today. It will be several days, however, before the town will be able to draw upon this new supply to any extent.

Meanwhile, Fire Chief Summers has made arrangements for the protecting of property in case of fire to the best of his ability. The town's fire engine has been placed under a temporary shelter at the bank of the Quaboag river with lines running into the water and steam constantly up.

From the engine a line of hose 500 feet long extends to Main street in the heart of the business district ready for instant use and another to a hydrant on Water street from which the back streets of the town could be supplied if the necessity arises. In addition, a force of chemical fire extinguishers are being distributed throughout the town.

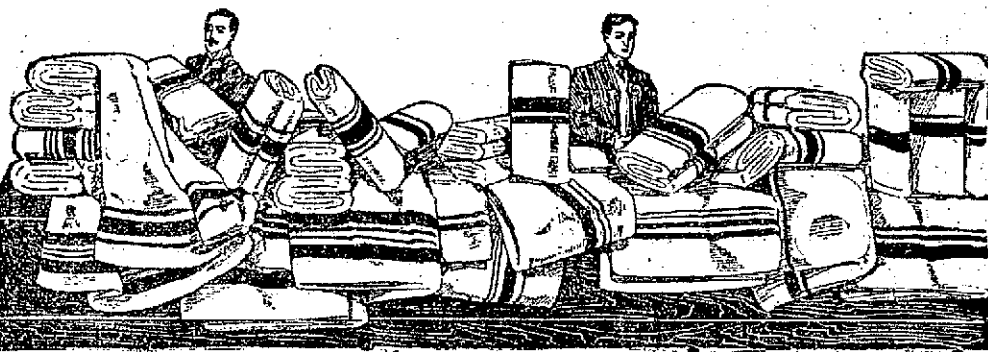

Citizens are aiding the water company officials in conserving the supply as best they can, many of these living near the river making it a point to carry water from the river for all household purposes, using the town water for drinking purposes only.

POISONED WELL

Paris Green in Water at Haverhill

HAVERHILL, Oct. 12.—The police yesterday began investigating what is believed to be an attempt to poison Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lander of 1107 Broadway and their three children, a large quantity of paris green having been thrown into their well. The family has not used the well for the past two weeks, owing to the dry spell the well having run dry.

A few days ago, when the Lander family's dog died suddenly and the cat was missing, Mr. Lander had his suspicions aroused. A quantity of the water was taken from the well for analysis and it was found to contain paris green.

Mr. Lander complained to the police yesterday. He declared he believed the water was responsible for the act of some one in dumping the poison into the well. The analysis that was made of a sample of the water showed that it contained enough poison to kill several people.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter has all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

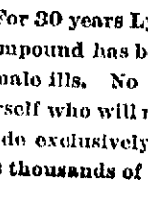

Irassburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irassburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

REFORMING THE HOUSE OF LORDS

King George of England is very anxious to have the question of reforming the house of lords settled without an appeal to the country which might result in a very radical reform that the king would be obliged to sign. King George is very anxious not to have this question thrust upon him. It was the dread of taking sides upon it that hastened the death of King Edward VII.

The house of lords has acknowledged that it needs reformation and reconstruction, and it has accepted the principle that the possession of a peerage shall no longer of itself give the right to sit and vote in the house of lords.

The house of lords has never undertaken to oppose a money bill until the recent taxation measure came up. In the past whenever the two houses of parliament disagreed, the commons attached a money bill to the measure in dispute and then the lords were obliged to accept it. In the recent measure of taxation, however, the lords considered it revolutionary and voted against it. There was an appeal to the country and a verdict against the lords. If the same question should go before the people once more the result might be disastrous. That is why the lords are ready to submit to a reasonable modification of their power.

The conference now in progress between the liberals and Tories with the Irish party as a dictating factor will probably reach a satisfactory settlement of this question without another general election. What is proposed is that the upper house shall not vote against a money measure of any kind. It is also proposed that a bill that passes the lower house three times in as many years will finally become law without the concurrence of the lords.

This, in all probability, may be the final settlement that will be agreed upon by the conference in order to let the king escape taking sides between the lords and the commons. King George is using all his influence to effect a settlement but the lords are obdurate and so are the liberal leaders, particularly Lloyd George, and he is firmly backed by Mr. Redmond who is a member of the conference committee.

There is a "dauseuse" coming to this country from Europe whose press agents, with or without her consent, seem to be booming her as the mistress of the king of Portugal. In one of the European capitals she was billed on large posters as the mistress of King Manuel, the story being that she captivated King Alfonso of Spain, and that King Manuel was afterwards smitten with her charms. Now it appears from a reliable authority that all this talk is merely for advertising purposes, with no other foundation than that when King Alfonso visited Paris he attended a performance at which the lady danced and that she visited Madrid and Lisbon in her professional role, just as she had visited Paris, Berlin, Vienna, London and other great cities.

That is the most contemptible species of advertising that can be imagined. It is not a kind that will prove profitable in this country. It not only degrades a woman's name but also the name and character of two royal personages whose alleged acquaintance with the woman some sensational writer exploits indecently for financial gain.

COLUMBUS DAY

While some objected to making Columbus day a legal holiday, on the ground that already we had quite a sufficiency of holidays, none has been found to say that Columbus is not entirely worthy of all the honor thus paid to his memory. It must be admitted that of all the men whose memory we honor by holidays, there is not one whose genius and achievement, whose name and fame, are more imperishable than those of Christopher Columbus. The discoverer of a new world, the man who lifted the veil of ocean and opened up a refuge for the oppressed of the old world, deserves all the honor we can pay his memory. His character, his genius, his perseverance are worthy subjects for contemplation by the young as calculated to inspire high aims and persistence in noble purposes.

DYNAMITE AS A PERSUADER

Two distinct attempts were made to blow up a railroad bridge on the Boston and Albany railroad a few days ago. This was presumed to be the result of some trouble between some of the employees and the contractors, but any man resorting to such cowardly tactics is taking dangerous chances as well as injuring the cause of labor everywhere.

With the nihilists of Russia and the anarchists of southern Europe the use of dynamite for the destruction of life and property is very popular, but there is always a reaction against the parties that adopt such cowardly tactics.

LYNN ADOPTS THE MODERN CHARTER

The city of Lynn follows the example of Haverhill in adopting the commission form of government, providing for a small governing body instead of the triple-headed regime consisting of a double chamber and the mayor. It is quite likely that some other cities finding difficulty in getting good results under the old form of charter will follow the example of Lynn. Results are what the citizens look for, and the municipalities that have adopted these modern charters can show satisfactory results.

President Smith of the Mormon church has issued a manifesto stating that polygamy must be stopped. We had been repeatedly assured that polygamy was long ago abandoned by the Mormons and that they lived in obedience to the law forbidding the vice.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

The New York State labor commissioner has appointed Miss Frances A. Kellor of New York as chief investigator in the state labor department at a salary of $2,500 per annum. She is to have entire charge of the new bureau of industries and immigration created by the last legislature. Commissioner Williams said that he selected Miss Kellor because of her familiarity with the problems connected with the bureau. She had been appointed by Governor Hughes as a member of the special commission which investigated the question of immigration, and she was strongly interested in social problems.

A New York store is having a model house built for exhibition purposes at Montclair, N. J. The house will take into account every requirement of a modern family and will be richly furnished. Concrete will be the material.

Several well known English writers, including Katherine Tynan, Aymer Maude, Cecil Shapp, Grace Rhys, and others are interested in a new English magazine which is to make its first appearance during the current month. It is to be called the "Vineyard" and advocates especially the cultivation of progressive thought and action in country life.

Miss Mary B. Lewis, who has just observed her 79th birthday anniversary at her home in Brooklyn, has taught a Sunday school class in the Porteur Congregational church in that city for 35 years. For a long time she has not missed a session of the school, despite her advanced age.

Mrs. Susan Preston Draper, widow of General William Draper, has offered to present Congregational Park and statue of General Draper to the town of Milford, on condition that the plot remain forever without buildings and that the town shall forever maintain it as a park. The townspeople, at a special meeting the other night voted to accept the gift.

Superintendent Leonard of the Ohio state reformatory, at a conference in Washington, D. C., said that 200 boys from his institution were out on probation and were doing well. The young criminals, he said, was not so bad as they were once thought to be, when released, unless his feet rested on "the rock of economic independence." The Ohio State Journal remarks that the same proposition regarding economic independence is true, whether applied to the rich, the poor or the criminal young man.

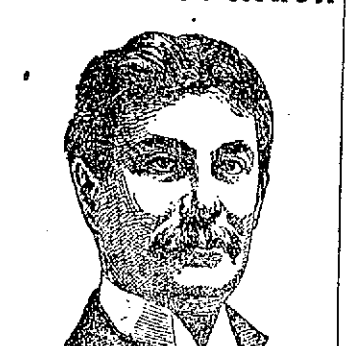

T. C. McNabb of Malvern, Kan., married last month Mrs. R. Deaver of Elson, N. M. He is 77 and she is 65, and this is his fourth marriage. He was not as cheerful as the conventional bridegroom, for he had the prospect of a greater cost of living than when he embarked on his previous ventures, the fact being brought gallantly to mind by the increased cost for the marriage license. He was made so pessimistic by the outlook that he declared that if the present Mrs. McNabb should die he would not marry again.

Col. John S. Mosby, a confederate cavalry leader, has presented the national museum with a pair of crutches which he used in the war, whenever he was injured. He was wounded often, and General Lee is said to have remarked that the only thing he did not like about Mosby was the frequency with which he was injured. The crutches are not pieces of finished workmanship, but are, as the phrase goes, "home made." They are simple.

HOW TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

It is truly remarkable how Cadum, the new remedy, causes pimples to disappear. Bad cases are frequently helped in a week, and sometimes even sooner. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum helps these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes because it can be applied direct to the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cadum is equally good for rash, blotches, scaly skin, chafings, eczema, sores, eruptions, acne, psoriasis, etc. 70c and 25c per box at all druggists.

Don't Pay a Dentist Too Much

Your local dentist will charge you about four times as much as I would—he doesn't do much business, so he must "get it out of you"; besides he doesn't know how to do it painlessly, and, in nine cases out of ten he performs operations with old-fashioned instruments, which enable him to do only inferior work. My inventions I control solely, and when anything new comes out I buy it. Remember—my patents get the latest and best, and for less money.

Best set Teeth good set $5. Gold crowns $4, bridge work $5, gold fillings $1 up, other fillings 50c; painless extraction free when sets are ordered.

General Booth's state of health, which has been much discussed of late, is sufficient to be satisfactory to allow arrangements to be made for a German preaching and lecturing tour, which he will undertake later in the autumn. He will probably before returning to England visit Denmark, where his youngest daughter is territorial commandant of the Salvation Army. As regards his eyes, while the sight of one is entirely gone that of the other is blurred by a cataract, such an extent that General Booth cannot recognize close quarters. At most he perceives them in vague outline. Still, on occasion he manages to write a few lines in a large hand where he has some special interest in doing so. Other wise he dictates everything. Apart from this he is in excellent spirits and his bodily and mental vigour continues to be remarkable for a man of his years. He will be 82 next spring.

MOVEMENT ON TO HAVE THEM IMPROVED

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 12.—The fact that of the 27,000 miles of inland waterways of the United States less than seven per cent have been improved to a stage furnishing continuous navigation, notwithstanding the first appropriation was made more than seventy-five years ago, is not attributable to the doubt of the great benefits that would come to the entire country should these waterways be made navigable at all seasons of the year. The fact is to be attributed to the lack of means to the desired end; to inadequate appropriations irregularly made with the inadequacy and irregularity due to the lack of a comprehensive policy on the part of the federal government with reference to the work to be done.

Latly, however, under the spur of President Taft, a change has come over, not only congress but the representatives of the administrative branch of the government and it is believed another river and harbor bill, sound the death-knell to sporadic appropriations for improvements, and the policy adopted of hastening to completion meritorious projects whose practicability has been thoroughly demonstrated.

To those who have been following the legislation providing money for waterway improvements, a change for the better is decidedly noticeable. In the last river and harbor bill being far in advance of its predecessors as to the projects appropriated for, the merit-

Itching and Burning Terrible. Appearance Worse. Had Specialists and X-Ray, with Some Success. Others without Relief. Used Cuticura. In 4 Days Relieved. Inside of 2 Weeks Cured.

"I had been suffering with psoriasis for a period of ten years. It would disappear occasionally for a year or so and then return in worse form than before. The last attack came on a little over a year ago and by early summer it covered me all over. The itching and burning were terrible, and my appearance was worse. I had tried different specialists and had the X-rays and on me, sometimes with some success and at others without. In the early fall of 1909 I was induced to try the Cuticura treatment, by a party who had heard of a remarkable cure it had made, and I confess that I started in, but without faith, but with every prejudice against the merit of Cuticura. I was relieved of the inconvenience and inside of two weeks cured, except for a slight discoloration of the skin, which wore off in a few weeks. I subsequently gave my friend Mr. [Name] who had the same trouble. When he saw the wonderful effect of Cuticura upon me, he at once started the entire treatment and was well in about ten days. I beg to thank you for the relief you have given me, and if any one wants my testimony as to the merit of Cuticura for that trouble and will send me a stamped envelope with their address on it, I will be glad to send them a recommendation under my own signature. rious character of these projects having been the subject of exhaustive study on the part of those having the preparation of the bill in charge. And yet that bill, notwithstanding it marked a radical departure was not entirely satisfactory to President Taft and he frankly said so to congress, serving notice on the law makers that if underserving projects were provided for in future bills, a veto would ensue. With the threatened veto before them it is confidently believed that the river and harbor bill to pass at this session of congress will be a model bill, while liberal in character, it will appropriate only for those projects that have the unqualified endorsement of the board of engineers charged with this purpose. The "pork barrel" must so as it relates to waterways and the great body of our citizenship, interested in the improvements of the natural inland waterways of the nation, will welcome the new order of things.

The first great step in the effective step-in waterway improvement was taken when the National Rivers and Harbors congress awakened public sentiment to the fact that the one right program was in the formulation of a national policy as against the old plan of tinkering with the special project. And this policy now written into the statute books, will be still further endorsed when the National Rivers and Harbors congress meets in this city December 7, 8 and 9 next. At that time President Taft will emphasize his position upon this great question, a question that grows with the country's greatness.

In addition to President Taft, acceptance to make addresses during the days of the congress have been received from the Hon. Clifford Sifton, chairman of the commission of conservation of the Canadian government; the American ambassador, Senator Don Cameron, of Maine; Harry W. Water, S. Dickey of Kansas City, who is the chief promoter of the Missouri river steamboat line; F. W. Crandall, national chairman, railroad committee of the Travelers' Protective Association, of America and Mrs. Hoyle Tomkins, president of the Woman's National Rivers and Harbors congress.

DIX FOR GOVERNOR FAMINE THREATENED

New York's Democratic Candidate Formally Accepts

THOMSON, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Planting himself squarely upon the platform adopted by the Rochester state convention and pledging his support to the principles enunciated therein, John A. Dix today formally accepted the nomination as the candidate of the democratic party for the office of governor of the state of New York.

Herbert P. Bissell, of Buffalo, the convention's presiding officer, officially notified Mr. Dix and the other candidates on the state ticket of their nomination.

National questions of grave importance, aside from questions of good government within the state, Mr. Bissell said are involved in this election.

"They relate to public extravagance in national affairs," he said. "There is also involved the curbing of the insatiable and reckless ambition of a former president of the United States, whose record, doctrines and methods present a menace to constitutional government and business prosperity."

In his speech of acceptance, delivered from a temporary platform extending out from the porch of his country residence here, Mr. Dix promised, if elected, to give the people of the state a business administration.

"There does not exist today," declared the candidate, "a human being who will attempt to deny that for years corruption has run riot in the official life of our capital. I do not know that it is possible for human agency to entirely eradicate this evil, but this I do know, if I become governor of this state I will turn on the searchlight and drive the black horse cavalry out of business."

Mr. Dix said he favored home rule for cities and sub-divisions of the state; a downward revision of the tariff; a statewide system of direct primaries; statewide uniform personal registration, popular election of United States senators and ratification of the income tax amendment to the federal constitution.

"But above all," said the candidate

Paris in the Throes of a Gigantic Strike

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Encouraged by the effectiveness of the strike of employees on the Northern and Western railroads and the extension of the movement today, the eastern road and the Paris Lyons and Mediterranean lines, the leaders of the French workmen generally threatened a gigantic move to paralyze the activities of the whole country. Paris is threatened with famine.

The electricians and the employees of the omnibus, metropolitan and subway transportation lines of this city consider today the advisability of joining this favorable opportunity to launch a strike for a redress of long standing grievances. The situation throughout the republic is regarded as grave. To the government's call to the colors to 30,000 strikers the latter reply that the military code allows them a delay of 15 days before responding.

Up to this afternoon the acts of violence have been confined to the cutting of telegraph wires and the tearing up of the tracks at several points.

The Paris end of the western road strike is complete. The highways leading to Paris are blocked with humanity and the congestion was frightful at the city gate. Already the market is pinched. All the milk and fish come from Normandy and Belgium are stalled. The president of the grain syndicate said that the stock of flour in the Paris market today did not exceed 75,000 quintals. Paris consumes 10,000 quintals daily. The bakers, since some of them were accused of an attempt to corner flour at the time of the flood, do not carry a heavy reserve.

The National railroad union comprises only 100,000 of the total of 300,000 men employed in the railroad service but the non-union men are participating in the strike.

The government is adopting measures similar to those practiced in time of war.

DEATHS

KING—Jennie King, five-year-old daughter of John J. and Della C. King, died yesterday at the Lowell hospital. The body was removed to the home of the parents, 438 Eustis avenue, by Undertaker C. H. Molloy & Sons. Besides her parents, the deceased leaves three sisters, Mary, Anna and Helen.

DAVIS—Margaret Anna Davis, infant daughter of Wilber C. and Catherine J. Davis, died this morning at the home of her parents, 107 Chapel street, aged two months.

KING—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John J. King of 438 Eustis avenue will be pained to learn of the death of their little daughter, Jennie, aged five years, which occurred yesterday afternoon. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon.

FUNERALS

GILMAN—The funeral of Mrs. Martha Ellen Gilman, the beloved wife of Warren Gilman, took place from her residence, 50 Varnum street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was largely attended. There were many beautiful offerings. The services were conducted by Rev. M. T. Whitaker, pastor of the Central M. E. church, and the following selections, "Nearer, My God, To Thee," "One By One" and "We'll Never Say Goodbye," were sung by Mrs. F. L. Roberts and Harry Stocks. The bearers were William Cioe, John Gale, James Leighton, and Edward Goward. The committal services were held at the grave and the burial was in the family lot in the Edison cemetery in charge of Undertaker J. B. Currier Co.

BYAM—The funeral of George Otis Byam was held yesterday afternoon from his residence on the Boston road, Chelmsford, and was very largely attended. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. The services were conducted by Rev. L. L. Greene, pastor of the Unitarian church. The selections, "Lead Kindly Light," "Gone With The Wind," and "The Homeland," were given by Mrs. Geo. Spaulding and Edward Everett Adams. The bearers were four sons of the deceased, Ralph, Otis, James and Herbert Byam. The body was laid at rest in the family lot at Hart pond cemetery, South Chelmsford. The arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Perham.

BERNARD—The funeral of Helen Bernard, infant daughter of Fred and Helen, took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her parents, 297 Duane street. The burial was in the Edison cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

CHARLES GILBERT

FAMOUS BARITONE DIED SUD- DENLY IN HOTEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Charles Gilbert, the well known French opera baritone, died suddenly last night here at a hotel. News of Mr. Gilbert's death did not become known until today. He arrived from Europe last week to sing in the coming season with the Metropolitan opera company after four seasons with the Manhattan company.

Mr. Gilbert was to have sung next week with the Boston symphony orchestra at Boston and Cambridge, Mass.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION CALL FOR FRIDAY

At democratic headquarters this morning it was announced that the Seventh district democratic senatorial convention, which comprises wards 5 and 9 of Lowell, ward 6 of Lynn, and several towns, would be held in Lowell, democratic headquarters, Friday afternoon, October 14th, at 3 o'clock. The democratic headquarters are located at 228 Central street. The call has been issued legally by the chairman of the district committee, Edward Gallagher, who is also a member at large of the democratic state central committee for the fifth democratic congressional district.

BARNES OF N. Y.

Quits the Republican State Committee

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Contending that his party loyalty had been questioned through the failure of E. P. Trenchard, the new chairman of the republican state committee, to reappoint him a member of the executive committee of the state committee, William Barnes, Jr., of Albany has tendered his resignation as state committeeman from the 23rd congressional district, comprising Albany and Schenectady counties. Mr. Barnes led the fight against the nomination of Col. Roosevelt as temporary chairman of the republican state convention at Saratoga.

In his letter Mr. Barnes says: "In reading the list of the members of the executive committee of the state committee announced by you this morning, I find that my name is not among the number."

"The mere fact of membership in the executive committee is entirely unimportant, but after having served as a member of that committee ever since I first elected to the state committee in 1892 the omission involves the inevitable conclusion that your action was caused either by your belief that my services would not be useful or that I was faithless to the republican ticket. Under neither supposition can I rest."

"Having been a member of the executive committee for 18 years, if my services are no longer useful or if my party loyalty is questioned by you as the head of the organization, then I am no longer qualified to serve under you as a member of the state committee."

MORE ARTILLERY

Murray for Stronger Coast Defence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Brigadier-General Murray, chief of coast artillery, in his annual report to the war department on the efficiency of personnel of the service strongly advocates an increased detail of artillery troops to man the coast defense of this government.

"It is believed to be established beyond dispute," says General Murray in his report, "that in order to insure efficient handling of our coast defense in time of war it is necessary that we should maintain in time of peace at least one full manning detail of coast artillery troops."

"In time of war we must have at each place likely to attack such a number of coast artillery troops that they will be sufficient not only to form a full manning detail but to maintain a full manning detail, allowing for absentees, sick and wounded. And in case of a long continued attack or siege it is more than probable that for some of the elements if not all it will be necessary to maintain more than one full manning detail in order to provide relief."

The report shows that the actual strength of the coast artillery corps on July 1, 1910, was 834 officers and 18,109 enlisted men. The authorized strength on that date was 672 officers and 19,321 enlisted men. The fact that the number enrolled is so near the authorized strength was ascribed by General Murray to the fact that congress in 1908 authorized an increase in pay to all grades in the service.

COMMON COUNCIL

Board of Health Wants $7700 Additional

The common council at a regular meeting held last night voted to adhere to its former action to appropriate $2000 additional for the wages of street laborers.

The board of health asked for an additional appropriation of $7700 for salaries and sundries. The communication was referred to the committee on appropriations.

A communication from the park commission reporting adversely on a proposed new playground near Hudson and Richardson streets was placed on file.

A communication from Supt. Whitcomb of the school department, relative to the law demanding new drinking cups, was referred to the inspector of buildings.

The order for $300 for Columbus day came up on reconsideration, the council having voted against the order at the last meeting. Councilmen Gargan and Sullivan were of the opinion that action at this time was unnecessary, and it was voted to table the matter.

SWISS GOV'T

PREPARES TO COMMUNICATE WITH PORTUGAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The Swiss government is preparing to enter into communication with the new government of Portugal, according to advices today from American Minister Swenson at Bern. Minister Gage at Lisbon cabled yesterday's date that the king's yacht Amélia, after leaving the royal family at Gibraltar, returned to Lisbon, where she was delivered into the hands of the government in power.

KING MANUEL

WILL BE THE GUEST OF DUKE OF ORLEANS

EVESHAM, England, Oct. 12.—King Manuel of Portugal and Queen Mother Amélia have accepted the invitation of the Duke of Orleans to become his guests in Wood Norton. The queen mother and king will embark on the Victoria and Albert as soon as the imperial yacht reaches Gibraltar and proceed at once to England.

The house in which Amélia spent her childhood stands on the duke's estate, a short distance from Wood Norton.

Will be Confiscated at Lisbon

LISBON, Oct. 11.—A detachment of soldiers making their rounds at the Campolide Jesuit college this morning, was fired upon. One of the men was killed and another seriously wounded. Minister of the Interior Almeida, questioned regarding the disposal of the king's property, said that nothing had yet been decided upon officially. All the palaces are closed and carefully guarded. "They probably will be converted into museums or schools, or used for other public purposes. He believed that any property or palaces belonging to the king personally would be kept for him, but it is to be remembered that if the king left debts to the nation, these debts must be satisfied."

NOVEL DISPLAY

IN THE SHOE STORE OF FRED H. PEARSON

Have you seen it? There's no doubt that you have, or else, someone must have told you about it, for it is the talk of the town. What is it? Well, if you have not heard as yet I suppose curiosity will grasp you and you will be uneasy until the spell is broken. That which we refer to is the wax figures in the window display at the store of Fred H. Pearson on Merrimack street. There's certainly "some class" to the display and it is the most novel which has ever been shown in this city in connection with the shoe business. The introduction of life size figures in the shoe business was always considered as a good thing but some of the most popular shoe merchants of the country looked upon the introducing of the figures with the display of their goods as ridiculous and would not give any thought to the idea. After some work and likewise persuasion on the part of the men behind the project, the men who had previously been against the innovation decided to try it—with the result that it created a furor on account of its novel conception and was immediately accepted and placed in almost every store in the union.

It remained for Fred Pearson to place the novelty in this city and this he has done with the same alacrity that he has brought other novelties in his line here.

FUNERAL NOTICE

KING—The funeral of Jennie King will take place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her parents, John J. and Della C. King, 438 Eustis avenue. The burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery. C. H. Molloy and Sons undertakers in charge.

Faint?

Have you weak heart, dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals? Or do you experience pain over the heart, shortness of breath on going upstairs and the many distressing symptoms which indicate poor circulation and bad blood? A heart tonic, blood and body-builder that has stood the test of over 40 years of cures is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

The heart becomes regular as clock-work. The red blood corpuscles are increased in number—and the nerves in turn are well fed. The arteries are filled with good rich blood. That is why nervous debility, irritability, fainting spells, disappear and are overcome by this alternative extract of medicinal roots put up by Dr. Pierce without the use of alcohol. Ask your neighbor. Many have been cured of scrofulous conditions, ulcers, "fever-sores," white swellings, etc., by taking Dr. Pierce's Discovery. Just the refreshing and vitalizing tonic needed for excessive tissue waste, in convalescence from fevers or for run-down, anemic, thin-blooded people. Stick to this safe and sure remedy and refuse all "just as good" kinds offered by the dealer who is looking for a larger profit. Nothing will do you half as much good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.
